GUATEMALA REVOLT CHIEF FLYING TO CAPITAL TODAY; REBELS DISLIKE PEACE PACT

CASTILLO ADMITS SETTLEMENT IS DISAPPOINTING TO MOST OF HIS AIDS

But He Is Sure Junta Will Drive Out Reds — Question of Top Man Still Issue — Judge Is Executed.

By JACK RUTLEDGE

GUATEMALA CITY, July 3 (AP)—Rebel leader Col. Carlos Castillo Armas planned to fly to this capital today to discuss his role in Guatemala's new anti-Communist government, but dissatisfaction in the ranks of the leader's "Liberation Army" dimmed the triumph of the occasion.

Castillo acknowledged at his Chiquimula headquarters yesterday that "most of my men are not satisfied with the agreement reached in San Salvador."

The peace pact, signed with Col. Elfego Monzon in the capital of neighboring El Salvador, patched together a five-man junta. Monzon was allowed to remain on as government chief until the junta elects a permanent head in 15 days.

Red Judge Executed.

Romulo Reyes Flores, a Honduran Communist lawyer who served as a judge in the administration of deposed President Jacobo Arbenz, was executed by a firing squad in the prison yard here yesterday.

Reyes Flores was accused of sending a number of anti-Communists to jail at Salama after an abortive uprising there last year. All were tortured and four were assassinated in their cells. None received a trial.

Authorities of the new regime said the ex-judge killed a policeman while resisting arrest last Wednesday.

Castillo was scheduled to arrive in Guatemala City this afternoon and was expected to return to Chiquimula tonight or early tomorrow. He said he would lead his army into the capital in a week or so.

It was not known whether Monzon also planned to return to the Guatemalan capital today.

Welcome Fiesta Fizzles.

Both colonels were expected back yesterday, and Guatemala put on a big fiesta to welcome them. The celebration, starting out gaily with popping fireworks and clanging church bells, fizzled out as the two men failed to show up.

Castillo flew back to Chiquimula to explain the San Salvador settlement to his disappointed aids and prepare his troops for entry into the capital.

He said he was satisfied with the settlement ending the two-week revolt because it was victory over the Reds.

"I am entirely sure," he added, "the junta will eliminate the Communists."

Still to be resolved was the question of whether Castillo or Monzon would hold top power. Besides the two leaders, the five-man junta includes one member of Castillo's insurgent government and two from Monzon's regime. Junta decisions will be by majority vote.

First Aim Achieved, He Says.

By ousting the Arbenz regime, Castillo said, the revolutionists

PENTAGON OFFICER HELD IN 'THRILL' THEFTS AT HOTEL

LAS VEGAS, Nev., July 3 (UP) — An Air Force colonel from the Pentagon was held today on suspicion of burglarizing hotel rooms "for a thrill."

Police said the colonel, Robert H. Orr, 36 years old, admitted "doing it for a thrill" when questioned on part of the accusations. He denied other charges, they said.

Orr was arrested yesterday shortly after guests at a hotel told police they surprised him in their room. The guests said Orr, in civilian clothes, explained he had been sent to repair the plumbing.

Air Force officials identified Orr as the administrative assistant to Maj. Gen. Robert Burns, assistant vice-chief of staff of the Air Force in Washington.

Police said Orr had one of the most complete burglary kits they had ever seen when he was arrested.

An unidentified colonel at the Pentagon reported Orr, who has an outstanding war record, suffered a nervous breakdown in 1952, but was thought to have recovered. The officer said Orr was one of the "best liked" officers at the Pentagon headquarters. He had been traveling around the country on orders from Washington.

EISENHOWERS FLEE WASHINGTON HEAT FOR LONG WEEKEND

THURMONT, Md., July 3 (UP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower relaxed at the presidential retreat in the cool Catoctin mountains of Maryland today away from the sweltering mid-90 degree heat of the capital.

The first family drove to Camp David near here yesterday afternoon to spend the long Fourth of July weekend. They will return to Washington late Monday.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower planned to motor to their nearby Gettysburg (Pa) farm today to inspect progress on the renovation of their century-old house where they plan to retire some day.

The presidential party drove to Thurmont yesterday by way of picturesque Leesburg, Va. This was not the route the President usually takes to Camp David. However, Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman said the round-about trip was not the result of a Maryland state police alert for a car possibly carrying armed Puerto Ricans along the highway the President normally takes. Baughman indicated he thought the police alert was "a case of mistaken identity."

SANITY HEARING FOR HERMANN SET THURSDAY

Summons Is Issued for Ex-Mental Patient Charged With Sharp Killing.

A sanity hearing for Thomas P. Hermann, former mental patient charged with the murder of Dr. Cecil A. Z. Sharp, will be held Thursday in probate court at Clayton.

The hearing was set today after Probate Judge Walter Stahlhuth issued an information alleging that Hermann was a person of unsound mind. The information was based on an affidavit by Police Lt. Walter Haller of Ladue, who asked that an inquiry be held.

Deputies immediately set out to serve a summons for the hearing on Hermann, who spent three months in the state hospital at Farmington after being adjudged of unsound mind Dec. 20, 1950.

In the meantime, police continued 24-hour guard on the Sharp home, 9243 Clayton road, Ladue, while search was being made for the 22-caliber firearm used in killing the former St. Louis county health commissioner Tuesday night.

Hermann, a neighbor, was released yesterday on $15,000 bond, despite fears of Ladue residents that he might harm himself or others. Bond for the 22-year-old former mental patient was provided by his mother, Mrs. Marguerite A. Hermann, who listed her net worth as $55,000.

Authorities obtained a new search warrant today for another visit to the Hermann home, which was not searched until Wednesday afternoon although Thomas and his brother James were arrested for questioning within 30 minutes of the killing Tuesday.

James Hermann was not charged. He accompanied his brother to a hearing before Magistrate John B. Stevens at Clayton yesterday.

Dr. Sharp, 46 years old, resigned as county health commissioner in 1948 to become area medical administrator for the welfare and retirement fund of the United Mine Workers of America. His territory covered six states and part of a seventh.

TAX BILL SENT TO CONFERENCE, DIVIDEND RELIEF ONLY BIG ISSUE

Senate Vote Is 63 to 9—Senator George Predicts Heavy Administration Pressure for Stockholders.

(Summary on Page 2A.)

WASHINGTON, July 3 (UP)—House-Senate differences over a proposal to give a tax break to corporation stockholders today remained the only major issue still to be worked on in the Administration's tax reform bill.

The Senate passed the 875-page bill late yesterday by a vote of 63 to 9 after five days of debate. The House approved it March 18.

Senator Symington (Dem.), Missouri, and Illinois Senators Douglas (Dem.) and Dirksen (Rep.) voted for the bill on final passage.

The measure now goes to a House-Senate conference committee for adjustment of hundreds of differences. The chief one developed because the Senate scrapped nearly all of the Administration-backed provision to give tax relief on corporation stock dividend income.

Compromise Predicted.

Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, senior Democrat among the Senate conferees, told reporters he expects heavy Administration pressure to salvage at least part of the provision. He said also a compromise is likely.

The Senate's relatively expeditious performance in handling the big tax bill in five days of steady floor action included consideration of 52 amendments, 35 of which were approved. There were 10 rollcall votes during the debate.

The bill calls for the first sweeping overhaul of federal tax laws in 80 years. It contains provisions giving income tax cuts to groups of individuals such as working widows with child-care expenses, retired persons and families with heavy medical expenses.

It also contains many more controversial disputed provisions aimed at stimulating business expansion and creating jobs.

The tax reductions would cost the Treasury more than $1,300,000,000 in the current fiscal year. The Treasury will gain about $1,200,000,000 from a provision renewing the 52 per cent corporate income tax rate for a year through next March 31.

No General Reduction.

Neither the House nor Senate approved a general income tax reduction, which the Administration opposed because of the federal deficit. Hence this issue will not be before the conference committee.

The Senate in the last three days defeated four proposals calling for a general tax reduction. Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, led the final tax-cut drive which was defeated 62 to 15. Symington and Dirksen voted against sending the bill back to committee.

On the dividend income issue, the Senate agreed only to exclude the first $50 of a taxpayer's dividend income from his taxable income.

The House provision carries this $50 exemption the first year and would also allow a taxpayer to deduct 5 per cent of the balance of his dividend income from his tax bill. In future years the figures would be $100 and 10 per cent.

George suggested that a probable compromise would leave the $50 exemption and the 5 per cent dividend income credit. Senate Administration leaders indicated willingness to settle for that formula this week before they abandoned the 5 per cent credit completely.

The dividend provision was advanced as a way of providing relief from so-called double taxation for stockholders receiving income from corporations already subject to income tax.

2 HELD IN 'BESTIAL' FIRECRACKER USE IN BURNING OF BOY

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 3. — The "bestial and sadistic" use of firecrackers to injure a nine-year-old boy caused a felony court judge yesterday to hold two 18-year-old youths on $5000 bail each for hearing July 8.

John Dunn and George Sheey were charged with putting salutes in the pants pockets of Stephen Tierney. The resulting explosions sent the boy to a hospital with second-degree burns.

When the accused youths were taken into court, Assistant District Attorney Albert Loening requested an adjournment for further investigation and asked for bail of $1000 each.

"That is much too low," said Magistrate Hilda Schwartz. "This is a bestial and sadistic case—$5000 bail each."

John Tierney, father of the injured boy, said, "The one I would like to catch up with is the one who sold the firecrackers; he is the one to be blamed and jailed." Sale of fireworks in New York is illegal.

FRENCH GIVE UP PHU LY, SOUTHERN END OF NEW DEFENSE LINE IN DELTA

SENATE'S G.O.P. LEADERS WEIGH SIX-MONTH LIMIT ON FOREIGN AID

Knowland Says Such Action Is One of Several Congress Might Take to Bar Red China From U.N.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Senate Republican leaders today considered a move to limit foreign aid appropriations to six months and thus force a new appraisal of America's foreign problems next January.

Confirming that such a proposal was being discussed, Senator William F. Knowland of California, the G.O.P. floor leader, said this was one of several possible actions Congress might take to oppose Chinese Communist admission to the United Nations.

"I think you can be safe in assuming that there is going to be affirmative action in this session of Congress on this issue," Knowland said in an interview.

He said another possibility might be an amendment to the foreign aid authorization bill to withdraw United States financial support to the U.N. if any nation ever declared an aggressor—as Communist China was in Korea—were taken into membership.

Two Urge Withdrawal.

Knowland and Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, have called for the withdrawal of the United States from the U.N. if that body accepts the Peiping government as members despite American opposition.

In debate in the Senate yesterday, Johnson declared: "Our basic foreign policy is at the crossroads."

The development foreshadowed a lively discussion when the foreign aid bill, now before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, comes up for floor debate.

A high government official, who declined to be quoted by name, said the Administration is working behind the scenes to line up support within the U.N. General Assembly to prevent the issue of Red China's admission from coming to a vote.

The official said the Administration believes it will be successful in warding off such a move, and until the results of this effort are apparent will not make any decision on possible withdrawal from the U.N.

The move for a January review of foreign aid expenditures apparently would be aimed at convincing American allies there might be financial consequences if they fail to support this country in its opposition to Peiping recognition.

George Favors Cut.

Although Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations committee yesterday that any move to cut down the $3,500,000,000 total of the Administration's foreign aid request might be interpreted abroad as "a reversal of our foreign policy," Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, senior committee Democrat, served notice he will seek to cut down the new money to be made available.

George told his colleagues he would propose that present restrictions be lifted on previously appropriated, but still unused foreign aid funds so that President Eisenhower could direct their expenditure anywhere at any time.

42 AUTO DEATHS, 4 DROWNINGS AT START OF HOLIDAY

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP) — Forty-two traffic fatalities, four drownings, and six deaths from miscellaneous causes were reported in the first few hours of the long Fourth of July holiday weekend. Three of the traffic fatalities were in Illinois.

The National Safety Council has estimated there will be 430 persons killed in motor accidents during the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. yesterday to midnight Monday. The council estimated also that 40,000,000 cars would be on the highways during the holiday period.

There were 434 violent deaths in the two-day July holiday last year. Included were 262 traffic accidents; 121 drownings; 50 from miscellaneous causes and one from fireworks.

An Associated Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday June 18 to midnight Monday June 21, the same time span as the July 4 holiday, showed 430 violent deaths. These included 225 traffic; 136 drownings and 70 from miscellaneous causes.

The record July 4 three-day violent death toll was 676 in 1949. The largest July 4 three-day traffic toll was 366 in 1952.

PARIS INSISTS U.S. KNEW OF INDOCHINA PULL-BACK

Foreign Ministry Spokesman Says There Have Been Constant Contacts Between American, French Officials.

PARIS, July 3 (AP)—A French Foreign Ministry spokesman insisted today the United States had been informed in advance of the abandonment to the Communist-led Vietminh of the southern part of the Red river delta in Indochina.

The spokesman said there have been constant contacts between French and United States officials in France, the United States and Indochina. The withdrawal, known as "Operation Auvergne," was planned a month ago.

Asked about the discrepancy between this statement and State Department press officer Henry Suydam's, denying that information had been received in advance, the French spokesman offered two possible explanations:

1. "Certain people" are doing their best to make trouble between the United States and France.

2. Information sometimes fails to get passed between the Defense and the State Department in the United States.

There was no immediate comment on the United States expression of "grave concern" over the operation. The ministry has denied the withdrawal was a result of a secret agreement with the Vietminh, or was anything but a military operation, dictated by the need to strengthen French lines.

GEN. ELY TO DEFEND DELTA, HE SAYS ON HIS DEPARTURE FROM PARIS

PARIS, July 3 (AP).

GEN. PAUL ELY, French high commissioner and commander-in-chief of military forces in Indochina, left Paris last night to return to his post after a round of high-level consultations here. He declared the Red river delta would be defended against the Communist-led Vietminh.

"I have the responsibility of defending the delta," the general told reporters at the airfield. "I have regrouped my forces to assure this defense in the best conditions.

"This operation was foreseen and delayed for several weeks. It is purely military and has no connection with any assumptions that may have been made as to its import."

There have been reports that the French withdrawal might have been agreed to with the Vietminh.

MAJOR'S NAME IS GENERAL, ARMY HAS HARD TIME

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Typographically, at least, the right name can work wonders in the Army. Witness: Maj. Hefley.

Hefley, a reserve officer, was ordered to report for a 16-week course at the Fort Leavenworth (Kan.) command and general staff school. His instructions were addressed to "Majgen P. Hefley."

Why, a Leavenworth times staff member asked, was a major general assigned to this course designed for officers of far lower rank?

The Pentagon finally cleared up the mystery today: Hefley's orders, the Army said, should have carried a period or at least a space between "Maj" and "Gen." It admitted that orders are usually written with the first name spelled out and the middle initial given.

Hefley's given names are "General Pershing," it said, and he is going to Fort Leavenworth from the First Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex.

BASQUE HUNTERS TO BEAT BRUSH FOR BOA ON LOOSE

12-Foot Snake That Escaped From Circus Two Years Ago Has Been Living in Dump

OLORON, France, July 3 (AP)—Hunters from the Basque country of southern France are going to beat the pine forests of the Pyrenees mountains tomorrow for unusual game—a 12-foot boa constrictor.

A circus lost him two years ago when he was only a little fellow. Since then he has been seen occasionally on the Oloron town dump, where burning garbage provided both food and an approximation of his native tropical climate.

TRAVELERS RUSH TO LEAVE CITY ON LONG WEEKEND

Heavy Influx of Visitors to St. Louis Expected Also — Road Traffic Heavy.

Trains, busses and airliners were crowded and a steady stream of traffic roared along highways today as many St. Louisans left the city for out-of-town observances of the extended Fourth of July holiday.

As in the case with the Memorial day weekend, the mobile celebrators got started early. The Missouri Highway Patrol reported traffic on the highways began to pick up about 3 p.m. yesterday and continued throughout the night.

Bus and train depots felt the start of the travel rush as early as Thursday evening and by last night the traffic was heavy.

Continued hot and partly cloudy weather, with the likelihood of occasional thundershowers, was predicted for the holidays in the St. Louis area. Maximum temperatures in the upper 90s were expected through Monday.

Extra sections were placed in operation by bus lines and railroads provided additional cars to take care of the load. In most cases the extra equipment will continue in service through Monday night or Tuesday.

All available equipment was pressed into service by the air lines to accommodate extra passengers, who seemed to be headed away from St. Louis in all directions.

Highway patrolmen asked motorists to reduce speed at least 10 miles an hour from usual speeds as a safety measure. Few accidents were reported during the first hours of the holiday.

In the city, police were prepared to take care of a heavy influx of visitors. Except for those having their regular days off a full complement of police is scheduled for duty as usual.

Strict enforcement of anti-fireworks ordinances in St. Louis and most suburbs has been promised. Those found discharging fireworks illegally will be let off with a warning the first time if they disclose their source of supply, but they will be prosecuted if caught again, police said.

Firms Closed Monday.

Most business firms and city, state and federal offices will be closed Monday, due to the fact that July 4 falls this year on a Sunday. Department and other stores having Monday evening store hours will in most cases be open Tuesday night instead. Post offices will have the

FORCES PULL OUT DESPITE ROUTING REBEL TROOPS IN EARLIER ATTACK

Shock Soldiers From 3 Red Divisions Suffer 400 Casualties—Defenders Blow Up Arms, Bridge.

By LOUIS GUILBERT

HANOI, July 3 (UP)—French forces today evacuated Phu Ly, southern anchor of France's revised Red river delta defense line, in the face of renewed assaults by shock troops of three elite Communist divisions.

The whole Day river valley 30 miles south on Hanoi shook with explosions as French army engineers dynamited munitions before pulling out of the vital area.

The Communist attacks began in the morning but the enemy forces withdrew after the first assault, taking 200 of their dead and 200 of their wounded with them.

French tanks and artillery smashed the rebel assault shortly after noon. Then the evacuation was ordered.

The high command decided the fortress city could no longer be held in view of the approach of the three crack divisions and ceaseless artillery barrages from enemy emplacements on the limestone cliffs just across the river Day.

The bridge across the river at Phu Ly was blown up.

Phu Ly had been expected to become a major defense post in the French effort to hold the Hanoi-Haiphong area, but the evacuation came after the first big Red thrust at the shrunken French defenses.

Thousands of French Union troops who had just fallen back on Phu Ly after evacuating the southern provinces began retreating north.

VIET NAM WARNS OF CONSEQUENCES

By JOHN RODERICK

SAIGON, Indochina, July 3 (AP)—Viet Nam's Premier Ngo Dinh Diem told the French high command today "grave political consequences" would follow evacuation of French Union forces from the southern part of the Red river delta.

The new Premier issued a communique in which he said he had "vigorously protested" against the withdrawal.

A communique published today in the Viet Nam press said: "From its point of view the Viet Namese government considers this evacuation as provisional, dictated solely by necessities of the moment and envisaged steps aimed at redressing the situation in the near future. To this work of redressment, it calls all patriots and all political and social organizations."

Call to Remain Calm.

This 53-year-old Nationalist Premier called on the Viet Namese to remain calm in the face of the evacuation which leaves some 2,000,000 delta inhabitants in the hands of the Communist-led Vietminh.

Diem's statement coincided with a declaration by Gen. Raoul Salan, acting Indochina commander, that the massive pull-back was purely a military operation.

Salan asserted that the operation "permits the French high command to prepare a violent riposte (retaliation) in case of need. The game is far from lost."

Salan told a press conference in Hanoi last night that Red Chinese aid to the rebels had jumped in the last few months from 3000 tons to between 6000 and 7000 tons.

He also told newspapermen Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, chief of the American aid mission, had been given authority to train Viet Namese recruits under an agreement signed a week ago. But United States Embassy officials denied such an accord had been concluded.

Commenting on the delta withdrawal, Salan said the troop shift northward had foiled a Vietminh plan to attack Hanoi at this time.

Date Moved Up.

Salan said French intelligence got word the Communist-led rebels planned to assault the city during the first days of July. This prompted the union command to move up the date for regrouping its forces in this region, he told reporters.

The French announced yesterday their troops had "successfully completed" evacuation of five fortified cities and 2000 square miles of populous rice land south of the delta. The an-

Wounded French Soldiers Take U.S. Nurse Home as 'Souvenir'

By GEORGE WELLER

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1954.

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., July 3—Forty-seven wounded French soldiers fell in love with one American girl and snatched her off to Paris.

That is why Frances O'Keefe is going to top the biggest weekend in her life by spending the Fourth of July beside the Seine.

Frances, a flight nurse, won the French hearts while airborne caring for their wounds between Hawaii and this air base.

Just before takeoff for Paris the wounded, mostly serious cases from Indochina, were asked by Air Transport Chief Lt. Gen. Joseph Smith and French Ambassador Henri Bonnet, "is there any souvenir you want to take home?"

"Yes," chorused the Frenchmen, "Frances."

Her parents motored 90 miles from Roslindale, Mass., to see what was going on. They were reassured to find that two senior flight nurses, both majors, would fly the Atlantic with her.

Frances, a lieutenant with big brown eyes, now has to manage 47 Frenchmen, two chaperons, Fourth of July and Paris, all in the same weekend.

FLEXIBLE FARM PRICE SUPPORT FIGHT MOVES TO THE SENATE

Opponents Taken Aback by House Victory — Young Wonders Whether His Bloc Can Resist Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Senate supporters of the Eisenhower flexible farm price support program took heart today after the Administration won a compromise victory in the House.

The President did not get the authority he wanted to administer price supports on a sliding scale ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. But the House voted 228 to 170 on a rollcall to allow the Department of Agriculture to adjust its price supports for five basic crops on a range extending from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity.

This was an Administration-backed compromise introduced at the last minute by Representative Robert Harrison (Rep.), Nebraska. It effectively blocked a strong drive by farm state representatives to continue supports at 90 per cent of parity through 1955.

Rollcall Vote.

On the rollcall, 182 Republicans, 45 Democrats and one Independent supported the compromise proposal. Twenty-three Republicans and 147 Democrats voted against it.

Almost without exception, the Democrats who supported the Administration's position were from big cities. Republicans who voted against the Administration were from predominantly farming districts.

"We are well on the way to completing a farm bill that the President can accept," said Senator George Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Senate advocates of continued high, rigid price supports for basic field crops appeared taken aback—for the moment at least—by House approval yesterday of farm legislation embodying the flexible principle, although in a narrower range than that sought by the Administration.

Senator Milton Young (Rep.), North Dakota, a leader of the high-support faction in the Senate, conceded he was "greatly surprised" by the 58-vote margin in the House. The bill provides a sliding scale of price floors ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity for five basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts. A general farm bill—of which the price support section was a key part—was passed on a voice vote. Parity is a farm price standard said by law to be fair to growers in relation to their costs.

Continued 90 per cent supports for a sixth basic crop—tobacco—was not at issue because the Eisenhower Administration already had agreed to such an arrangement in view of tobacco's special problems.

Commenting on the House development, Young said in an interview a bipartisan Senate bloc backing continued rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity probably is stronger than the House coalition that was beaten on the issue.

But, Young wondered: "Are we strong enough to win?"

Election Role.

The price support issue promises to play a major role in the November struggle between the Democrats and Republicans for control of Congress.

Congress in 1949 voted to switch to flexible price supports from the high, rigid system which has been in effect since early World War II days. However, the changeover has been postponed from time to time and now is due to become operative at the end of the 1954 crop year.

The House Agriculture Committee had voted to continue 90 per cent supports for another year. So did the Senate Agriculture Committee. However, the House committee's recommendations were upset yesterday.

The concept of the President and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is that supports should be lowered to discourage production in times of abundance and raised to spur farm output in scarcity periods.

Bill's Provisions.

Outstanding provisions in the bill include:

1. A two and one-half billion dollar "set aside" of surpluses from the Commodity Credit Corporation's stocks for relief, foreign aid, stockpile and other purposes. It would also cut down marketable surpluses, reducing the "dampening" effect of CCC stocks hanging over the market.

2. An incentive payment plan for wool growers, permitting the Secretary of Agriculture to support wool prices as high as 110 per cent of parity to encourage production closer to the level of domestic requirements.

3. A hike in price supports for dairy products from the present floor of 75 per cent of parity to 80 per cent. The increase would be effective until next April 1. This section of the bill also contains authority for direct subsidies to better producers and processors to encourage disposal of dairy surpluses.

The bill would grant a two-year extension of agricultural conservation payments.

It offers an alternative two-price system for wheat, subject to farmer referendum. Farmers would decide whether to continue under direct price supports or to switch to a plan designed to give them 100 per cent of parity on that portion of their wheat sold for domestic use, with the rest of their production going unsupported for feed or export at free world prices.

Multiple Price Study.

The bill contains a directive to the Secretary of Agriculture to study a multiple-price system for rice in the future.

It would repeal marketing quotas on corn but continue acreage allotments on corn plantings.

There would be a transition from the old method of figuring parity to a modernized system, starting in 1956 and providing that parity level reductions could not exceed 5 per cent a year. The new parity is estimated to mean an ultimate reduction of about 33 cents a bushel in the parity level for wheat, 19 cents for corn, 1.3 cents a pound for cotton and 2.4 cents a pound for peanuts.

The bill would repeal the bar against price supports for potatoes. It would permit the Secretary, if he wished, to take technical steps which would result in stopping potato imports.

The bill would continue also the discretionary authority of the Secretary to support all nondesignated crops at any level up to 90 per cent of parity.

Views of True Morse.

Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse of St. Louis told reporters the House action was "encouraging" because it was a move toward full flexibility in the Government's price support program.

Advocates of high, unvarying supports have contended the President's program might cut drastically into farmer's income. Benson countered in a nationwide radio broadcast earlier this week that that is not so.

Aiken said in a separate interview that "actually the compromise did not mean much" and that it was designed "largely to counteract propaganda."

"With the possible exception of wheat," he said, "all the other basic crops would have been supported at from 82 to near 90 per cent under the Eisenhower program."

Aiken said the Senate Agriculture Committee has agreed to meet Wednesday to complete its farm bill. He said the measure should reach the Senate by next weekend or the following Monday.

Aiken said a House-approved plan to boost supports on dairy products to 80 per cent of parity "has some merit." This would be 5 per cent above the level fixed by Secretary Benson on April 1.

Commenting further on provisions in the House bill, Aiken said the "two-price wheat plan seems unworkable."

Rebels With Old Scores to Pay Plan Terror Reign in Guatemala

Anti-Red Drive Made-to-Order Opportunity for Personal Vengeance—One Leader Has 26 on Death List.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHIQUIMULA, Guatemala, July 2 (delayed)—A reign of terror is shaping up in Guatemala.

Leaders of the victorious rebel army have old scores to settle. Many intend to seek personal vengeance for wrongs they or their families have suffered at the hands of the government of Jacobo Arbenz, which toppled Monday in the face of rebel victories.

Conversations with some of the tough-minded political exiles who form the nucleus of the rebel army offer convincing evidence that many will resort to beatings, arson and assassination to balance their accumulated debts.

They will find a made-to-order opportunity in the confusion of a drive by the new government to root out Communists who had infiltrated administrative and policy making machinery of the Arbenz regime.

Many have suffered physically in third-degree methods used more and more in recent months by the shaky Arbenz government in a desperate effort to stay in power.

Merchant's Experience.

Juan Arrivillaga, a Guatemala City merchant, showed this correspondent a dozen ugly wounds on each of his shins, inflicted, he said, by government secret police trying to extort information about the party of Anti-Communist Unification which he helped organize.

"I don't know what they used to hit me," he said. "They had me blindfolded at the time."

When the secret police released Arrivillaga two weeks ago, he took refuge in the Salvador embassy in Guatemala City, escaped to El Salvador and made his way into eastern Guatemala to join the insurgent forces.

Arrivillaga discussed the government's torture methods recently in a group that included Maj. Julio Gaitan, lean, hard-boiled regular army officer who twice suffered political imprisonment at the hands of the Arbenz government. He now is the right-hand man of Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, leader of the revolution. Gaitan's job has no particular name, but he is the officer who directed the loading of trucks and busses for the planned attack on the key city of Zacapa and kept the rebel troops in hand when Castillo met with government officers for the first truce talks at "the Curve of the Cactus" outside Zacapa Tuesday.

New Method of Torture.

"This Arbenz government developed a new method of torture, one that is very effective and leaves no marks," Gaitan told the group.

"The person is strapped to a bed with four straps—one across his ankles, one across his knees, one across his waist and the fourth across his throat. Then someone takes a feather and strokes it across his nose to tickle him. Before long the victim begins to laugh, and he is kept laughing for maybe 24 hours.

"At the end of that time, he is so weak he will answer any questions. His resistance is completely broken. I have a friend who was given that treatment. It took him a year to get back to normal physical and mental condition.

"That is a very good method to get information. We will use it on them."

Then Gaitan told grimly of his own plans for retribution.

"I have a list of 26 guys that I want to kill," he said. "I must kill them. If I don't they will kill me.

"The only trouble is that some of those on my list might be on someone else's list, too, so someone else might get them first."

On the day after that conversation, a friend of Gaitan's from Guatemala City arrived in Chiquimula. He had walked the entire 125 miles from the capital. He brought the news to Gaitan that his wife and children were safe in the Salvadoran embassy but that supporters of the government had burned his home.

"My friend told me who burned down my house," Gaitan said. "That make 26 I must kill."

AMERICAS GROUP PUTS OFF SESSION ON RED PROBLEM

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 3—The ambassadorial council of the Organization of American States voted 18 to 1 last night, with one abstention, to postpone a July 7 meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers in Rio de Janeiro to consider Communist infiltration.

Argentina, arguing that Red penetration was a continuing problem, despite its apparent overthrow in Guatemala, cast the dissenting vote. Ecuador abstained.

Dr. Rafael Heliodoro Valle of Honduras sponsored the move for postponement. Supporting him, United States Ambassador John C. Dreier said the problem no longer seems acute.

ANTI-TRUST SUIT IS FILED AGAINST UNITED FRUIT CO.

U.S. Requests Firm Be Ordered to 'Establish Effective Competition in Banana Industry.'

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. announced late yesterday that the Government had filed an anti-trust suit in United States District Court in New Orleans, asking that the United Fruit Co. be ordered to take steps to "establish effective competition in the banana industry."

Government officials apparently viewed the suit also as of scotching Communist propaganda charge that the United States is interested only in shielding American business in Latin America.

The company, which has its headquarters in Boston, lost no time in denying the federal monopoly charges. Sam Baggett, vice president and general counsel, issued a statement in New York saying United Fruit is convinced the action "is based upon incomplete or unreliable information and that the charges are groundless."

Monopoly Charges.

The Government suit accuses United Fruit of forcing out competition and of gaining control of nearly all Central American land used for growing bananas. It contends United Fruit thus has managed to achieve dominance in the production, transportation and importation of bananas.

United Fruit has operated on a large scale in Guatemala, where for two years the company was locked in a dispute with the Red-tinged Government of President Jacob Arbenz, which began expropriating United Fruit lands under an agrarian reform law. The Arbenz regime now has been ousted by a military junta.

Both the company and the United States State Department balked at the Guatemalan Government's proposal for compensation, and efforts to settle the matter dragged on without getting anywhere.

Dulles Mentioned Troubles.

Two days before the Justice Department went to court against United Fruit, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles mentioned the firm's troubles in a radio-television discussion of the Guatemalan situation.

Dulles charged then that "the Guatemalan Government and the Communist agents throughout the world have persistently attempted to obscure the real issue, that of Communist imperialism, by claiming that the United States is only interested in protecting American business."

United Fruit's biggest activities are in Costa Rica, Panama and Honduras. Guatemala ranks fourth.

STALINGRAD JOINS COVENTRY IN PLEA TO OUTLAW H-BOMB

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP)—The news agency Tass said yesterday Stalingrad gives full support to a suggestion from the mayor of Coventry, England, that the two cities join in an appeal to the United Nations disarmament commission to outlaw the hydrogen bomb. Both cities were heavily damaged in World War II by the Germans. Lord Mayor John Fennell made the joint appeal proposal June 19 in a letter to the Russian embassy in London.

A Tass report said the workers of Stalingrad expressed "full solidarity" with the idea. Stalingrad desires to make a positive contribution against the threat of a new war and weapons of mass destruction, the agency said.

The Stalingrad press and radio gave great publicity to Fennell's letter, Tass said, and it was "discussed in a lively manner" by the city's whole population.

SAYS TRUMAN'S CONDITION CONTINUES TO IMPROVE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 3 (AP)—A hospital spokesman says former President Harry S. Truman's condition continues to improve. The 70-year-old Truman underwent an operation June 20 for removal of his gall bladder and appendix.

Robert E. Adams, acting administrator at Research Hospital, said Truman spent his best day yesterday since an intestinal inflammation condition began a week ago.

Adams said Truman's appetite was better yesterday and he spent part of the day in a semi-sitting position in bed.

U.S. Submarines' Interiors Get Colorful New Views and Hues

PEARL HARBOR, July 3 (AP)—United States Navy submarines are going in these days for "free expression." The results in the interior of the submarines have been startling.

Mess compartments are decorated with murals of glacial lakes and cooling snow scenes. Decks have such colors as red tile and walls are pink.

There are ash trays and individual bed lamps by each bunk, curtains and upholstered chairs.

It started a year ago when Mrs. Alec (Mickey) Baird was asked by crewmen of the Sabalo to help spruce up the interior of the ship. Said Mrs. Baird: "Before redecoration the Sabalo's visual impact was exactly zero."

The chief of naval operations gave his blessing to the project. Today at least 15 submarines have a new look.

On the Tiru a huge mural in the wardroom depicts the crew as hairy apes. The profile of the Tiru's skipper is prominent among those pictured.

Comdr. William D. Hushing said "There are no taboos regarding the painting of the bulkhead. They can paint all they want so long as what they paint is in good taste."

Mrs. Baird, a member of the American Institute of Decorators, is pleased by the response and says she has many letters of appreciation from submariners who find the new colors "very cooling." Her suggestion, however, that the Navy "get rid of all those pipes and things," was rejected.

TEMPORARY U.S. SENATOR CHOSEN FOR NEBRASKA

Sam Reynolds, Omaha Republican, to Take Butler Seat Until November.

LINCOLN, Nebr., July 3 (UP)—Gov. Robert Crosby said today he will appoint Sam Reynolds, Omaha Republican, to the Senate to serve from now until November in the seat vacated by the death Thursday night of Republican Senator Hugh Butler.

The appointment leaves the balance of the Senate unchanged at 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Independent.

Crosby said Reynolds would not be a candidate for the four years remaining on Butler's term, which runs until January 1959.

Crosby, a Republican, made the announcement during a meeting of the Republican state central committee, which was called to select a nominee for the four years remaining of Butler's six-year term.

Issues of Importance.

"At this time, there are issues of great importance," in the Senate, Crosby said, "and Nebraska needs a voting Senator at the earliest possible moment."

Crosby told the committee that under "the bitterly unfortunate state law you have to make your selection three days in advance of the funeral of Senator Butler" and this accounts for the fact that what the committee is doing "seems to be lacking in decorum."

Crosby made it clear that Reynolds would not be a candidate for the four-year term.

Reynolds, a close political adviser of Crosby, made no statement during the meeting, as committee members raced against the clock to name a party nominee before noon for the four-year term.

Nominee Chosen.

The committee picked Representative Roman Hruska, Omaha, to run for the four remaining years of Butler's term beginning in November.

Earlier the Democratic state committee named James Green, Omaha attorney, as its nominee for the four-year period.

Reynolds, married and the father of three grown daughters, is vice president and general manager of the Reynolds-Updike Coal Co., Omaha.

Hruska was elected to the House in 1952 and had filed only recently for re-election.

A native of David City, Nebr., he received a law degree in 1929 and has since practiced law in Omaha.

He served as a member of the Douglas county (Omaha) board of supervisors from 1945 until he entered the congressional race.

Green, 38-year-old Omaha attorney, is a veteran of World War II and a prominent Legionnaire. Twice he was a top contender for the post of national commander of the Legion and for several years starting in 1946 served on its Americanism commission. In this capacity he waged a vigorous fight against subversives. He is married and has five children.

By the Associated Press.

Reynolds is a past commander of Omaha Post No. 1 of the American Legion and formerly was Omaha Civil Defense Director. He was pledged to Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio as a delegate to the 1952 Republican national convention. In World War II Reynolds served as a colonel in the Army specialist corps and was director of corps activities in the Seventh Service Command, then headquartered in Omaha.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson headed a delegation from the Senate and House. More than 20 senators, former senators, and House members participated.

Butler's body will be taken to Omaha by train tomorrow.

2 Airliners Brush on Runway.

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—An Air France DC-6 and a BOAC Constellation brushed against each other today on a London airport runway. Neither was badly damaged and there were no injuries. The Air France plane with 60 passengers took off for Paris shortly afterward. The Sydney-bound Constellation, carrying 29 passengers, will be delayed 24 hours.

Major Provisions of Tax Bill As Passed by House, Senate

WASHINGTON, July 3 (UP)—Major provisions in the Administration tax revision bill as it passed the House and Senate:

Corporations—Both chambers approved a one-year renewal of the 52 per cent corporate income tax rate, extending it through next March 31 instead of letting it drop to 47 per cent as present law provided. Estimated yield of $1,200,000,000 in fiscal 1955.

Income Tax Returns — Both houses made April 15 instead of March 15 the deadline for filing income tax returns.

Estimates — Both versions would exempt about 1,000,000 persons from filing income tax estimates in the future. Single persons with income below $5000 and couples with a combined income below $10,000 would be exempt if their income is subject to withholding taxes.

Medical Expenses—Both chambers agreed on a liberalization of medical and dental expenses—those exceeding 3 per cent of gross income should be deductible for tax purposes, compared with 5 per cent under present law. Both agreed also to increase the ceiling on deductible medical expenses. The estimated loss to the Treasury is $80,000,000 a year.

Child Care—The House bill would allow taxpayers such as working widows, widowers and divorced persons to deduct up to $600 for care of children under 10 while the parent is employed. The Senate boosted the age limit to 12 and adopted other liberalizing provisions, including one to allow the deduction to a working couple if their combined income is below $4500. The House provision would cost $40,000,000 a year compared with $130,000,000 for the Senate provision.

Working Children — The House provided, and the Senate agreed with minor changes, that children earning more than $600 can still be claimed as dependents if they are under 19 or attending school and the parents contribute more than half of their support. The estimated loss is $75,000,000 a year.

Depreciation — Both houses agreed on a new depreciation formula under which business property could be written off for tax purposes at a faster rate during the early years of its use. Minor changes voted by the Senate would boost the $300,000,000 estimated cost for fiscal 1955 by $23,000,000.

Retirement Income — Both chambers agreed on slightly different versions of a provision to exempt the first $1200 of retirement income for persons over 65 from income tax. Estimated cost is $125,000,000 under the House provision and $141,000,000 under the Senate version.

Heads of Household — The House voted to give taxpayers such as widowers and divorced persons who maintain households with dependents the same income-splitting advantages now allowed married couples, instead of half the benefit, as present law provides. The estimated cost is $50,000,000. The Senate knocked out the provision to leave it subject to further consideration in the conference committee.

Dividend Income—The House voted to ease so-called "double taxation" on stock dividends. In the first year, the first $50 of dividend income would be excluded from taxable income and 5 per cent of the balance could be deducted from a taxpayer's tax bill; in the second year, the figures would be $100 and 10 per cent. The estimated cost was $240,000,000 in fiscal 1955 and upwards of $800,000,000 in later years. The Senate killed most of this, leaving only a provision to exclude $50 of dividends from taxable income.

Depletion—Both versions set out a new schedule for depletion allowances, the special tax treatment allowed producers of minerals. The more liberal Senate version allowed a 23 per cent rate for uranium and domestic producers of about 30 other minerals. Estimated cost of the House version was $27,000,000 and the Senate version $34,000,000.

Soil Conservation—Both chambers agreed that farmers should be allowed to deduct soil conservation expense up to 25 per cent of gross income as a current expense. Estimated cost is $10,000,000 a year.

Windfall Profits—The Senate wrote in a provision to require taxing of any future windfall profits from government-guaranteed loans at income tax rates instead of the lower capital gains rate. This provision grew out of the recent Federal Housing Administration scandals.

Sick Benefits — The House voted to exclude the first $100 of employer-financed sick benefits, after a seven-day waiting period, from taxable income, whether or not those benefits are provided in an insurance plan as the law now requires. The Senate went a step further and included the first $100 in wages paid during sick leave and knocked out the waiting period.

Grain Storage—The Senate approved a provision to allow farmers to charge off the cost of grain storage facilities as a current expense (instead of over a period of years) up to 25 per cent of their gross income in 1954 and 1955.

Foundations—The Senate version denies tax exemption to any foundation or organization which tries to influence any political campaign, or which makes contributions to subversive persons or groups except purely charitable donations.

FRENCH SENTENCE TO DEATH 6 NAZIS IN CAMP MURDERS

METZ, France, July 3 (AP)—Six former warders of a Nazi concentration camp were condemned to death by a French military tribunal last night for the mass murder of 3000 inmates. Prison sentences ranging up to life were meted out to 84 others. Two were acquitted.

Death sentences were given to: Fritz Hartjenstein, camp commander; Albert Fuchs, assistant camp director; Robert Nitsch, assistant camp administrator; Franz Ehrmanntraut, Herbert Oehler and Wolfgang Suess.

The defendants were accused of causing the mass deaths at the wartime camp in Struthof, eastern France, which operated both a gas chamber and a human incinerator. The prosecution claimed thousands of deportees—both Allied and German—were subjected to inhuman treatment, many of them put to death by torture or drugs.

Sixteen other former members of the Struthof staff who had been released conditionally after serving in prison for five years also appeared in court. Of the rest, never arrested, 43 were given death sentences in absentia.

RHEE TURNS DOWN INVITATION TO VISIT WASHINGTON NOW

SEOUL, July 3 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today he could not accept an invitation from President Eisenhower to visit Washington now.

The 79-year-old chief executive did not rule out a later trip to the United States, however.

"I honestly desire to fulfill my long cherished wish," Rhee said in a statement, "but since the failure of the Geneva conference, the Korean people and Republic of Korea armed forces have been profoundly affected and naturally there is a certain unrest."

It was reported in Washington yesterday that Rhee had been invited to make an official visit to Washington for conferences with Mr. Eisenhower and other officials on Korea's future now that peace negotiations at Geneva have failed.

31 SHIPS IN BOMBAY HARBOR TIED UP BY RAIN STORMS

BOMBAY, July 3 (AP)—Thirty-one ships are lined up in Bombay harbor awaiting dock space as a result of incessant rain storms which have slowed cargo handling almost to a standstill at the piers.

In the queue are nine Russian vessels towing a big drydock from the Baltic to Vladivostok. Gales in the Indian ocean forced them to put in here for shelter and repairs.

Two thousand mail bags destined for India and Pakistan were carride on to Colombo, Ceylon, by the British liner Strathdeden when it was found impossible to unload them here.

INSURANCE FIRM CLAIM DENIED IN MISSING MAN CASE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 3 (AP)—Chancery court here has turned down an insurance claim against the former wife and children of Thomas C. Buntin, who disappeared for 23 years with his secretary.

Buntin and his secretary, the former Betty McCuddy of Russellville, Ky., were found last year living as Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Palmer with their six children at Orange, Tex. New York Insurance Co. agents found them.

Palmer still uses that name at Orange.

The company sought to recover about $31,000 left of a $50,000 claim paid after Buntin was declared dead by a Supreme Court ruling.

Chancellor William Wade ruled yesterday that once an insurance company has been forced to pay a claim on the life of a man missing seven years, the decision is final in Tennessee even if the man turns up alive.

The insurance company is considering an appeal.

PROPOSAL TO SELL U.S. JETS TO LATIN AMERICA REPORTED

WASHINGTON, July 3 (INS)—A Senate foreign relations committeeman said today that the Administration is proposing to sell some of its older-type jet planes to Latin American countries.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, said Administration officials are asking that blanket authority to sell the jets and other planes be written into the Foreign Aid Bill.

Humphrey said the jets that the Administration is considering selling are F-86s which he said are already obsolete.

VIET NAM URGES ROLE FOR U.N. IN ANY ARMISTICE

Spokesman at Geneva Says Only World Body Could Police a Cease-Fire.

GENEVA, July 3 (AP)—Viet Nam, the Indochina state whose status is being undermined by French military withdrawals in the Red river delta, argued yesterday that the United Nations should have a role in any eventual Indochinese armistice.

Speaking to the Indochina conference on the issue of armistice control, Buu Kinh, acting head of the Viet Namese delegation, said the only effective control for a cease-fire would be one provided by the U.N.

Kinh strongly criticized any plan that would place a Communist state on the armistice control commission armed with a veto power under a rule of unanimity. Experience has shown he said, that a Communist state can not be truly impartial.

Kinh termed the issue of control machinery for an armistice a "fundamental" problem, according to Viet Namese sources. He said several weeks of debate in the nine-party conference had failed to bridge the deep differences of opinion on this question.

Russian and French officials appeared to differ on the relationship between the projected neutral control commission and the various "mixed commissions" that would supervise an armistice.

A mixed commission would include representatives of the Communist-led Vietminh regime on one hand and representatives of France, Viet Nam, Laos or Cambodia on the other.

V.V. Kouznetsov, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, praised Jean Chauvel, acting head of the French delegation, at one point, according to Western sources, for having abandoned French claims that the mixed commissions would be subordinate to the international neutral commission.

French sources said Chauvel still wanted the mixed groups "supervised" by the international panel although he agreed to drop the word "subordination" from any future text.

Chauvel, it was reported, told the Soviet envoy he had perhaps read more into the French statement than was warranted. Chauvel was also quoted as saying "precise proposals" for an Indochina peace would be presented soon. Details were not disclosed.

Chauvel, according to French sources, stressed that more progress could perhaps be accomplished in private direct contacts between delegations at this stage.

ACTION IN BRIBE CHARGE SET FOR NEXT THURSDAY BY ALDERMEN

Decision Put Over to Special Meeting for Lack of Time to Read Voluminous Transcript and Report.

Final disposition by the Board of Aldermen of a charge that one of its members solicited a $500 bribe from a business man will be made next Thursday morning at a special meeting, aldermanic leaders said today.

Action on the report of a special committee which began its inquiry two weeks ago was delayed yesterday because members of the Board had not had sufficient time to read the 600-page transcript of testimony and the 55-page report.

Alderman Ben Oliver, Sixth Ward Democrat, is charged with having sought $500 from Neil T. Maloy, secretary of the National Lightning Protection Co., to grant approval of a bill authorizing sale of a 50-foot lot for $2500. The lot adjoins the company's property at 200 South Jefferson avenue.

Report Submitted.

The special committee, headed by William K. Gardner, Twenty-fifth Ward Democrat, reported yesterday to the members of the Board sitting as a committee of the entire board. The report contained findings of fact but did not attempt to determine the truth or falsity of the charges against Oliver.

The committee recommended that the entire Board make this determination after reading the report and transcript.

Oliver has denied seeking a bribe. He has stated that the price was insufficient in his opinion and that he had merely told Maloy that the price of the property should be $500 more than the $2500 provided in the bill.

Because the special committee's report was not placed in the hands of other aldermen before Wednesday night, many aldermen yesterday contended they had not sufficient time to study the voluminous documents.

The Board, orginally scheduled to recess yesterday for the summer, decided to hold the additional session next Thursday to finally dispose of the Oliver matter before the recess begins. If the Board finds that the charges are true, it may discipline Oliver or expel him from the Board.

Change in System Urged.

The special committee also recommended to members of the Board that they study methods for revising procedure in sale of city property, including placing a deadline after which additional bids will not be received.

At present when the Board of Estimate and Apportionment receives an acceptable bid for a piece of city-owned property, it forwards a proposed ordinance to the Board of Aldermen to authorize sale at a price not less than the bid.

This has permitted subsequent bidding after the ordinance has been passed. The Board has accepted later bids on the ground it must accept the highest and best price offered.

Study of this procedure is recommended by the report and corrective ordinances are suggested to permit bidding to be finally closed before bills authorizing sale are submitted to the Board of Aldermen.

This would require fixing the price definitely in proposed bills and would eliminate subsequent bidding after a firm offer is accepted. The Board was also urged to study the advisability of getting appraisals for all city-owned property and authorizing the Mayor and Comptroller to sell them at these prices or more.

This would eliminate the necessity for a separate ordinance for each piece of property and would permit the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to establish a more comprehensive bidding procedure.

Buder's son, Gustavus A. Buder Jr., executor of the estate, filed the inventory.

Bequests of $5000 each were made to 10 St. Louis educational and civic organizations in the will. After other bequests of $900 a month to a secretary and housekeeper, the residue of the estate goes to the son, his wife and their four children.

SAFE CONTAINING $700 STOLEN FROM UNION OFFICE

A safe containing about $700 was stolen last night from the office of Local 1439, AFL Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' Union, at 4249 Gibson avenue, financial secretary Eugene Roedder reported to police today.

Police said the burglars apparently entered the building in which the office was located, the Electrical Workers Hall, by climbing a downspout and breaking a second story window.

Officers expressed the belief that the safe, which also contained checks, was taken from the building on a hand truck. Offices of Local 2, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and Local 36, AFL Sheet Metal Workers, also were ransacked but nothing was taken.

PHONE INSTALLERS SIGN CONTRACT, END WALKOUT

The coast-to-coast strike of 16,000 Western Electric Co. employes, involving about 600 area members of the CIO Communications Workers of America, was settled today, ending a two-day walkout. A contract was signed in New York at noon.

There had been no picketing here, and at only scattered points elsewhere, by union members, who install central office telephone equipment. A union spokesman here had said Thursday, when the strike began, that picket lines would be observed by 6000 members employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in this area.

The onelyear contract, subject to ratification by members, calls for wage increases ranging from 5 to 7 cents an hour for installers and $1.50 a week for job clerks.

ST. LOUISAN, SONS COMPLETE CANOE TRIP DOWN RIVER

The Masons made it—their canoe trip from St. Louis to New Orleans reached a successful conclusion yesterday, 16 days after they started.

Frank H. Mason, 7615 Marion court, Maplewood, and his two sons, Richard, 12 years old and James, 14, paddled into New Orleans yesterday to be greeted by Mrs. Mason, who arrived by rail.

A dunking, near Rosedale, Miss., when their canoe overturned, and trouble with mosquitoes and other insects marred their trip slightly—but otherwise it was uneventful.

Mason, who said he had wanted to canoe down the Mississippi ever since reading Mark Twain as a boy, finally had fulfilled his ambition.

P.S.CO. MAY SEEK ABANDONMENT OF 2 LOSING ROUTES

Transit Firm Tells of Possible Move at Hearing on Dropping Shrewsbury Bus Line.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 3—St. Louis Public Service Co., which is seeking permission to abandon the MacKenzie-Shrewsbury bus line, may move to discontinue two other unprofitable lines.

Guido Moss, the company's research manager, told the Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday that rising costs of operation make it increasingly difficult to maintain lines that do not pay. He did not name the two other lines he had in mind, but warned, "there might later be others."

After a two-day hearing, the commission took under advisement the petition to abandon the MacKenzie-Shrewsbury line. A question of regulatory policy is involved: Should Public Service be permitted to drop those lines in its integrated system which are not profitable?

After Gaylord C. Burke, vice president of the company, indicated that Public Service may request another fare increase in the near future, P. E. Lohoefner, company controller, testified that Public Service probably would need about $1,400,000 a year in additional gross revenue—before taxes—for a reasonable rate of return.

Associate City Counselor Forrest G. Ferris Jr. of St. Louis asked the controller if the company planned to seek that amount in increased fares, but Burke contended the question was not relevant in this hearing.

"We ought to be informed," Ferris insisted.

"You will be informed," Burke replied. The question was not pressed.

Lohoefner estimated that net income for the 12 months ending May 31 was $1,355,533, or 4.73 per cent of original cost rate base. But H. P. Ingebritsen, public utilities engineer for the City of St. Louis, contended that the company's earning position had "improved substantially" from a return of 3.6 per cent in 1951 to 6.1 per cent in 1953. He estimated the 1954 return at 5.3 per cent.

LT. GEN. C. T. MYERS PICKED FOR AIR TRAINING POST

Lt. Gen. Charles T. Myers, chief of the Air Force's Northeast Command, with headquarters at St. John's, Newfoundland, was nominated yesterday by President Eisenhower to be commander of the Air Training Command at Scott Air Force Base.

If his nomination is approved he will succeed Lt. Gen. Robert W. Harper, who retired as commanding general of the Air Training Command last Wednesday. Gen. Myers, a former West Point football player, lists San Antonio, Tex., as his home. The Northeast Command includes four bases in Canada and three in Greenland and is regarded as a part of a buffer zone between North America's northernmost military frontier and that of Russia.

Gen. Myers also is a former commander of the United States Twelfth Air Force in Italy. His successor as head of the Northeast Command will be Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, who led United States airmen in Korea. Gen. Harper has left for Harlingen, Tex., where he intends to practice law.

ALL $2028.88 IN SMITHTON BANK HOLDUP IS RECOVERED

SEDALIA, Mo., July 3 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation early today announced the recovery of the money taken from the Smithton (Mo.) bank in a robbery Wednesday. Agents said the exact amount, $2028.88, was recovered.

The money was found in an old sedan parked in a garage at the Sedalia residence of Tom Thurston, 39 years old, the FBI said.

Thurston and two other men, Arthur Jackson, 57, of Marshall, Mo., and LeRoy Cannon, 52, Sedalia, were arraigned in Jefferson City today on bank robbery charges and returned to jail on failure to post bonds of $10,000 each. They entered pleas of not guilty.

Harold Barrick, Pettis county prosecuting attorney, said Jackson admitted taking part in the robbery and has implicated the other two.

MILLBROOK BLVD. LEFT TURN VOTED OVER MAYOR'S VETO

A bill permitting east-bound traffic on Millbrook boulevard to turn left into Skinker boulevard was enacted yesterday by the Board of Aldermen over the veto of Mayor Raymond R. Tucker.

In his veto message, the Mayor said that 31,000 vehicles use Skinker daily at the Millbrook intersection. Any additional delay of this traffic would back up Skinker boulevard traffic past other intersections, he said.

3 PERSONS SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO IN KANSAS CITY

Police Say Husband of One Admits Killings — Toured Night Spots, Had Row.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 3 (UP)—A man and two women were shot to death early today as they drove along a Kansas City street and police said the husband of one of the victims admitted the killings.

The bodies were found shortly after 5 a.m. in an automobile which had plowed into a stone retaining wall bordering the site of an old reservoir.

The victims were identified as Donald Knepp Jr., 28 years old; his sister, Mrs. Dollie Levy, 29, and Julia Ann Friend, 20.

Police quoted Carl L. Levy, 36, a plumbing company employe, as saying he killed the three after a series of arguments during a tour of night spots here and in the county. He could not immediately recall the name of the woman who was with his brother-in-law.

Knepp was sprawled over the steering wheel. Miss Friend, like Knepp, had been shot in the head. Mrs. Levy was in the rear seat. She had been shot once in the head and three times in the chest.

The killing occurred only half a block from the Levy home.

Homicide Lt. Lester Haupt said police records showed previous trouble between the Levys and that officers once confiscated a shotgun with which Levy said his wife had threatened to kill him.

Haupt quoted Levy as saying he opened fire with a target pistol containing nine shells, as the car in which the four persons were riding started to turn around after leaving the Levy home.

Levy was taken into custody at the home of his former wife, Mrs. Bertha Levy, and their 13-year-old son, police said.

SOVIET PHYSICISTS CHIDED FOR NOT HEEDING EINSTEIN

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP)—Pravda criticized Soviet physicists today for not paying enough heed to the works of Albert Einstein because they disapproved of his "dark idealistic viewpoint."

The Communist party paper declared failure to pay attention to the fruits of Einstein's physical research had caused Soviet delay in the field of supersonic speed.

The article by academician S. L. Sobolev said some faculty members at Moscow University "missed the practicality of the new science of physics, not even noticing it."

"At the same time," Sobolev asserted, "were ignored such important spheres as the physics of supersonic sounds coming close to the speed of light, speeds whose theory was given by Einstein. . .

"Quite correctly realizing Einstein's dark idealistic approach as far as philosophy is concerned," the article continued, "certain scientists did not want and could not see the rational thing—the quintessence of his definite physical research."

POWDER PUFF DERBY STARTS WITH 94 WOMEN COMPETING

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 3 (AP)—They call it the Powder Puff Derby but the 2000-mile air race starting today is no soft touch for the 94 women competing.

The 51 planes left Municipal Airport with take-offs starting at 9 a.m. and must finish at Knoxville, Tenn., by 5 p.m. next Tuesday. Many will get there earlier since this is a handicap race in which smaller planes get time differentials to make up for smaller horsepower.

Two grandmothers and a former Miss America are listed among the entries with eight flying solo and the others teaming as pilot and co-pilot.

Time checks will be made at Blythe, Calif.; Prescott and Winslow, Ariz.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Amarillo, Tex.; Oklahoma City; Fort Smith, Ark.; Memphis, Chattanooga and Knoxville, Tenn. The feminine flyers compete for $2500 in prize money, trophies and prestige.

JEWELER, 78, SUBDUES, CAPTURES ROBBER, 20

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—William Jacques, 78-year-old jeweler, yesterday thoroughly subdued a would-be holdup man who entered his mid-Manhattan shop and, at knife-point, demanded a tray of diamonds worth about $15,000.

Jacques grabbed the thug's wrist and forced him to drop the knife, punched him, kicked him, knocked him down, dragged him into the street and called police.

Nathaniel Rose, 20 years old, was booked on charges of attempted robbery and violation of the Sullivan (anti-weapons) law.

FOREIGN AID FOR JULY AUTHORIZED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Senate yesterday passed and sent to President Eisenhower a resolution permitting foreign aid spending to continue in July.

The resolution was necessary because the foreign aid appropriations bill for fiscal year 1955, which began Thursday, has not passed either branch of Congress.

It would permit the Foreign Operations Administration to spend $290,000,000 in July.

Civil Defense Agency to Take Own Advice in Moving Offices

Dispersal Policy to Be Followed in Shift From Washington to Empty Hospital in Battle Creek, Mich.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Federal Civil Defense Administration, leading advocate of industry and government dispersal against the threat of enemy air attack, has decided to follow its own advice.

The agency announced yesterday it would move its headquarters from Washington to Battle Creek, Mich. The main reason: to get away from a major potential enemy H-bomb target.

Another reason was also offered by Defense Department authorities, who noted the Percy Jones army hospital area at Battle Creek where FCDA will set up offices has been closed, except for a caretaker staff, since last year.

It is federal policy, these informants said, to move agencies using rented civilian quarters into permanent but unoccupied government buildings whenever possible. In Washington FCDA has been living for three years in a new eight-story, luxury-type apartment house.

Military sources said also that the Army is retaining over-all control over Percy Jones and, should war come, expanding Army needs would force the civilian agency to look for still another home.

FCDA has 496 employes here, and their pay totals $3,250,000 a year. The pay of other employes throughout the nation brings the payroll figure up to $4,500,000 annually.

An FCDA spokesman said it was expected that most of the professional employes would transfer to Michigan, but that many secretarial employes have homes and other interests here and may decline to change. "We may have to do a considerable amount of hiring at Battle Creek as a result," he said.

The civil defense administrator—Val Peterson, a three-time former Republican Governor of Nebraska—will set up offices, along with the rest of the headquarters organization, in the Percy Jones hospital area.

An aid said a small staff—"about 25 people"—will be retained in Washington, and Peterson probably will keep an office here.

"The nature of the administrator's job requires close co-ordination with the Defense Department and other government agencies, and it is likely that he will spend a good part of his time here," the aid said.

The work of moving to a new location will begin immediately, FCDA said, and will be completed within 60 days.

HUGE OAK FALLS ON TRUCK, 3 MEN KILLED, 7 HURT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 3 (AP)—A windstorm toppled a huge oak tree across a truck loaded with 13 men yesterday, killing three persons and injuring seven.

Cloys D. Lay was driving the TVA truck in a windstorm near Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., when the accident occurred. He said:

"I could see the trees alongside the road bending in the wind, but had no thought that there was any danger. All of a sudden that big tree came crashing across us, through the canvas-covered section just back of the cab. I couldn't realize at first what hit the truck, but it didn't take long to get out of there and start trying to help those poor guys in the back."

A power saw was used to help cut through to the men.

The tree was about three feet in diameter at the base and was from 60 to 70 feet tall. The wind cracked and twisted it off about 12 feet above the ground.

Only one of the 11 men riding in the rear of the truck escaped injury or death.

DEAD SOUGHT IN PHILIPPINE CITIES ROCKED BY QUAKES

MANILA, July 3 (AP)—Rescue squads dug through the rubble of two earthquake-wrecked cities for dead and injured today as aftershocks spread fresh terror through the central Philippines.

Broken communication made it impossible to get an accurate picture of casualties and property damage in the southern Luzon area hit by yesterday's quake.

Latest reliable figures showed 12 known dead, four missing, 24 seriously injured and 100 treated for minor injuries. Earlier police reports said 20 were believed killed at Sorsogon, a city of 26,000 which apparently bore the brunt of the shock. The constabulary said eight were known dead in Sorsogon and four at Bacon, a seaport on the east coast which also was wrecked. Reports of two dead at Legaspi City were not confirmed.

NAZI FIELD MARSHAL MILCH, WAR CRIMINAL, IS PAROLED

LANDSBERG, Germany, July 3 (UP)—Nazi Field Marshal Erhard Milch, former inspector general of Adolf Hitler's Luftwaffe, has been released on parole from Landsberg war crimes prison, German officials disclosed today.

Milch, now 62 years old, was Hermann Goering's deputy and responsible for air defense production and air material. He was the only high-ranking Jew to have kept his post under Hitler although he fell into disfavor before end of the war.

Milch was sentenced to life imprisonment by the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal in 1946 for his part in exploiting slave labor. His sentence was reduced to 15 years in 1951.

17,420 ATTEND SHRINE CIRCUS

A total of 17,420 persons attended the third performance of the Moolah Temple circus last night at Public Schools Stadium, North Kingshighway and St. Louis avenue.

Vern Hodge, general chairman, said 39,778 persons have witnessed the circus and fireworks display since opening night. Performances will continue through Monday night, with extra fireworks displays in observation of Independence Day, he said. Proceeds will go to maintain the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children and 24 other child welfare agencies.

'LEAPFROG' SYSTEM OF MAIL DELIVERY TO BE INAUGURATED

CLEVELAND, O., July 3 (UP)—"leapfrog" delivery service will be inaugurated by the Cleveland Post Office this month after a successful trial in four nearby cities.

The plan, announced yesterday by Post Office Examiner Raymond B. Robinson, was expected to extend to other cities across the country in succeeding months.

Two letter carriers will man trucks, which will carry both first class mail and parcel post. In residential areas, one carrier will alight with mail for one street, and his partner will proceed with the truck to the next block where he will park and start house-to-house delivery. The first carrier, meanwhile, has walked as far as the parked truck, which he will drive to the following block to repeat the delivery process.

Robinson said the new system would eventually bring a 15 percent reduction in the size of the working force, which the Post Office would achieve by not replacing retiring letter carriers. He said the method would mean less walking for route men, would result in smaller loads and speed up deliveries.

SEWS 23 CHOIR ROBES FOR KOREA AT SON'S REQUEST

MIAMI, Fla., July 3 (AP)—A Miami woman is sending 23 choir robes to Korea in answer to her son's request to "do some sewing for the Lord."

Mrs. Billie L. Fleming received the request from Lt. Bill Fleming, special services officer for the Twenty-Fifth Infantry Division in Korea.

Recently, Mrs. Fleming wrote her son that she probably would do a lot of sewing this summer. In reply, he asked her to make the choir robes.

Despite a week of illness, Mrs. Fleming said she finished the job this week and sent the robes on their way.

PRESIDENT SENDS INSPECTOR TO BASES IN AFRICA, EUROPE

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower has sent an assistant to North Africa and Western Europe to check up on work at United States military bases there.

The White House said today Mr. Eisenhower's special assistant, Robert Cutler, took off by plane last night on the 17-day inspection trip.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Cutler went at the President's request to get a first-hand report on the installations and their forces for use by the National Security Council.

COUNTY WATER SURVEY ORDERED BY SUPERVISOR

Present Facilities, Proposed Expansion of Utility to Be Studied by Commission.

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews yesterday ordered a survey of present facilities and proposed expansion program of St. Louis County Water Co. be made by the St. Louis County Planning Commission.

He told County Planning Director M. Eugene Baughman that the study should show the relationship between the utility's program and the past and prospective future development of the county, and whether the additional facilities to be completed by next summer will be adequate.

In a letter to the Missouri Public Service Commission last Tuesday, Matthews had criticized the water company severely and urged the commission to require the firm to increase its capacity substantially.

The company, replying yesterday to Matthew's criticism, defended its expansion program though admitting it underestimated this summer's needs.

W. Victor Weir, company president, in a letter to Matthews, detailed the utility's plans for increased service as previously announced. He pointed out that, although the County Planning Commission estimated in 1952 that daily capacity for 1954 would reach 63,000,000 gallons, the company actually produced 75,000,000 gallons. However a peak of 80,000,000 gallons usage was reached last Saturday.

Commenting on Weir's reply, the supervisor said there still was a question in his mind as to adequacy of the company's program and that the state body should make a determination on the question.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR FILES DIVORCE SUIT IN MEXICO

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP) — John Jacob Astor has filed suit for divorce in Mexico from his second wife, charging incompatibility.

This became known yesterday after Mrs. Gertrude Gretsch Astor was served with papers in the case. They were married in 1944.

Astor sought the Mexican divorce after four years of futile attempts to reach a financial settlement. However, a spokesman for the family said adequate support will be provided for the couple's five-year-old daughter. Astor is worth a fortune in Manhattan real estate.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Best Site?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Air Force Secretary Talbott said topography eliminated the Alton site for the proposed Air Force Academy.

That's excellent for public consumption and should soothe our taxpaying citizens, but it's pure hogwash as far as the facts are concerned.

The flat tablelands of Illinois needed only the pouring of concrete for runways and the erection of hangars to build the airport for the academy. There was plenty of land on which to build administration and classroom buildings. The land Mr. Talbott refers to is right on the bluffs. But why go all the way to the edge of the bluffs? Otherwise there was plenty of land to build on.

The Alton site had 19,000 acres. The Colorado Springs site is supposed to have some 15,000 acres. According to the boundaries released in the press and according to the county records relating to those boundaries, there are only 7680 acres available. Maybe helicopters will be used to get in and out.

Although the land was given free to the Government, the same Government (my favorite Uncle) will have to pay at least $5,000,000 to build a 12-inch waterline from the Blue river up in the Rockies to supply the Air Academy. And what happens if the farmers out there need that water too?

Mr. Talbott says he is sorry to disappoint his friends in the St. Louis area. Was that at the risk of disappointing the top brass in the Air Force who have repeatedly stated that they preferred Colorado because of its excellent resort facilities? And what was the commanding officer of the Air Defense Command, with headquarters at Colorado Springs, doing touring the academy sites with Mr. Talbott?

Naturally, I'm a little disappointed and maybe a little bitter—but Mr. Talbott leaves a few gaps in his thinking that make me seriously doubt if he chose what was best for the Air Force Academy. H. T.

Metropolitan Motto

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In light of the defeat of the bond issue for express highways by county residents and opposition to location of the air academy near Alton, the motto of the St. Louis metropolitan area might well be "progress—elsewhere." This spirit, if it prevailed on a nation-wide basis, could result in all such projects being constructed in the Mojave desert — which may eventually describe the St. Louis area at that. READER.

Tired, Hungry and Angry

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The most difficult problem that confronts Negro American citizens when they travel by automobile is finding a place to stop for the night and a place to eat.

On the morning of June 26, my wife and I left Detroit with the intention of getting to St. Louis by nightfall. We were a little more than 100 miles away and had traveled nearly 450 miles in 10 hours when we realized that we were too tired to try that last 100 miles.

We began stopping at motels along United States Highway 40 and began to hear the same excuses we have so often heard, "Sorry, we are all filled up."

One place told us that they were booked solid with reservations (in explanation of the vacancies he had), for June, July and August.

We finally found a place where we obtained a cabin for the night. However, in many cases Negroes do not care to be refused several times before finding a place to stop. All too often the timid Negro or the once-refused Negro is forced to continue traveling on our highways when he is tired, hungry and often angry.

While in this condition such drivers have no business on the highway. My point is that the practice of racial discrimination is doubtless one of the contributing factors to the high-way death toll.

And the strange thing about this whole situation is that these drivers who are tired, hungry and angry do not practice racial discrimination; they have accidents which cause injury and death to people regardless of their race.

Where Praise Is Earned

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In your editorial, "An 1890 Model," about reciprocal trade legislation, you say "that is to praise President Eisenhower as he deserves to be for standing firm on flexible price supports, etc." Do you mean to say that you like Ike, too, or was it a misprint? W. J. SHEA.
O'Fallon, Ill.

As to Union Leaders

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Many, many thanks to Arch N. Parker of Webster Groves who recognized the fact that there are few bad union leaders in comparison to the good leadership throughout the country. I hope the general public will recognize this fact and may not be misled by the few bad apples in the barrel. J. H. CUPPY,
Vice President, Local 6320, Communications Workers of America.

A Thought for the Season

The country has entered on the 178th observance of its birth. It is the midsummer season of long weekend trips, family reunions and picnics, baseball doubleheaders, swimming and boating parties and golfing expeditions. It used to be also a time of patriotic observances replete with what came to be known as "Fourth of July oratory."

Today there is little of florid speech-making from the oldtime bunting-swathed bandstand before a crowd of all ages assembled in the public square. Patriotic eloquence is now little associated with the nation's birthday. That does not mean, however, that thoughts related to liberty and freedom are inappropriate to the day which keeps the memory of American independence.

In this year of 1954 there is more need than in a long time for each citizen to remember that his country had its founding in the resolution of his forebears not to be pushed around by tyrants and demagogues. For the plain fact is that people are being pushed around in our country today.

* * *

Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer of Washington, who is one of the most thoughtful viewers of the contemporary American scene as well as one of its bravest travelers, said this week before the ninety-second annual meeting of the National Education Association in New York:

> It is not only freedom to teach and to learn which is imperilled. All of our freedoms are being threatened today by a nation-wide conspiracy of alarming proportions. McCarthy, to be sure, has been weakened by his disgraceful yet typically authoritarian behavior on television. But McCarthy is only one of many diverse elements, not only in the Congress, but in several federal departments, in the press, in newly formed pressure groups and among a few—a very few but very wealthy, business men who are plotting to seize control of this country.

Responsibility for defeating these self-servers who would destroy our historic liberty rests on each and every one of the 160,000,000 citizens of this country. But it rests with extra pressure on educators and teachers who, because of their training and their professional experience, know there can be no freedom if teaching is not free.

Yet when Columbia University, in observance of its bicentennial, recently gathered college presidents, deans and professors to discuss the current state of academic freedom, very few of the educators seemed to appreciate fully their own role as key soldiers in the fight to keep the United States free. Many of them seemed to think that because Harvard, Columbia and other large private institutions had not taken orders in public from inquisitorial Senators and Congressmen the danger to education must be exaggerated.

* * *

But educators themselves told of a public discussion group at New York University that debated long as to whether it should send a telegraph of congratulations to Edward R. Murrow on his McCarthy broadcast and finally split evenly and so did not send the message.

They told of the faculty at Sarah Lawrence College, which after its disrupting investigation, is having no part whatever of political activity. And they heard of the Columbia University professor who says quite frankly that he now never mentions the word Communism in his classes in New York, whereas 20 years ago he taught the basic elements of all political philosophies to his classes in a Middlewestern state university.

Dean Griswold of the Harvard Law School was complimented on his outstanding address on the history of the Fifth Amendment, which provides the constitutional basis for the refusal to testify against one's self. Yet the warm reception of the Griswold address only went to show how far attachment to the Bill of Rights has declined. Support of the basic liberties should be so persistent and so devoted that there would be no need for an address defending the Fifth Amendment or any other guarantee of an essential freedom.

The educators at Columbia University and everywhere else need to realize that academic freedom is like press freedom. For freedom of the press is not just freedom for an editor to print what he likes. It is also the freedom of the reader to have access through his newspaper to the information he needs if he is to be an intelligent citizen in a self-governing democracy.

Similarly academic freedom is not just freedom to teach. It is the freedom of the citizen to possess the knowledge developed in his colleges and universities. If the scholars and educators and teachers in our great universities keep mum on political subjects because they "have a wife and three children"—as one of them said—then "man's right to knowledge and the free use thereof" is dangerously diminished.

But, says someone, this caution of the teacher today is all unnecessary. The educator is free and he should not hesitate to teach what he knows he should. Then it can only be said that the deterioration of academic freedom is the graver. He who stops his own mouth is more fearful than he who will allow his mouth to be stopped only by an armed tyrant.

Just What Was Locarno?

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had made rather wide use of the term "Locarno" until he came to Washington. There the House of Representatives voted, 390 to 0, that the President withhold American funds from any nation joining a Southeastern Asia Locarno-type treaty.

Just how did "Locarno" become such a shame-word? It is the name of a rather pretty town on beautiful Lake Maggiore in the Italian foothills of the Alps. There gathered in the fall of 1925 Germany's Stresemann, France's Briand, Czechoslovakia's Benes and Great Britain's Austen Chamberlain among others to initial the first treaties after World War I which did not talk about "allies" and "enemies." The idea was to forget about the war and to give peace a chance.

The Locarno agreements, however, were not naive. The most important of them was a non-aggression pact between Germany, France, Britain, Belgium and Italy. Not only did the signatories promise not to attack each other; but if one should attack, the others were pledged to come to the rescue.

This paved the way for the evacuation of the Rhineland by the Allied armies of occupation, and for the admission of Germany to the League of Nations in 1926. Ten years later Hitler sent troops into the demilitarized area, and the League did nothing to stop him.

So Locarno, which was respected for a decade by democracies, was turned into a scrap of paper by a dictator. Some other treaties have fared no better; for example, the Kellogg-Briand disarmament pact. No one can say that future Hitlers will not dishonor treaties yet to be drafted. Is this reason enough for nations not to attempt peace by agreement, be it in Asia or elsewhere, or to pledge united action against a peace-breaker?

The congressional prohibition really is no legal deterrent to peace and security by agreement. Let Eisenhower, Dulles, Churchill and Eden give the rose a new name, but let them persist in the quest for collective security.

Nullifying a District

The Board of Aldermen has deliberately tossed a monkey wrench into the operating machinery of the St. Louis Metropolitan Sewer District. By a vote of 15 to 12 the board declined to levy a 2-cent tax to cover the city's share of the new district's operating costs.

This action must not be permitted to stand. The aldermen have no discretion with respect to the levy, and they know it. City Counselor Liberman advised an aldermanic committee only the other day that it is mandatory under terms of the Sewer District's charter for the aldermen to approve the tax. He also pointed out that the city could be forced to collect it through court action.

Under the Sewer charter, the district's board of trustees determines the sums that must be raised in city and county for its support. Those totals are then certified to the proper local authorities for collection. In the city, they include the aldermen, comptroller, license collector and collector.

What duty then falls on the aldermen? They have merely to make a mathematical calculation. In this case, the Sewer trustees certified that it will be necessary for $330,510 in taxes to be raised in St. Louis. The aldermen have only to set a rate that will bring in that sum. On the basis of simple arithmetic, it is clear that that rate must be 2 cents on each $100 of assessed property value.

To assert that the aldermen have any discretion in this matter is to give the aldermen a controlling voice in the district's affairs. For if the aldermen can determine how much the district may be permitted to raise in St. Louis, they can govern the district's operations.

And if the aldermen have that power, then surely the County Council has similar authority with respect to that part of the district's purse that it raised west of Skinker. If that is so, the powers of the sewer trustees are nullified, and the district is reduced to an absurdity.

The aldermen will be in session again next Thursday on the Oliver bribe allegation, an affair of much public interest. But the first piece of business that day should be a reversal of the stand on the sewer tax. Those aldermen who were playing to the grandstand should remember that the sewer district was created by the people and the people want it to function.

Homers Not Hands Any Day

A kill-joy prudence keeps us from going all the way with Eddie Stanky, manager of the remaining well-known local ball club, when he says that Rookie Joe Cunningham is the man who has given his team the needed shot in the arm. After all, Cunningham, to the best of our knowledge, can't pitch.

But the one thing in baseball about which nobody can argue, neither a grandstand second-guesser nor a big-time coach engaged to teach youngsters the proper batting stance and such, is a home run. It is the ne plus ultra, the bon bon, de luxe feat of the game which even umpires cannot spoil by their warped judgment.

And Mr. Cunningham, just up from Rochester, slammed out three homers in his first two games with the Cardinals—two of them against Milwaukee's redoubtable Warren Spahn. If he can stay anywhere near that pace, Stanky may have something after all: enough four-run homers or even the one-run variety can make up for more than a little weakness on the mound.

So Mr. Cunningham may look forward to a real welcome on his first St. Louis appearance. And nobody will be worrying about Stanky's complaint about how hard his new hired man squeezes one's hand as he rounds third. Managers' hands are expendable. Whoever saw one in a box score?

Where Lies the Danger

The very first subject President Eisenhower discussed at his press conference Wednesday was the need to do something about the number of Americans killed each year over the Fourth of July holiday. Last year on the Fourth some 260 persons met violent death on the highways, drownings accounted for 121 others and 49 additional lives were snuffed out in miscellaneous accidents, including one involving fireworks.

The President expressed the hope that last year's toll could be cut in half. And it can be, easily enough, provided only that people reduce speed on the highways and exercise reasonable care in the water. Those are the two places that present the greatest obstacle to a safe and sane Fourth.

This is not to absolve fireworks. They are not a major cause of holiday deaths any more, true enough; but each Fourth they blind, disfigure and disable hundreds of youngsters. The way to deal with them is to outlaw them, and the way is now open to do just that.

Early last month the President signed a bill introduced by Congresswoman Church of Illinois that makes it unlawful to ship fireworks into states where their retail sale is prohibited. Illinois is one such state, and by next year perhaps Missouri will be too.

Two Notes From Detroit

To keep up with one of the American male's favorite topics, it is necessary to report two events from Detroit. One is the Studebaker-Packard merger; the other is the defeat of the National Automobile Dealers' Association in its attack on auto "bootlegging."

Packard and Studebaker were the last of the so-called independents to merge. Both lost money in the first quarter of this year. (General Motors and Ford have captured nearly 80 per cent of all new car sales; Chrysler has 15 per cent; all the independents together about 6 per cent.) To meet the challenge of the Big Two and a Half, independents try to consolidate output and sales and offer a complete line of cars.

But the high-compression sales contest is causing more trouble for dealers as well as the smaller manufacturers. One example is bootlegging, by which a dealer gets rid of excess new cars by peddling them through used car lots. The Dealers' Association tried to get the Justice Department to approve an anti-bootlegging clause in dealer contracts, but the department took a dim view of this with reason.

Bootlegging is, after all, only what the disapproving car makers and sellers call the practice. In that respect it is much like the original bootlegging, which survived so long because it was popular with the customers.

"LOOK—I'VE GOT TO HAVE MORE SUPPORT"
—From The Washington Post.

The Press Looks at Oppenheimer

The New York Times

The solid weight of the judgment of four experienced and able commissioners is on one side: to the effect that, in the matter of security, "Dr. Oppenheimer has fallen far short of acceptable standards." We have entered an era of undetermined duration in which Communist imperialism has forced upon us the acceptance of tests and standards of "security" which we could not possibly have envisaged before the last world war. The system of security which we have evolved to meet this danger is still experimental. That system itself, no less than the individuals to whose activities it is applied must be subjected to constant scrutiny, lest it fail, on the one hand, to protect the public interest adequately, or, on the other, to preserve the traditional liberties of a free people.

New York Herald Tribune

In upholding the recommendations of the Gray report, the AEC takes a position which, in the light of given facts, seems to be the only one it could have taken under the security regulations of the country. None can fail to sense the tragic overtones of a case which, judged with scrupulous fairness by men of the highest stature, resulted in a verdict against one who contributed notably to America's victory in war. The majority has acted so as to avoid, as far as humanly possible, any flaw in the security regulations that might betray us now or later.

Philadelphia Bulletin

To those who have been worried that security judgments might be based on tenuous grounds, the AEC majority's report is heartening. They found, after careful review of the voluminous testimony, that the instances of falsification by the scientist were too numerous and too serious to overlook. The "fundamental defects of character" on which denial of access to secret material is refused still raise no question of the scientist's loyalty. Those who may in the future be in highly sensitive jobs now have clear notice that their overall conduct must be above reproach.

Nashville Tennessean

Is all the data that he knows to be rendered useless because of a guilt-by-association verdict, based on speculation rather than proof? As far as we can discern, Dr. Oppenheimer is the same man he was when he gave all of his energy and intellect to making the atomic bomb. If there is any change, it is in the national attitude toward men of science. We can be thankful that this new look did not make its appearance until the fullest use had been made of all that the now-rejected physicist had to offer.

Portland Oregonian

If there be fault, it lies in the regulation and not in the commission's decision. His error lay in his failure to comply with the regulation, and no other inference should be drawn from the commission's action. There is no reason why Dr. Oppenheimer cannot continue to be of great service in a private capacity that does not require compliance with strict official security.

The Des Moines Register

The "case" against Dr. Oppenheimer remains a weak one, in our judgment. Nothing that would indicate his unreliability as a guardian of secrets has been brought out. The whole record is essentially the same as in 1947, when Oppenheimer was given clearance by the then new AEC. Most of the derogatory information was known in 1943.

Some bigger questions need to be asked by Congress, the Administration and the general public:

Is the national security clearance system setting a ridiculously narrow standard? Is this country in danger of shutting out its most imaginative, its most creative thinkers from public work?

Is the United States, like the ancient Athenians with their Socrates, judging its best intellects by the degree of conformity of their "associations"?

Detroit Free Press

We think the Atomic Energy Commission acted for the best. It is not, let it be clear, that we think that the pattern pursued by Dr. Oppenheimer necessarily demonstrates him to be a Communist and a conscious subversive. But it seems to us that as a pattern it very definitely demonstrates him to be a man much too fallible in his judgments and breadth of understanding to be trusted with important matters.

Indianapolis Star

We agree with the commission majority that regardless of how foolish a scientist may consider certain security regulations to be, it is his duty to observe them while serving his country. This Dr. Oppenheimer did not do. It seems nevertheless certain that if he were granted security clearance now, he would observe these regulations to the letter. Certainly his great achievements and talents can still be put to constructive use by the Government.

Trenton (N.J.) Evening Times

From the standpoint of national welfare, it is decidedly unfortunate that the issue of security clearance for Dr. Oppenheimer has resolved itself into an all-out battle between men of science and men of affairs. It is hard to see how the nation from this point on can expect the kind of wholehearted technical co-operation that is so plainly essential to sustained progress and development within the atomic field.

The AEC majority makes a big point of Dr. Oppenheimer's associations with leftists, pinks and Communists. In all fairness, it should be noted, however, that most of the evidence adduced along this line had to do with a period when the United States was an actual ally of Russia in the fight against Nazism and Fascism. And no facts were brought forth tending to show that Dr. Oppenheimer ever used these associations for the purpose of divulging secret information.

Los Angeles Times

There is plenty of evidence in the thousand pages of the personnel security board's report that Dr. Oppenheimer flouted restrictions set up to keep the Communist empire from getting scientific data which conceivably would aid the Communists to win the war. There is no evidence that he gave any data to the Communists. But he wilfully broke the rules—broke them with assurance, even with arrogance, as if they were not made for the special breed of which he is a member.

The Washington Post

With the possible exception of those intent on "punishing" Dr. Oppenheimer, no one can take any pleasure in the 4-1 decision. No really satisfactory answer has yet been given to the basic question: What genuinely promotes the broad national security in this delicate area?

Unquestionably the majority opinion does show a long line of dubious incidents and associations. On balance, however, we find ourselves persuaded by the approach of the dissenting commissioner, Dr. Smyth. If one starts with the fundmental assumption that Dr. Oppenheimer is disloyal, Dr. Smyth acknowledges, the derogatory information may arouse suspicion. But "if the entire record is read objectively, Dr. Oppenheimer's loyalty and trustworthiness emerge clearly."

What is the purpose of the security program? It is not an end in itself but a means to an end—to prevent secret information from falling into the hands of an enemy. On this score Dr. Oppenheimer meets the pragmatic test. No one has even alleged that he has divulged secrets to any unauthorized person. "If a man protects the secrets he has in his hands and head," Dr. Smyth observes, "he has shown essential regard for the security system."

Washington Evening Star

The final judgment against Dr. Oppenheimer is, in a sense, the American tragedy of 1954. He is a victim of the conspiratorial age in which we live. The men whose unenviable duty it was to sit in judgment had to balance the interests of an individual against the interests of the United States.

Between Book Ends

Truth Telling Epidemic

THE CAPERBERRY BUSH, by Jack Guinn. (Little, Brown & Co., 273 pgs., $3.95.)

Jack Guinn, newspaper man, in his newspaper story, Hollywood style, is at pains to warn everybody that it is all fiction and nonsense and all the characters and their names were made up by him. Any similarity, he says, between the characters and persons anywhere is unintentional, accidental and without malice. He might have spared himself the pains because "The Caperberry Bush" couldn't be anything else but fictional and nonsensical and there is no similarity between his characters and persons anywhere. Also there is little similarity between his "Bulletin" and newspapers anywhere. With these few exceptions it's a good story, but it just couldn't have happened in real life.

This Jack Guinn, in the person of "Joe Ely," worked on the "Bulletin." One day he had to write a piece about one Dr. Tibor Pojar, who had invented a truth serum. "We didn't have many facts," he says, "but when you've been in the newspaper business as long as I have you don't need them." Joe Ely was that kind of a newspaper man. He was in the newspaper business, he went on to say, because he didn't know any other way to make a living. So what could be expected, and what the hell! That went for all his associates on the "Bulletin" and the people on the opposition papers were as bad if not a little worse.

Jack Guinn

What was going on in that Midwestern city, Joe's boss, a woman, was running for governor and everything went. Then along came this character, Dr. Tibor Pojar, with his truth serum, and was supposed to have thrown it into the city reservoir, with the effect of causing all who drank the water to confess their sins. That caused a panic and an exodus. It was a big story and the "Bulletin" was right in there handling it to the hilt.

It was a situation that involved all of those characters that Jack Guinn had made up and naturally they were stirred up about it, for their sins were many. No wonder they got out of town as fast as they could. It all made good copy for Joe Ely of the "Bulletin." The facts were few but that was nothing to bother a man who was in the newspaper business because he didn't know how to make a living in any other way.

It is not until the 260th page that the title of the book is explained. The caperberry bush, it seems, grew in biblical times and was supposed to rejuvenate aging persons who chewed its leaves. That explains some of Mr. Guinn's characters.

The reading public will learn from the book a lot of things about newspaper life that aren't so. But yes, it's a good story, even if it is a fake.

The Steps of Genius

THE CREATIVE READER, edited by R. W. Stallman and R. E. Watters. (Ronald Press. $5.)

This is a comprehensive anthology of English and American literature, which offers the reader 26 short stories, an entire novel (Melville's "Billy Budd"), five plays, a score of essays and some 150 poems. That is a bargain in itself, but the book acquires further value from the commentaries of the editors, who analyze the creative process by which these works came into being. The last is no perfunctory once-over-lightly. They take the manuscript of Keats's "Eve of St. Agnes," for instance, and go through each line as it was written and rewritten by the poet. In the last resort, of course, genius cannot be dissected like an insect specimen, but there is an undeniable fascination in retracing the progression of genius as it is recorded in a poet's revisions or in Beethoven's notebooks. "The Creative Reader" gives you that opportunity.

SENATE GROUP ASKS AEC HOLD UP POWER DEAL

Subcommittee Says Private Utility Contract Might Cost U.S. $90,000,000.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (UP) — The Senate Anti-Monopoly subcommittee has urged the Atomic Energy Commission to hold off signing a private power contract pending an investigation of the controversial transaction.

The subcommittee said the contract with a private utility syndicate for power in the Tennessee valley might cost the Government more than $90,000,000.

The three members of the subcommittee present at a closed hearing yesterday — Chairman William Langer (Rep.), North Dakota; Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, and Senator Harley M. Kilgore (Dem.), West Virginia — voted unanimously for a resolution urging the AEC to delay either signing or negotiating the contract.

The resolution declared the contract, ordered by President Eisenhower last month, might not be the result of free competition and might be "contrary to the public interest."

Syndicate Heads Called.

Langer invited the heads of the power syndicate to testify in closed or open hearing next week. He subpenaed their records.

Their attorney said he did not know when the utility officials, E. H. Dixon and Eugene Yates, might testify.

The subcommitte action came after Kefauver introduced legislation to bar the AEC from buying power for resale. He sought to block the Eisenhower Adminstration's plan for the AEC to contract for power to supply the Memphis (Tenn.) area.

The subcommittee released testimony taken in two days of closed hearings in which Walter von Tresckow, head of one power combine, charged that pressure was used to keep his organization out of the project to build a plant to sell power to TVA.

Von Tresckow, New York financier, said Middle South Utilities, headed by Dixon, influenced the engineering firm of Gibbs & Hill to withdraw from the New Yorker's plan. David B. Sloan, president of Gibbs Hill, denied that his firm ever had agreed to participate.

Lucius E. Burch Jr., Memphis attorney representing Von Tresckow, said the AEC put such specifications on the plant that his clients would not be able to build it. The specifications, he said, calling for a reserve of 200,000 kilowatts over the 600,000 called for meant that only an existing plant could undertake the contract without excessive cost.

Charges Favoritism.

Burch charged also that K. D. Nichols, AEC general manager, worked closely with a group headed by Dixon and Yates, head of the Southern company, while giving no co-operation to the Von Tresckow group.

Burch said Nichols and the commissioners not only negotiated "personally" with Dixon and Yates, "but the AEC initiated the proposal to the Dixon-Yates group."

Senator John C. Stennis (Dem.), Mississippi, said in a Senate speech he was "deeply concerned" that the Administration ordered AEC to contract to supply power to TVA. He said the action puts the AEC "out of character" and into the middle of the public power vs. private power fight at a time when it should have the united support of the public and Congress.

ANTI-FLUORIDATION GROUP TO SEEK VOTE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP) — A citizens group opposed to fluoridation of Chicago's drinking water is seeking 500,000 signatures to submit the question to a referendum in November.

The city council last month approved a program to add fluorine compounds to Chicago's drinking water as means of reducing tooth decay in children. It is scheduled to start early in 1955.

The question to appear on the petition, if the 500,000 signatures are obtained, will be: "Shall the use of sodium fluoride, a deadly poison, or any other fluorides be prohibited in the water supply of the city of Chicago?"

The American Dental Association has taken the position that fluorine is safe if added to water in the ratio of one part in a million. Some 17,000,000 persons live in cities that add fluorine compounds to their water.

WHOLESALE PRICES ROSE 0.1 PER CENT OVER PAST WEEK

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) —Wholesale prices as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics increased one-tenth of 1 per cent during the week ended June 29.

The bureau's index rose to 110 per cent of the 1947-49 average, due to fractional increases in average prices for farm products and processed foods.

CHARLES A. THOMAS NAMED TO WASHINGTON U. BOARD

Charles Allen Thomas, Monsanto Chemical Co. president, has been elected a member of the Washington University board of directors, it was announced yesterday by James M. Douglas, board chairman.

Charles A. Thomas

The appointment, effective at once, fills the vacancy left when Ethan A. H. Shepley became university chancellor in March. Thomas, president of the chemical firm since 1941, was one of the key figures in development of atomic energy.

He joined Monsanto in 1936 when Thomas & Hochwalt Laboratories, Dayton, O., was acquired by the St. Louis firm, with Thomas becoming central research director. In World War II he was in charge of final purification of plutonium and from 1945 to 1948 served as project director of the Clinton Laboratories operated by Monsanto at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

FCC REFUSES TO DISMISS 2 CHANNEL 11 APPLICANTS

The St. Louis Amusement Co.'s request that two pending applications for television channel 11 at St. Louis be dismissed was denied yesterday in Washington by the Federal Communications Commission.

St. Louis Amusement Co., itself one of the five applicants for the channel, asserted 220 Television and Columbia Broadcasting System should be ruled out of the contest, the former because its plans were not specific enough and CBS because it already has an interest in the allowed limit of five stations.

The commission held, however, that 220 Television's application had not been strongly enough challenged by the amusement firm and that CBS was eligible because it had previously given notice it would dispose of one of its stations if granted channel 11 here. Other applicants for the channel are St. Louis Telecast, Inc., and Broadcast House, Inc.

APPEALING CONCERT BY LITTLE SYMPHONY

Thomas Scherman Conducts Diversified Program—Irene Jacobi Is Piano Soloist.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

Thomas Scherman, director of the New York Little Orchestra Society, conducted the St. Louis Little Symphony Orchestra last night in Washington University Quadrangle. With Irene Jacobi as piano soloist, he presented a program of diverse elements and consistently appealing quality.

Mrs. Jacobi played the solo part in the Concertino for Piano and Orchestra by her late husband, the composer Frederick Jacobi. It was a work of considerable melodic inventiveness and though it posed no problems for the listener, its personal idiom was strong enough to prevent it from sounding derivative. The two fast movements were attractively animated. The performance was generally well wrought and expressive.

In Sebastian Bach's Concerto for Two Pianos and Orchestra, Mrs. Jacobi was joined by Mr. Scherman at the second piano and all hands had an enjoyable time in performing this marvelously organized, cheerful and engaging music. The fugal last movement was particularly stimulating and not merely because of its ingenious design.

The conductor started his concert with Vivaldi's charming Concerto in F in which he conducted from the keyboard, as it were, in Eighteenth century style; offered Stravinsky's frivolous Danses Concertantes by way of modern flavoring and closed with Mozart's Symphony No. 33 (K.319), a seldom played work. As no program notes were available, and couldn't be read in any case, Scherman substituted his own spoken commentaries from time to time. His remarks were more humorous than informative, though in the latter respect they were as helpful as most program analyses.

In general Scherman's conducting was a little loose so far as precision was concerned, but the lyrical beauty and the spirit of the music came through all the same.

DANIEL F. HYLAND ESTATE INVENTORIED AT $246,792

Daniel F. Hyland, who operated a wholesale automobile and industrial lubrication supply firm here for 25 years until his death March 24, left an estate valued at $246,792 it was disclosed in an inventory filed yesterday in Probate Court. He lived at 329 Belt avenue and was president of Dan F. Hyland, Inc., 3229 Locust street.

The main item in the inventory was stocks listed at $111,792. The largest single group of these was 207 shares of the Hyland firm, listed at $54,028. His will, filed previously, noted that a substantial amount of life insurance had been left to his wife as beneficiary and that he wished her to use this for pleasures rather than necessities. Hyland was 65 years old.

Under terms of his will the estate was left in trust to his wife, to be distributed eventually to members of the family.

Herbert B. Loper Nominated.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)— President Eisenhower yesterday nominated Herbert B. Loper of Oxford, Nebr., to be chairman of the military liaison committee to the Atomic Energy Commission. The White House at the same time announced the President had accepted the resignation of the present chairman, Robert Lebaron of Washington, D.C., effective Aug. 1.

METHODISTS EXTEND DRIVE FOR FUNDS

Church Builders' 10-Dollar Club Seeks 1000 Members for Three Years.

By JOHN T. STEWART
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

St. Louis Methodists this week were pushing their drive to enroll 1000 members in their Builders' 10 Dollar Club.

The St. Louis district of the Methodist Church has approved a plan to build three new churches in this area within the next three years, and the aim of the Builders' Club is to underwrite these new churches.

Every member who joins the club pledges $10 for church expansion. This amount is paid on call as funds are needed, and not more than two calls will be made in any one year. The program will end after three years.

The drive for 1000 members was originally planned to close this week, but because of the July 4th holiday, the time has been extended to July 12.

About 175 Methodists signed as charter members of the Builders' Club when the program was first presented at a district meeting in May. Twelve of these laymen agreed to take two or more memberships.

One Methodist layman of the city sent a check for $1000, and wrote, "This is the greatest and most urgent program St. Louis Methodism has initiated in 25 years. Many other laymen should give equal amounts."

The Rev. Dr. Herman H. Luetzow, superintendent of the St. Louis Methodist district, pointed out that if 1000 members can be enlisted, this will mean $60,000 in three years. "This would provide $20,000 for each proposed new church," he said. "With this amount to start with, we should have no real difficulty in launching three new churches."

Each church in the St. Louis district was assigned a minimum goal of memberships in the club. Five churches had reached or exceeded their goal this week, the Rev. Dr. Luetzow said. They were Wagoner Memorial, Wesley, First Methodist Church of Webster Groves, Kingshighway, and Bowman.

As soon as the goal of 1000 members has been reached, the first call for $10 will go out.

The Rev. Mr. Branding, who made the trip by plane, also visited Spain, Portugal and Switzerland. He left St. Louis last May 6. His father was born in Germany, and the pastor is able to preach in the German language. He has been pastor here for 20 years.

During the Rev. Mr. Branding's absence, the Apostolic Pentecostal Church was served by the Rev. Winfred I. Black.

CARMELITE NOVENA WILL BEGIN JULY 10

Nightly Services to Be Held on Monastery Grounds, 9150 Calyton Road.

The annual outdoor novena of Our Lady of Mount Carmel will begin next Saturday and end on Sunday, July 18, the feast day, it was announced this week. Services will be held daily at 8 p.m. on the convent grounds of the Carmelite Monastery, 9150 Clayton road, Ladue.

The novena is sponsored for the sixth consecutive year by members of the Third Order of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, lay people.

The sermons will be preached by the Rev. Gabriel Hentrich, provincial definitor of the Southern Province of the Carmelite Order, and a former St. Louisan. He is pastor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel and St. Teresa of the Child Jesus Church, San Antonio, Tex. Father Gabriel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Hentrich of 3986 Bowen street, St. Louis. He attended St. Anthony of Padua School and St. Louis University High School.

Father Gabriel was one of the first Americans to enter the Southern Province of the Discalced Carmelite Fathers, and is the only St. Louisan in the group. He entered the order in 1933.

A large portable altar will be erected on the convent grounds for the novena, and the background of cedars and shrubbery will be illuminated by colored spotlights. The monstrance, a precious relic of the St. Louis Carmelites, will be carried each evening from the convent chapel to the outdoor altar.

William P. Crowley is prior of the Third Order of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, in charge of novena activities. As prior, he succeeded Oliver L. Parks, one of the founders of the Third Order in St. Louis. Mrs. Norrie Passino, a member of the Third Order, is again in charge of design and decoration of the outdoor altar.

A total of 759 young men and women from 50 countries were brought to the United States as "Crusade Scholars" by the Methodist Church in the last nine years, the church Board of Missions reports.

There are 110 such scholars in America now from 23 countries and they are studying in 35 institutions. Most scholarships are for two years of graduate study.

During the four years ending August, 1953, a total of 334 scholars returned to their native lands and are at work there. The largest number, 63, returned to India.

National Body of Secretaries Elects Dr. Wagner President

The REV. DR. O. WALTER WAGNER (center) being congratulated upon his election as president of the National Association of Council Secretaries. The REV. DR. WILLIAM POWELL (left) of Philadelphia, is a past president of the association, and the REV. DR. QUINTER MILLER is an officer of the National Council of Churches, New York. The Rev. Dr. Wagner is executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Church Federation. He was elected to the top national post at the 1954 conference at Lake Geneva, Wis., which closed Sunday.

The National Association of Council Secretaries, representing church co-operation in 48 states, elected the Rev. Dr. O. Walter Wagner president at the conference last week at Lake Geneva, Wis. He has been executive director of the Metropolitan Church Federation of St. Louis for four years. It is the first time that anyone from Missouri has held the top post.

The association represents 300 state, county and city church federations allied with the National Council of Churches. It also gives directions to 700 other state and local councils having unsalaried leadership.

The Rev. Dr. Wesley H. Hager, pastor of Grace Methodist Church and president of the St. Louis federation, attended the Lake Geneva conference. Others from St. Louis were the Rev. Paul Rains, director of the Department of Christian Education; Miss Dorothy Hetlage, administrative assistant of the federation, and Lawrence J. Dorn, director of finance.

The association of secretaries voted to send the Rev. Dr. Wagner as its fraternal delegate to the general assembly of the National Council of Churches in Boston, Nov. 29-Dec. 6. He will also serve on the Central Department of Field Administration of the national council.

The Metropolitan Church Federation represents more than 500 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches.

PRAYER, STUDY, EVANGELISM SET AS LAYMEN'S GOALS

Four basic aims for laymen's work in the Episcopal Church have been drawn up by the presiding bishop's committee, The Church in Action reports.

The goals are: "Deepening the spiritual life of the men of the church through continuing emphasis on the sacraments, prayer and Bible study; extending the impact of Christianity through personal evangelism and the establishment of new churches; providing proper financial support for the church's program, and enlisting laymen's special skills and talents in the work of the church."

77,000,000 Lutherans in World.

There are 77,000,000 Lutherans in the world, according to the National Lutheran Council, New York. The Lutheran World Federation today includes 52 member churches in 25 countries with an aggregate membership of 46,372,000, or nearly two-thirds of all Lutherans.

JOPLIN PASTOR ASSUMES STATE BAPTIST POST

The Rev. Dr. Earl Harding became general superintendent of the Missouri Baptist General Association Thursday, the Baptist state journal, Word and Way, reported. He succeeded the Rev. Dr. T. W. Medearis, who retired after 12 years' service.

The association represents 1733 Baptist churches with a total membership of more than 383,000. The state offices are in the Missouri Baptist Building at Jefferson City.

The Rev. Dr. Harding, 41 years old, had been pastor of First Baptist Church, Joplin, Mo., for only seven months. He went to Joplin from First Baptist Church, Warrensburg, Mo.

W. E. GARRISON, IN 80TH YEAR, WILL NOT RETIRE

The Rev. Dr. Winfred E. Garrison, professor of philosophy and religion at the University of Houston, Tex., and a native of St. Louis, is approaching his eightieth birthday, but he has no plan to retire.

In a letter to the Post-Dispatch, he writes:

"I expected to retire at the end of the 1953-54 academic year, but the administration asked me to stay on for another year—'at least,' as they kindly put it. So I am staying on.

"In late April and early May I had a three-week leave of absence to enable me to go to the Middle East for the American Friends of the Middle East. I had a week of interesting conferences with Moslem and Arab leaders at a mountain town in Lebanon. Also did a little sightseeing in Damascus, Jerusalem, Beirut, Cairo, and Rome, and visited friends in Madrid.

"I am very busy just now writing a book on 'The Disciples of Christ and Christian Unity'."

The Rev. Dr. Garrison will serve as a consultant at the World Council of Churches assembly in Evanston, Ill., in August.

He was born on Oct. 1, 1874, in St. Louis, where his father, the Rev. James Harvey Garrison, was editor of The Christian-Evangelist for 47 years. Winfred Garrison was assistant editor from 1900 to 1904. He has been literary editor of the Christian Century since 1923. He was a professor at Chicago University for many years.

Happy Whacking Cubs Now Own 7 of 9 Games Played With Cardinals

Wind Aids Chicago in 7-6 Victory

SCORE BY INNINGS

CARDINALS (at Chicago)
0
CHICAGO

BATTERIES: Cardinals — Beard and Sarni; Cubs—Hacker and Cooper.

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

CHICAGO, July 3 — Back there is spring training when hearts were young and gay, the Cardinals took the unprecedented Florida-to-California plane ride for their first visit on the Pacific Coast since 1925. The Redbirds were wined and dined royally.

In the process they also took four straight exhibition games from the Chicago Cubs, who not only were roasted and toasted on the radio and in the newspapers out there, but, in addition, were made the butt of Joe Miller jokes by half-baked comedians and pot-bellied politicians at a banquet both clubs attended.

They sizzled, those Cubs did, hearing the Cardinals praised as the greatest thing to hit California since the gold rush of '49—that's 1849, son—and themselves needled as the most unwelcome visitors since a late freeze ruined a year's orange crop.

The Cubs' indignation was summed up by a favorite native son of Los Angeles, big Hank Sauer, called on to speak for the Chicago ball club that had turned its back on Catalina Island and even its own junior-sized Wrigley Field of the west in favor of Mesa, Ariz., as a training base.

Worm Since Has Turned.

"There have been a lot of cracks about how good the Cardinals look and how bad we seem," Sauer said. "Just remember that these games don't count."

Big Henry was so right. Those games, those Grapefruit League victories by the Cardinals, didn't count. But the nettled Cubs made their indignation a painful reminder for the Redbirds, who yesterday lost their seventh contest of nine against the lowly Chicago Nationals, 7 to 6, and those nine have counted indeed.

To humiliate the Cardinals again, the Cubs needed help this time from the fickle winds of Wrigley Field Sr., for it was a garden-variety pop fly, lashed back from beyond second base to almost first, that eluded scampering Red Schoendienst for a cheap hit and set up the game's decisive run in the seventh inning.

But before the wind changed its course—midway as a storm out over Lake Michigan quickly dropped the temperature 15 degrees — Stan Hack's hitters once more proved themselves happy whackers against the Redbirds.

When Dee Fondy homered off Vic Raschi in the first inning and Ransom Jackson belted one with two on in the third, a five-run Chicago inning, the Cubs had combed the Cardinals for 22 circuit smashes or an average of two and one-half a game this season. The same Chicago team has won only 18 of 59 contests from the rest of the National league.

Birds Get 4 in Fifth.

The Cardinals, down 6-0 as Raschi headed for the showers and a fourth defeat, struck back to score four times in the fifth off soft-throwing southpaw Howard Pollet, an old teammate of the championship past.

For the first time, too, Ellis (Cot) Deal proved more than just a batting-practice pitcher for the opposition, causing the Cubs to complain with a measure of support form the umpires that he wasn't drying his right hand on his uniform after wiping perspiration from his forehead. The implication was that a sweat ball could be as troublesome as a spitter.

But Deal finally satisfied the umpires and stayed on to become a one-run hurler for four frames. That tally, as mentioned, followed Ralph Kiner's high inning-opening pop-up in the seventh. Schoendienst, swung around to the shortstop side in the strong left-field shift for Kiner, called for the ball, then saw it ripped away by the wind and finally missed a grab near first.

As a result, a sacrifice and Ernie Banks's second hit in 26 trips, a double, drove in the run that was necessary to withstand a two-run Redbird uprising which included Joe Cunningham's single and a pinch two-base blow by Solly Hemus.

Then after those inning-opening blows in the St. Louis eighth, a previously-pounded new Chicago relief pitcher from Shreveport, righthander Bill Tremel, turned back the last five hitters he faced to help the Cubs gain another installment of revenge for the spring training four-in-a-row that embarrassed them on the Coast.

Redbird Notes.

Harvey Haddix, encouraged by the condition of his heavily-taped left leg, tested his injured knee walking and expressed hope he could pitch in turn Monday at St. Louis. Brooks Lawrence, who will make his Busch Stadium debut in the holiday doubleheader with Milwaukee, worked a scoreless inning in relief yesterday.

Sensational Kid Cunningham had a more quiet third day. Offstride against Pollet's changing speeds, he tried to bunt in the second inning, then walked. He grounded out sharply to second base in the fourth, fanned on a slow curve in the fifth and finally drilled a single to right in the eighth.

Red Schoendienst hit in his nineteenth straight game, but Rip Repulski was halted after delivering in 16 consecutive contests in which he hit a sizzling .407. Rip's 30 blows in that stretch included four doubles, three triples, eight homers and he batted in 19 runs.

They Want to Go to Cleveland, July 13

—United Press Telephoto.

RALPH KINER of the Cubs, the Cardinal, STAN MUSIAL, and RANSOM JACKSON of the Cubs talk over their chances of being selected for the National League All-Star team which opposes the American League stars in Cleveland, July 13. Kiner is in contention for left field in the voting of the fans while Musial is the leading vote-getter. Jackson has hopes of winning the third-base spot.

Indians Win Twice, Drop White Sox to Third Place

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Bobby Feller may yet get another chance to win a world series game, one of the few triumphs that has eluded him during his brilliant pitching career.

At the ripe old age of 35 the Cleveland righthander who came off an Iowa farm 19 summers ago with just about the fastest fast ball the majors ever saw is proving a vital factor in the Indians' pennant bid.

He doesn't work often any more and when he does he has to rely on craft and guile instead of blazing speed. But he continues to be successful and might very well get the call in a long series. Cleveland has been in only one world series since Feller joined the club. He lost twice in 1948 to the old Boston Braves.

Last night he turned in his fifth victory of the season, checking the Chicago White Sox 3-2 on four hits in the opener of a twilight-night doubleheader. The Indians grabbed the nightcap, too, by a 5-4 margin and dumped the challenging Chicagoans into third place.

Two of the hits off Feller were homers, by Chico Carrasquel, the first batter he faced, and by Minnie Minoso leading off in the ninth.

Doby to the Rescue.

But Feller got some vital help from Larry Doby who contributed a 400-foot home run to tie the score in the sixth inning and then singled home the second run in the eighth. Doby was the big gun in the second game as well. His thirteenth homer of the season came with the score tied and two men aboard in the fifth.

The New York Yankees crept in the side door into second place although they split their thirteenth consecutive doubleheader. After beating Washington 6-5 in 11 innings, they bowed 7-4 to rookie Dean Stone who won his seventh against a single loss. The Yankees haven't captured a twin bill since August of last season.

The New York Giants stretched their National League lead to five full games. They whipped Pittsburgh 9-5 with a five-run rally in the seventh inning and Brooklyn lost its fourth straight, this time 7-6 to the Philadelphia Phillies. In other National League action Milwaukee beat Cincinnati twice, 11-4 and 2-1 and Chicago edged St. Louis 7-6.

Elsewhere in the American League Boston thumped Philadelphia 8-4 and Baltimore used a three-hit shutout by Joe Coleman to turn back Detroit 2-0.

The Yankees' first game victory came after Washington had moved into a 5-4 lead in the top of the ninth. Yogi Berra singled home the tieing run in the last of the ninth and came through in the clutch again in the eleventh with a single that scored Bob Cerv with the winning tally.

The Yankees found themselves five runs behind after two and one-half innings of the second game and couldn't catch up against the Senators who now hold a 6-5 season's edge over the world champions.

Rookies Fail to Last.

The Giants and Dodgers, fresh from battling each other for three days, both tried rookie pitchers and neither one survived. Ramon Monzant threw three no-hit innings for the Giants in Pittsburgh but had to be yanked during a four-run Pittsburgh rally in the fourth. Dusty Rhodes, who won two of the three games against Brooklyn with pinch hit singles, delivered another single, again as a pinch hitter, to start the Giants' big inning.

Pete Wojey, just up from Mobile, started for Brooklyn and lasted until the fifth in Philadelphia. The big blow for the Phillies, however, was a three run homer by Del Ennis off Clem Labine in the eighth.

Home runs produced the Milwaukee victories. Eddie Mathews hit two in the first game, when Henry Aaron and Joe Adcock got one apiece. In the second game Del Crandall's fifth inning homer off Fred Baczewski provided the winning margin. Baczewski gave up only two other hits. Winner Gene Conley limited the Redlegs to four.

Grady Hatton's three-run triple in the eighth gave the Red Sox a comfortable margin over the Athletics but Coleman's shutout enabled Baltimore to stay half a game ahead of the Sox in the seventh place.

Course Record, Open Lead for Mrs. Zaharias

PEABODY, Mass., July 3 (UP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias held a commanding 12-stroke lead today as the U. S. Women's Open Golf Championship went into the final 18 holes.

PEABODY, Mass., July 3 (UP)—Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias made a strong bid for her third Open title as she fired a brilliant one-under-par 71 yesterday to set a course record and take undisputed lead at the end of the second round of United States Women's Open golf championship.

Mrs. Zaharias went into yesterday's play in a first-place 72 tie with Claire Doran of Cleveland. But the 30-year-old amateur came in with a seven-over-par 79 for a two-round total of 151, eight strokes behind the Babe.

Mrs. Zaharias one-putted seven greens in setting the record on the par-72, 6393-yard Salem tournament course.

The Babe was the first woman to break par on the tournament course. The tournament course is 300 feet longer and three strokes shorter than the regular course.

Miss Doran said she was hitting the ball well but her putting was off as she bogeyed seven holes. Betty Hicks of Durham, N.C., shot a second round 76 to tie the Cleveland school teacher for third position.

Defending National Champion Bettsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., carded a 35-38—73, knocking four strokes off Thursday's game, to move into second place with a two-round 150.

All Tilly, one of the mainstays of the Holman stable, seeks a third straight victory in the six-furlong feature at Fairmount Park tonight. In races the last two weeks, the Holman filly has shown the way at the finish line.

Glenn K. Bright Imp, Scarlet Time and Issybee, all of which have won at the Collinsville track, as well as May Lee H, a recent arrival from Chicago, will be starters.

Bob White and Kenny Griffith continued their battle for jockey honors, each coming through with a victory. White won with Down Card ($12.60) in the fourth, while Griffith took the seventh with Mary Jane G ($9.00).

The daily double on Teegee and U. S. Bound paid $67.40 for $2. . . . A crowd of 7335 wagered $274,445 on the night's program.

On a report from Y. T. Oester, chief chemist of the Chicago Biological Research Laboratory, representing the Illinois Racing Board, Mrs. Ila P. Cooper, owner and Earl Watson, trainer of the horse Patty's Pride, winner of the third race, Wednesday night, were suspended on a "doping" charge. The Chicago test showed the presence of a drug in the nature of procaine. The purse won by Patty's Pride was ordered redistributed as follows: Fille de Joie, first; Maker This, second; Free Par, third and Green Gal, fourth.

College Track Star Leads in Decathlon Event

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 3 (UP)—Jim Podoley, a 20-year-old sophomore from Central Michigan College, takes a 177-point lead into today's last five events in the National A.A.U. Decathlon championship.

Podoley, who won the Kansas relays decathlon in April, collected a total of 3831 points last night when the competition began with the 100-meter dash, broadjump, 16-pound shot put, high jump and 400-meter run.

Aubrey Lewis, a 19-year-old recent graduate of Montclair, N. J., who plans to enter Penn State in September, is in second place with 3654 points going into today's events — the 110-meter high hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and 1500-meter run. The competition begins at 1 p.m. (EDT).

The favorite, Bob Richards of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, is third with 3542 points. Bob, the 1952 Olympic pole vault champion and 1951 National decathlon winner, is confident he can pull to the front during today's action, which includes his specialty.

Rafer Johnson of Kingsburg, Calif., finished the first five tests in fourth place with 3511 points. Clarence Smith of the Shanahan Catholic Club of Philadelphia is fifth with 3418 followed by Joel Shankle of Duke with 3380.

Podoley led off with a 11.1-second clocking in the 100-meter dash last night and then took the lead by broad jumping 22 feet, 3 inches for a two-event total of 1590 points. He remained in front by heaving the shot 38 feet, eight inches; clearing 6 feet, 1¾ inches in the high jump and running 400 meters in 50.3 seconds.

Lewis starts today's action in second place because he produced the top performances in the two running events. He ran 100 meters in 11 seconds and 400 meters in 49.1.

Phils Sign Catcher.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3 (UP)—Richard Taylor, local high school catcher, was signed by the Philadelphia Phillies and will report to the Bradford team in the Pony League next season. The 17-year-old, 175-pound Taylor was regular backstop for Germantown High School the past three seasons.

Holtmann and Buchholz Win Valley Singles Tennis Titles

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 3—St. Louis's junior tennis program paid rich dividends in the youth divisions of the forty-ninth annual Missouri Valley tournament here.

Of the eight junior titles, six went to St. Louis entries and the Mound City was well-represented in the other two brackets.

Al Holtmann, playing some of the best tennis of his career, surged to the junior singles championships yesterday with a startling 6-0, 6-0 conquest of Kansas City's Bob Riley. Holtmann and Cal Moore had won doubles earlier.

Earl Buchholz Jr., captured the boys' title for the second straight year with a 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Ron Anglemyer of Winfield, Kan. Buchholz also was a two-time winner, sharing doubles honors with Rod Susman.

Mary Bonkrud and Joan Weinstein had to play almost all day to win the small girls' doubles honors, but finally eked out a 7-5, 12-10 decision in a three-hour match. The victims were Gladys Craven of Omaha and Mimi Izzard of Kansas City. Erika Puetz took the small girls' singles title.

The only titles to elude St. Louis were junior girls' singles, won by Sallie Rielly of Kansas City and junior girls' doubles, with Judy Mills of Chickasha and Suzy Hamilton of Cedar Falls, Ia., repeating.

St. Louis' junior girls' corps went gunning in the women's division yesterday and put a pair into the quarterfinals.

Lois Weinstein downed Pat Norman, 6-3, 6-4, and Carole Boshard stopped Miss Hamilton, 8-6, 6-3. Bev Tolan extended second seeded Doris Popple to a 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 margin before bowing. Miss Tolan had blanked Lila Brown of Kansas City in the first round.

Bunny Wall of St. Louis, seeded third, advanced with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Tudy Edmonds of Tulsa.

In men's play, Sanford Astor and Dick Horwitz won a first round doubles test from Robert Paul of Durant and Leroy Land of Oklahoma City, 6-1, 6-3. Cal Moore and his local partner, Jerry Patterson, went down before hometowners Don and Barrt Walraven, 6-2, 7-5.

Moore posted a first round singles win over George Lin of Hong Kong, China, 6-4, 6-2, but bowed in his next start to Frank Wilkinson of Kansas City, 6-3, 6-1.

Hodge, Rosenheim Win Tennis Match

Karl Hodge and Bob Rosenheim won from George Stemmler and Jim Dreyer, 6-2, 6-3, in the opening round of the Westwood Country Club invitational doubles tennis tourney.

Leigh Strassner and Fred Arnstein defeated John English and Erwin Bry, 6-1, 6-3, while Dick Waltke and Bob Schweich won from George Mallinckrodt and Roger Schwab, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Mrs. Getz Is Winner.

Mrs. Gil Getz, with a 45, was the winner of the low net on the odd holes tournament at Crystal Lake. Mrs. S. Connor, 50, won in the second flight and Mrs. G. W. Stuart, 59, in the third flight.

Young Infielder Collapses, Dies After Singling

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 3 (AP)—Mac Smith, young utility infielder for the Hagerstown Packets of the Class B Piedmont League, died here last night shortly after collapsing on the playing field during a game with Portsmouth.

Doctors attributed his death to malaria "and complications." He died on the way to a hospital.

Smith, 23 years old, who as a Marine in the Korean war won two Purple Hearts and a Navy Cross, singled home a runner in the fifth inning and then collapsed at first base, complaining of dizziness. First aid was administered on the field.

He had contracted malaria in Korea but was not thought to be in serious condition.

Smith's home was in Chickamauga, Ga. He was the son of the pastor of Christ Church there.

The Hagerstown club postponed today's scheduled game with Lynchburg.

Aldermen Vote To Hike Fees For Golf Play

Golfers who play the Municipal courses in Forest Park will be nicked for a considerable increase in fees by a bill which passed the Board of Aldermen yesterday by a 17-to-9 vote.

Daily price for each round on the 9-hole course will be hiked from 30 to 50 cents for weekdays and from 35 to 65 cents on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The fee on the 18-hole course will be boosted from 60 cents to $1 for weekdays and 75 cents to $1.50 on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

These new prices will go into effect immediately upon the signing of the bill by Mayor Tucker.

Annual permits will be $25 with holders being forced to pay 20 cents each time they use the 9-hole course and 40 cents each time they play over the 18-hole course.

At present annual fees are $12.50 for a permit to play from Mondays through Fridays and $20 to play at any time with no additional charges.

This change will not go into effect until next April.

Haas, Mayer Tied for Lead

DETROIT, July 3 (AP)—Fred Haas of New Orleans and Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., each fighting an ailment, shot sub-par golf and led a field of 72 players into today's third round of the Motor City Open.

The 38-year-old Haas, using an atomizer to relieve a siege of hay fever, carded a four under par 67 in yesterday's second round for a 71-67—138 total.

Mayer, a quiet 29-year-old iron ace, followed with a five under par 66—the best round of the tournament—and posted 72-66—138. He straightened out a slicing ailment which possibly cost him the National Open championship two weeks ago.

Their shot-making over the par 71 Meadowbrook Country Club course gave them a two-stroke lead over two tested professionals—Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., and Bob Toski of Livingston, N.J.—and a comparative unknown, Bill Markham of Royal Oak, Mich. Each shot 140, two under par.

The first day leader, Dave Douglas of Grossinger, N.Y., scrambled at the start and slipped to a 73 after his opening 68. His 141 bracketed him in sixth place with five others—Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif.; Johnny Palmer, Charlotte, N.C.; Tommy Bolt, Houston, Tex.; George Fazio, Pine Valley, N.J., and Ted Rhodes, Chicago.

Persley Favored.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 3 (AP)—Clever Art Persley, seeking to get back in the running for a lightweight title shot, was favored to make France's Hocine Khalfi his fifth straight victim tonight when they meet in a ten-round television bout. (The fight will be telecast by KSTM-TV.)

Miss Connolly Wins in Wimbledon Final

Californian Gains Title Third Time

'Stood' Real Well

LONDON, July 3 (UP).
A TICKET scalper tried to sell Jaroslav Drobny a seat for the Wimbledon tennis final yesterday when he showed up at the courts.

"Sorry," the title winner replied, "I shall have to stand during the match."

WIMBLEDON, England, July 3 (UP)—Maureen Connolly, 19-year-old United States tennis queen from San Diego, Calif., won the Wimbledon women's singles championship today for the third straight year by defeating Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-2, 7-5.

Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose gave Australia the men's doubles championship for the fifth consecutive year when they defeated Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, O., in the final, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

By winning, Miss Connolly came within range of Helen Wills Moody's record of four straight all-England titles. Mrs. Moody won the championship from 1927 to 1930 and later won it four more times.

Miss Connolly's triumph brought America the women's singles championship for the eleventh straight tournament.

Jaroslav Drobny, 33-year-old Czech refugee, upset the 19-year-old Ken Rosewall for the men's singles title yesterday, 13-11, 4-6, 6-2, 9-7. Drobny won the crown for the first time after trying since 1938.

The 19-year-old Miss Connolly dropped only 12 games in 10 sets while gaining the final. She averaged only 30 minutes per match in ousting five opponents.

When she made her first appearence at Wimbledon in 1952, she snapped Miss Brough's title at three in a row by winning their title match, 7-5, 6-3.

In the 1952 final, Louise battled Miss Connolly on almost even terms in the first set but was unable to maintain the pace against the champion's sizzling forehand and backhand strokes.

Louise later was hampered by an elbow injury but looked more like her old self Thursday as she eliminated Miss Doris Hart while Miss Connolly was ousting Betty Rosenquest in the semi-finals.

Talbert Eliminated in Tri-State Tennis Play

CINCINNATI, July 3 (AP)—Billy Talbert of New York, a former national doubles champion, was eliminated from the Tri-State tennis tournament by a young Florida net star.

Ed Rubinoff, 19, of Miami Beach, whipped second-seeded Talbert in the third round of play, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1. Earlier in the day Talbert had advanced with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Rawdon Mysters of Cincinnati.

The top ranked woman in the tourney, Miss Pat Stewart of Indianapolis, also was ousted in the upset-mined competition. Miss Stewart was defeated 6-3, 7-5 by unranked June Kroeger of Louisville, Ky.

Another young Miami Beach player, 18-year-old Jerry Moss, surprised fourth-seeded Fred Hagist of Berkeley, Calif., 6-8, 6-0, 6-3. Hagist was finalist in the 1952 tri-state event.

U.S.G.A. Director Hurt.

PEABODY, Mass., July 3 (AP)—Joe Dey, executive director of the United States Golf Association, broke a bone in his left foot yesterday when he tripped and fell on the steps of the main scoreboard at the Women's National Open tournament.

Dey was taken to Peabody Hospital where X-rays showed a fracture of the fibula just below the ankle. The leg was put in a cast and Dey returned to his duties at the Salem County Club course.

CHICAGO, July 3 (UP)—Ray Jablonski of the St. Louis Cardinals soared into the National League third base lead as the 1954 All-Star baseball poll neared its end.

Voting will close at midnight tonight.

Jablonski's 318,916 votes give him a 42,314-vote lead over Ransom Jackson of the Cubs.

The 18 elected players will open the 21st interleague All-Star Game in Cleveland July 13 and play at least three innings. The pitchers and additional players will be announced Tuesday by the National and American Leagues.

Determine and High Gun Are Race Favorites

NEW YORK, July 3 (UP) — Determine, the Kentucky Derby winner, and High Gun, the Belmont Stakes champion, try to add to impressive three-year-old records in two of today's big races.

Determine, the little gray which won the Derby for Andy Crevolin, goes after his ninth 1954 stakes victory in the $50,000 Westerner at Hollywood Park. He'll carry top weight of 126 pounds against five others in the mile-and-a-quarter event.

Determine will be coupled with Allied and the entry will be heavily favored. The biggest threat to Determine appears to be Miz Clementine, the Calumet Farm filly that gets into the race with 117 pounds.

High Gun will try to score his third straight stakes triumph when he meets five others in the $50,000 Added Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct. High Gun, owned by King Ranch, is top weighted at 126 pounds and probably will be favored in the mile-and-a-quarter run.

Determine, which has won $294,900 this year, may be shipped to Chicago for the rich three-year-old events there after today's race. High Gun has won $136,850 in 1954. Hasty Road, the Hasty House Farm colt whose victory in the Preakness helped him account for $134,300 in winnings so far this season, is idle this week.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 3 (UP)—Massachusetts Institute of Technology won the Thames Challenge Cup today at the Henley Regatta by defeating the Royal Navy crew by two-and-a-half lengths in the final.

The American rowers were timed in seven minutes, 24 seconds for the one mile, 550-yard Henley course.

Maplewood Gains Its Sixth Straight Win In Legion Play, 8-2

Maplewood gained its sixth straight victory in the Kenny-Marik American Legion League yesterday, drubbing Gardenville-Affton, 8-2. Charley James's three-run homer in the first inning gave Maplewood a lead, which it increased as the game progressed. Bob Cooper of the winners, allowed eight hits.

In other games, Aubuchon-Dennison won from Tom Powell, 12-5; Jerome Gold Post drubbed Missouri-Pacific, 12-1 and Anheuser-Busch defeated 138th Infantry.

In the Aubuchon-Powell game, Gene Forst of the winners hit a grand slam homer and drove in two more runs with a double.

Joe Dobson Resigns as Red Sox Hurling Coach

BOSTON, July 3 (UP)—Joe Dobson, Boston Red Sox pitching coach, resigned last night to "settle down and get away from traveling so much."

Dobson told Manager Lou Boudreau he had no immediate plans. Dobson, 37, pitched eight seasons for the Red Sox before being traded to the Chicago White Sox in 1951.

He signed with the Red Sox as a free agent last January and had hopes of making a comeback. When he developed a sore arm, he remained with the club as a pitching coach. Joe started his major league career with Cleveland in 1939.

SUIT IN PROSPECT TO FORCE CITY TO LEVY SEWER TAX

Metropolitan District May Test Issue as Result of Defeat of Bill by Aldermen.

A legal test of the Metropolitan Sewer District's authority to fix taxes for collection by city agencies was in prospect today following the unexpected defeat by the Board of Aldermen yesterday of a bill to levy a tax of 2 cents on each $100 of valuation for the city's share of the district's operating cost.

Rejection of the measure, by a vote of 15 to 12, with 15 votes required for approval, was a keen disappointment to district sponsors. They had hoped to obtain passage under a suspension of rules, to permit city officials to put the levy on this year's tax bills.

The aldermanic Legislation Committee had approved the levy Tuesday after City Counselor Samuel H. Liberman advised members that it was mandatory under the charter approved by St. Louis and St. Louis county voters last Feb. 9. A 3-cent levy for that part of the district in the county has been approved by county officials.

Chance to Reconsider.

John P. McCammon, attorney for the district, had indicated at the Legislation Committee session Tuesday that he would recommend suit to force levy and collection of the tax if city officials failed to comply with charter provisions.

There remained a chance that the tax matter might be reconsidered by the board at a meeting next Thursday. Yesterday was the last scheduled session before the summer recess, but the aldermen voted to meet once more to act on the bribery charges against Alderman Ben Oliver. Reconsideration of the tax matter could be only on motion of an alderman who voted against it.

In the discussion before the vote, several aldermen said they had worked for approval of the sewer district proposal at the special election last February with the understanding that there was to be no increase in taxes.

They charged the facts had been misrepresented and that the whole sewer question "should be resubmitted to the voters." Proponents have said that any city tax collections spent for sewer surveys in the county would be accredited to the city after the district goes into operation.

Proposed legislation to fluoridate the city's water and to create a new Airport Commission with broadened powers was reported favorably by the Public Utilities Committee, which recommended, however, that final action be delayed until next fall.

Rehabilitation Fund.

Also passed by the board was an administration - sponsored measure to create a special fund to be known as the Urban Redevelopment and Neighborhood Rehabilitation Fund. Its assets will be derived from proceeds of the sale of city-owned real estate and will be available for redevelopment and rehabilitation programs. Money from real estate sales in the past has gone to the general revenue fund.

Other ordinances adopted included the following:

To appropriate $22,000 for construction of Thirteenth street for one block between Sidney and Victor streets, thus making Thirteenth a continuous thoroughfare.

To return to the estate of G. A. Buder a 140-acre tract in St. Louis county, near U. S. Highway 66 and Vandover road. The tract was given to the city by Buder and his wife in 1917, on condition that it be developed as a park. City officials have said funds are not available for the development.

To convey to the Boys' Club of St. Louis the city block bounded by Tenth, Eleventh, Sidney and Victor streets, subject to construction by the club of a $250,000 non-sectarian recreational building for boys. The block was left to the city in 1941 under the will of Jacob Stocke Sr.

To sell to the Mason Ridge Consolidated School District No. 2, in St. Louis county, a four-acre tract adjoining the city's Meramec School for Girls, at a price of $7200.

To rezone from unrestricted to two-family residential a 4.7-acre tract bounded by Sublette, January and Shaw avenues.

To rezone from residential to industrial and commercial a tract bounded by Hampton, Eveline and Amanda avenue and the Frisco Railroad tracks.

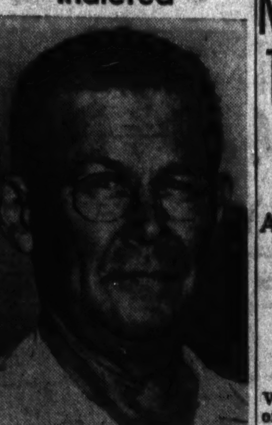

To designate Manchester avenue from Kingshighway to the city limits as a major street, thus requiring stop signs at all intersecting streets.

To prohibit operation of trucks more than 35 feet long on Riverview boulevard from West Florissant avenue to the Wabash Railroad right-of-way, Gurney avenue from Arsenal to Juniata street, and McCausland avenue from Chippewa street to Devonshire avenue.

To prohibit parking on park drives, as follows: South side of Hospital drive in Forest Park, between Kingshighway and Jefferson drive; southwest side of Washington drive in Forest Park, between Concourse and Government drives; Lagoon drive, between Grand and Government drives, and the east entrance to O'Fallon Park, from Broadway to a point 200 feet west. Purpose of the Forest Park parking restrictions was to eliminate a hazard near the hospital buildings on Kingshighway and to expedite traffic across the park between the Hampton and De-Baliviere avenue entrances.

To amend the ordinance on intoxication tests for motorists, making the alcoholic content of the blood .15 of 1 per cent or more instead of the present "in excess of .15 of 1 per cent," as evidence of intoxication.

WORK FOR OWN END, N.A.A.C.P. IS ADVISED

Educator Points Out Goal in Awarding Honor to Negro Doctor.

DALLAS, Tex., July 3 (UP)—A New York educator said it is the job of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People "to work itself out of a job."

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, president of the City College of New York, made the statement last night as he presented the annual Spingarn medal to a Chicago Negro doctor. The award, presented at the N.A.A.C.P. convention, went to Dr. Theodore K. Lawless for "his priceless contributions" to the field of dermatology.

"It is the purpose of this award to make sure that at some time in the future there will need to be no more Spingarn medals awarded," Dr. Gallagher said, "because men and women of all ancestries and backgrounds will be accepted normally without unusual remark, solely on the basis of what they are and what they do."

Dr. Lawless, a native of Thibodayx, La., said: "We are well aware that our own bill of rights has never been fully applied in the United States."

He said, the United States is seriously handicapped by persons who are either "too blind or stubborn to see the handwriting on the wall."

"These people do not realize how much it shocks colored peoples in other parts of the world to see an America which theoretically symbolizes democracy banding its own colored citizens into second class status,' Lawless said.

"Even the proponents of gradualisms in race relations must admit that time is running out, that the day is rapidly approaching, if it is not already here, when many of our baseless prejudices must give way to economic and social justice."

TWO CAGED BEARS KILL KEEPER AT ROADSIDE RESORT

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 3 (AP)—Two caged black bears killed their keeper, Phillip M. Nitsch, 64 years old, at his roadside resort on U. S. Highway 80 east of here yesterday.

Nitsch, who kept the bears on display to attract resort customers, had entered the cage to clean it.

Le Roy E. Price Jr., a neighbor, said he saw one bear grab Nitsch's leg and throw him down and that both animals then clawed and bit him.

Deputies who killed the snarling animals said Nitsch apparently had neglected to move the bears to a "safety cage" before entering.

BOLIVIA ACTS TO ELIMINATE REDS FROM LABOR UNIONS

LA PAZ, July 3 (AP)—The government of President Victor Paz Estenssoro is moving to eliminate Communist influences from Bolivian labor unions, officials said today.

Members of the government party, the National Revolutionary Movement, attacked a Communist meeting in Cochabamba Thursday night. Earlier, the MNR national committee rejected a petition of the leftist Revolutionary party to take its membership in as a group.

The government newspaper La Nacion said "Communism betrayed the Guatemalan revolution," and added that should be a lesson to unions throughout Latin America.

Fishermen Swim to Freedom.

COPENHAGEN, July 3 (UP)—Two crewmen jumped over the side of an East German fishing trawler as it passed near the Swedish island of Ven last night. Engineer Walter Ostermann and fisherman Helmuth Fricke were picked up by a Danish fishing boat. They appealed for political asylum.

NIXON CHARGES TRUMAN GAVE IN TO WORLD REDS

Asserts Previous Foreign Policy of Weakness Now Has Become One of Strength.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon ripped into Democratic foreign policy last night and said the Truman Administration adopted a "policy of surrender at the conference table."

Nixon's attack came as Democrats still were protesting against his charge in a speech last Saturday that the fall of China and the Korean and Indochinese wars were the result of the foreign policy of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

In a recorded television interview last night, Nixon said that when the Republicans took over "we found in examining the previous policy that it was a policy of weakness. . . ." He declared the Eisenhower Administration has laid down "a policy of strength" that calls for the use of massive retaliatory powers in event of war.

Two Experienced Men.

He added that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles are "the two men most capable by experience and background" of leading the free world to victory over the Communists without a war.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked at his news conference last Thursday whether Nixon spoke for his Administration in criticizing the Democrats. The President said Nixon normally reflects Administration thinking. Mr. Eisenhower also said he had not read Nixon's Saturday speech.

Democrats charged that the Vice President was threatening to wreck bipartisan co-operation in Congress on foreign policy.

Nixon said in the broadcast a "good indication" of the Eisenhower Administration's policy was the conduct of Dulles and Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith at the Geneva conference.

Didn't Give Away Peace.

Nixon said Dulles and Smith came back from Geneva "without giving to the Communists at the conference table what our fighting men had denied them on the battlefields of Korea."

Another indication of the "policy of strength," Nixon said was the Administration's decision to place "primary emphasis upon the great mobile retaliatory power of the United States which we will use not exclusively but primarily."

"We will use it against the major source of aggression whenever and wherever it appears," he said.

Red Gains, No Losses.

"You will recall that during the previous Administration 600,000,000 people had been lost to the Communists by the free world," Nixon said. "Not a single Russian soldier was lost, incidentally, as they were gaining those 600,000,000 people.

"We were involved in a war in Korea, which cost us about 150,000 American casualties and there was no end in sight," he said. "The war in Indochina had been going on for six years. We had a defense program, which in our efforts to keep strong every where all over the world, meant that we weren't strong enough anywhere. Now that was the situation we found."

The previous Administration, he said, "failed to recognize that Communism was just as dangerous and just as great a threat to the United States in Asia, or South America, for that matter, or in the United States, as in Europe. They failed to recognize that it was a world trap."

AIR FORCE ORDERS INQUIRY INTO JET CRASH FATAL TO 4

Rocket-Loaded Starfire Hit Auto and Houses After 2-Man Crew Bailed Out.

UTICA, N.Y., July 3 (UP)—Air Force officials ordered an investigation today into the crash of a jet fighter plane armed with more than 40 rockets which killed four persons when it crashed into an auto and two buildings.

The rocket-loaded F-94C Starfire was on a routine mission with another jet yesterday when they were ordered by radio to investigate an unidentified plane in the area.

The two planes, equipped with rocket armament and the latest electronic equipment for locating, tracking and firing, found the plane to be friendly.

On their return to Griffis's Air Force Base, Rome, N.Y., fire broke out in the forward part of one of the Starfires and the pilot, Lt. William Atkins, 24, of Dutton, Va., ordered his radar operator, Lt. Henry F. Coudon Jr., 26, Perrysville, Md., to bail out.

After Atkins and Coudon had jumped from the plane it went into a dive. It crashed into one house killing a young mother of three children, careened into an auto, killing its three occupants and then crashed into a second house.

Killed were Stanley Phillips, 38, his wife, Florence, 32, and their son, Gary, 11, all of nearby Hecla, all in the automobile, and Mrs. Doris Monroe, 28, occupant of one of the houses. One-year-old Betty Lou Monroe was injured, apparently by flying debris.

None of the plane's rockets exploded in the crash.

Atkins and Coudon were picked up about two miles from the crash scene and taken to Griffis's base hospital where they were treated for slight injuries.

Air Force officials in Washington said the plane was armed with rockets because its mission was "active."

WOMAN STORE CASHIER SAID TO ADMIT $24,000 THEFT

LOS ANGELES, July 3 (AP)—Police are holding a former department store cashier who, the District Attorney says, has admitted she embezzled $24,000 and spent it gambling and vacationing in Las Vegas, Nev., Tijuana, Mexico and Hawaii.

Mrs. Charlotte Howard, 39 years old, was arraigned yesterday on a grand theft charge. A department store obtained the complaint after discovering a $4000 shortage.

The district attorney said she admitted this theft and of another $20,000. Bail was fixed at $5000, and her preliminary hearing set for July 8. She said she lost $20,000 playing blackjack at Las Vegas and betting on the horses at Tijuana. "I thought I knew how to play blackjack, but I found out I didn't," she was quoted.

CHINESE NATIONALISTS TAKE OVER 3 U.S. PATROL CRAFT

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist navy has taken delivery of three United States navy patrol craft provided under the mutual defense assistance program.

Comdr. Tsou Chien, who will command one of the boats, assumed charge of the squadron in ceremones yesterday at Brooklyn navy yard. The diesel-powered 173-foot vessels carry a crew of 50.

TAIPEH, Formosa, July 3 (AP)—The Nationalists said they sank two small Chinese Communist warships and damaged two others yesterday in naval clashes off the Tachen islands some 200 miles north of Formosa.

MRS. LOUDERMAN'S ESTATE APPRAISED AT $985,906

The estate of Mrs. Mary Bromley Louderman, widow of Henry B. Loulerman Jr., was valued at $985,906 in a state appraiser's report filed in probate court today.

Principal items listed were bonds totaling $57,859 and stocks of $320,909. Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, 710 South Kingshighway, will be the ultimate beneficiary of the estate.

Mrs. Louderman died May 17, 1952, at her home, 5591 Lindell boulevard. She left $25,000 to a brother, Wayne K. Bromley, along with a $12,000-a-year income for life from the estate in trust. Her husband was one of three brothers who built the Louderman building.

RUSSIA AGAIN PROTESTS AGAINST TANKER SEIZURE

MOSCOW, July 3 (UP)—Russia protested to the United States yesterday for the second time against the seizure of the Soviet tanker Tuapse off Formosa on June 23.

The new protest again demanded release of the vessel, the crew and the cargo. It said the United States was responsible for those waters controlled by the United States Navy, "under whatever flag the seizure may have been made."

After the first Soviet protest to the United States was announced, Nationalist China announced that its naval forces had seized the Tuapse and taken it to a Formosan port.

On Guard in Guatemala

Members of Col. Carlos Castillo Armas's revolutionary forces shield themselves from rain as best they can while standing guard near Zacapa, key Guatemalan town, while truce talks were under way last Tuesday.

REBELS DISLIKE PACT CASTILLO GOING TO CAPITAL

"destroyed the Communist government of Guatemala" and achieved the first part of their program.

He said the peace agreement "puts us in a good position to accomplish our program of reorganization of the country, to put the government in the best possible hands and finally to create for Guatemala a democratic system of government. This was the second phase of our program."

Castillo said: "We need to pacify and reorganize the country rather than fight."

Small Communist groups already have launched attacks in Esquinta and other areas.

The government announced 400 Communists had been rounded up within a radius of 30 miles of the capital, but it was admitted that top Red leaders had eluded capture, going underground or taking refuge in foreign embassies.

DISSATISFACTION IN REBELS' CAMP

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHIQUIMULA, Guatemala, July 3 — Col. Carlos Castillo Armas prepared today to fly to Guatemala City to climax what he termed victory for the revolution he started two weeks ago yesterday. He expressed confidence that the new five-man junta, set up under an agreement signed at San Salvador, would accomplish the aims of the revolution.

Castillo arrived in an unmarked C-47 plane at 9 a.m. yesterday and immediately went into conference with other rebel leaders.

Considerable dissatisfaction was evident with terms of the compromise agreement, reached after repeated assertions by Castillo that he would insist on unconditional surrender of the loyalist forces.

'Three Are Against Us.'

One highly placed leader of the revolution, who asked that his name not be used, said the new junta was "completely unacceptable."

"We cannot rely on this new junta to rid Guatemala of Communism and set up a good government," he told the Post-Dispatch. "Of the five men on the junta, only two are on our side. The other three are against us. We have only Castillo and (Maj. Enrigue) Oliva.

"There was no need to negotiate a settlement. The revolution was strong enough for complete victory."

Castillo, asked if agreement was satisfactory to his men, said, "They don't agree too much, but they will stay with me."

One-Man Bombing Wing.

As Castillo's robin's egg blue station wagon waited at the Chiquimula air strip Thursday Carlos Cheesman, the rebels' one-man strategic air command, took off on a bombing mission. He reportedly went to knock out a group of 30 armed anti-revolutionary peasants four miles from the city.

The pilot flew his tiny single-engine Cessna 180. He took along a load of the makeshift bombs with which he had done remarkable feats of precision bombing—six or eight sticks of dynamite tied around a hand grenade.

Cheesman was the bombardier who knocked out oil tanks at San Jose on the Pacific Coast and at Puerto Barrios on the Atlantic. A few days ago, pointing a mahine gun out the Cessnas window, he shot the tires of an armored car leading several truckloads of soldiers along the road from Zacapa to Chiquimula. He strafed the column at tree-top level, forced it to turn around and chased it all the way back to Zacapa.

Fighting Still Goes On.

Clashes between armed peasants and front-line rebel soldiers three miles this side of Zacapa have occurred several times despite the cease-fire. Early Thursday about 20 men were killed in a half-hour battle there, an officer on Castillo's staff reported.

Explanation for Delay.

An explanation of the long time required to reach an armistice agreement was given by Manuel Orellana Cardona, minister of labor in the new provisional Guatemalan government. Orellana said a split had developed in the army over whether to continue fighting or make peace with the rebel forces. He said the rebels hoped that time would work in their favor to bring more and more of the army over to the support of the rebels provisional government.

As head of the underground revolutionary movement in Guatemala until he fled from the country last June 5, Orellana had first-hand knowledge of the developing split in sentiment within the army.

"In Guatemala and in each of the zone army headquarters, we had our supporters," he said. "Our people were mainly lieutenants and captains, and we had some colonels, too. They are the ones who will help drive the Communists from our country, and we must give others a chance to join the anti-Communists in the army.

"We would rather reach an agreement than fight because if we fight the army we fight all of the army indiscriminately—our friends as well as our enemies. We think not only of winning battles but also of our country's welfare. We need the good parts of the army on our side under the new government to help us wipe out Communism."

Troops Not Battle Tested.

Although it was the Government that proposed a truce Tuesday morning as air attacks on Zacapa already were signaling the attack on the strategic rail center, there was reason to doubt how well the rebel troops would stand up in full-scale battle.

Except for a small nucleus of courageous and highly able officers, the rebel army is mostly a collection of peasant youths who know nothing of military discipline or tactics. Many of them are obviously unfamiliar with their rifles or submachine guns.

A young officer in charge of patrol activities at the front on the road to Zacapa, Roberto Carpio Nicolle, acknowledged that the rank and file rebel soldier lacked necessary training to make him a really valuable fighting man.

"But that is not so bad," he added, "because the soldiers on the government's side are the same."

One remarkable feature of the rebel army is its insistence on paying its own way when it lives off the countryside. Looting is common in invading armies, particularly in guerrilla actions like this.

To demonstrate this, an officer at the front took this correspondent to the palm thatched hut of a peasant family nearby and questioned the woman of the house.

"Does the army of liberation pay for every chicken, every tortilla, every cup of coffee that it gets from you?" he asked.

"Yes, senor," she replied.

This reporter then asked her if the government army, when it was here, also paid for everything. She said it did, too, "But senora, do you like the Army of Liberation or the government army better?" the officer asked.

"I like both equally well," she said.

Mexico Grants Asylum to Two Arbenz Police Officials.

MEXICO CITY, July 3 (AP)—The Interior Ministry granted political asylum yesterday to two men who were police officials in the Communist-backed former Guatemalan government of Jacobo Arbenz.

They are Rogelio Cruz Wer, who headed the national police, and Jaime Rosenberg, who had directed the secret police. They have been accused by the new Guatemalan government of ordering the deaths of hundreds of anti-Communists.

Cruz Wer and Rosenberg fled to Mexico in a private plane. Ex-president Arbenz has taken refuge in the Mexican embassy at Guatemala City.

The Inter-American peace commission has decided to return to Washington, canceling plans for an on-the-spot investigation of Guatemalan charges against Honduras and Nicaragua. It arrived here en route to Guatemala from Washington before the agreement between the rebel leader, Col. Castillo, and the Monzon junta.

AIR FORCE PLANS TO CUT DOWN ON PLANES IN JAPAN

Soon to Study Withdrawal of Some Units — Action to Follow Tokyo Rearming.

TOKYO, July 3 (UP)—Gen. Earle E. Partridge, United States Far East air commander, said today he expected to begin making plans soon for withdrawal of some United States air defense wings from Japanese bases.

He added, however, that no withdrawal schedule had been considered yet. "Phase-out" speed of Japan's actual rearmaplans will be determined by the ment to meet potential threats from the Communist air forces based a few minutes or hours north and northwest of Japan.

Partridge said he was confident Japan would buil a good tir force rapidly.

The United States will initially supply the combat, training and cargo planes and instructions while the Japanese aviation industry rebuilds for the jet age after nearly 10 years of Allied-enforced disarmament.

Published tentative Japanese plans call for development of a 1300-plane air force, including about 800 combat planes, all jets, within five years. Many influential Japanese believe this goal should be reached in three to four years, provided the United States will furnish the planes.

Partridge also disclosed:

1. The North Korean air force was shifted into Korea from Manchuria at the time of the armistice and now is deployed so close to United Nations lines across the peninsula that "with little or no warning the Communists are now in a position to launch strong air attacks against all or most of the vital UNC air bases."

2. The total Chinese and North Korean air strength in the vicinity of Korea has not changed materially in the first year of the truce. This statement appeared to indicate that Chinese Nationalist reports of wholesale transfer of Red air force units to the French Indochina border area were exaggerated.

3. The United State Air Force, because of the great Communist air strength and its need for planes in building a 137-wing force, is not in a position to withdraw from South Korea now and leave its aircraft behind for the ROK air force.

WHOOPING CRANE NESTING PLACE IS BELIEVED LOCATED

OTTAWA, July 3 (AP)—The whooping crane's greatest secret—its nesting place—may soon be out.

Canada's resources department announced yesterday that six of these almost extinct birds, including young, were sighted from a helicopter in Wood Buffalo National Park on the boundary of northern Alberta and the northwest territories. World population of the whooping crane is thought to be 24, and wildlife experts have been trying for years to find their nesting grounds.

Observers know they winter in Texas and journey to the Canadian north for summer nesting, but even when they were followed by planes, the cranes got away when reaching the north.

FIRST G.O.P. MARSHAL IN 25 YEARS IN WESTERN MISSOURI

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The Western District of Missouri has its first Republican United States Marshal in close to 25 years. Burke Dennis, a former Springfield (Mo.) insurance executive, was sworn in as marshal Thursday by United States District Judge Richard M. Duncan.

Acting Marshal William Tatman, whom Dennis replaces, was present at the ceremony. He was praised for a good job by United States Attorney Edward L. Scheufler, who presented Dennis to the court.

Dennis is a former circuit clerk and ex-officio recorder of deeds in Wright county. He was nominated by President Eisenhower May 11 and confirmed by the Senate June 8. The 38-year-old marshal has moved his family to Kansas City.

$1285 SUPPORT PAYMENT FOR WIFE OF ORTIZ-PATINO

PARIS, July 3 (AP)—A district judge yesterday awarded the wife of George Ortiz-Patino, grandson of the Bolivian tin magnate, 450,000 france ($1285) pending settlement of his divorce plea. The payment was for support from March 24 to May 6.

The judge also turned the case over to the family relations court which will hear the actual divorce pleadings.

Patino's wife, Cuban-born Dagmar Sanches-Betancourt, is opposing the divorce action. He brought the suit in May charging she put him out of their Paris house.

PRODUCER SAM SPIEGEL'S HOME SEIZED FOR TAXES

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., July 3 (AP)—The 12-room home of Sam Spiegel, independent film producer, has been seized by the Federal Government for $18,372 in unpaid income taxes.

The house will be sold at auction within 20 days, Robert A. Riddell, district internal revenue director, said yesterday, to satisfy a debt owing since 1946.

Spiegel, under the law, can redeem his home within a year if he pays the buyer the amount of the purchase price, plus 20 per cent.

3 AFL OFFICERS INDICTED ON RACKET CHARGE

Union Men From Terre Haute-Danville Area Named in True Bill on East Side.

Three officers of the AFL Operating Engineers's Union, in the Terre Haute, Ind.-Danville, Ill., area, were charged with conspiracy to violate the Federal Anti-Racketeering Act in an indictment made public today at East St. Louis.

They were Orell B. (Duke) Soucie, international representative, and Orville (Dusty) Rhodes and Henry H. Highfill, business agents. It was the fourth charge brought against Soucie and the second against Rhodes.

United States Attorney Clifford M. Raemer who released the indictment, said Highfill surrendered at Terre Haute today and was released on $25,000 bond. The other men already are under bond.

In the first count of the two-count indictment the men were charged with conspiring to extort $9200 from agents of the Rieth-Riley Construction Co., of Goshen, Ind., in July 1952. The contractor was grading and resurfacing U.S. Routes 1 and 40 in Clark and Iroquois counties for the Illinois Highway Department.

Soucie and Rhodes were charged in the second count with extorting $2600 from the Rieth-Riley company during the work on U.S. Route 1 in Iroquois county in July 1953.

In both cases the indictment alleged the demands for payment were accompanied by actual and threatened force. The bill was returned by the United States grand jury at East St. Louis last Wednesday and suppressed until today.

PEACE RESTORED TO JERUSALEM, TRUCE CHIEF SAYS

JERUSALEM, July 3 (UP)—Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, United Nations truce supervisor in the Holy Land, said today the "cruel and meaningless shooting" which rocked Jerusalem for two days had ended with an unconditional cease-fire.

Bennike isued a statement thanking the authorities of Israel and Jordan for their co-operation in ending the "little war" that threatened to blow up the uneasy truce between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

A few scattered shots were heard in Jerusalem during the night. Today peace settled on the divided city and Jerusalem returned to normal, while U.N. observers worked at fixing responsibility for the shooting.

Each side has accused the other of starting the shooting along the boundary line in the divided Holy City. Eight persons were killed and more than 50 wounded.

S. ILLINOIS G.O.P. RACE IN DOUBT DESPITE RECOUNT

CHESTER, Ill., July 3 (UP)—A recount of ballots in the Forty-fourth District Republican primary race for nominations for State Representative ended yesterday in doubt because of objection to 669 ballots in a Chester precinct.

(Unofficial results of the recount including the disputed ballots gave Dr. T. J. Thornton, Chester, an incumbent State Representative, 13,818 votes; G. R. Beckmeyer, a Nashville merchant who petitioned for the recount, 13,729.5, and State Representative W. J. McDonald, Murphysboro, 13,602.5.

However, of the 669 ballots objected to by McDonald's attorney, 338.5 were for Thornton, 231 for Beckmeyer and only 49.5 for McDonald. If those ballots were thrown out the recount would be in favor of Beckmeyer and McDonald.

Unofficial results in the April election gave nominations to Thornton and Beckmeyer but the official canvas which included an obvious error in a Jackson county precinct was in favor of Thornton and McDonald.

Attorney William Wolff, representing McDonald, objected to ballots of Chester precinct 3 in Randolph county returns because an election judge placed a pencil mark next to each candidate's name as he called off votes in the count.

Those ballots, plus about 50 others will be ruled upon by Circuit Judge Edward F. Bareis of East St. Louis who is expected to decide the results of the recount next week.

ASKS FOR POUND OF PETUNIA SEED, PRICE IS $13,824

DU QUOIN, Ill., July 3 (AP)—Florist Harry Thill looked back today on what might have been the biggest petunia sale in the history of his business.

President C. D. Brown of the Illinois Central Booster Club wanted "about a pound" of petunia seed to beautify the club grounds.

Thill figured the price. Petunia seed was listed at $13.50 for one sixty-fourth of an ounce. That would be $864 an ounce. He told Brown the pound price would be [illegible].

Brown decided fewer petunias would do the job.

FORT MILL, S.C., July 3 (AP)—This town of more than 3000 yesterday passed its sixth year without a traffic death. Police said there had been no concerted safety drive during the time.

Shrinking French Area

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Shaded area takes in territory and principal cities in Indochina delta region abandoned by French Union forces to Communist-led Vietminh troops. French soldiers involved in withdrawal took up defense positions (barbed line) along a line from Phu Ly to the seacoast, but were forced to give up Phu Ly today. The Hanoi-Haiphong rail and road lines remain as France's only supply and escape corridor in north Indochina.

nouncement said most of the thousands of soldiers involved in the withdrawal already had taken up defense positions around Hanoi.

Salan said Viet Namese troops had volunteered to defend the southern part of the delta alone but that the high command had refused to sacrifice the young army.

Salan denied allegations that prior agreement with the Vietminh had enabled the French to carry out the withdrawal successfully.

The French command announced that in connection with the withdrawal from the area, about 10,500 civilians were evacuated from the Roman Catholic diocese of Phat Diem and moved to the port of Haiphong.

and Saigon to express grave concern to French and Viet Namese government leaders over the apparent abandonment to Communist forces of anti-Communist populations in the Red river delta of Indochina.

The action was taken, officials said, on humanitarian grounds.

State Department Press Officer Henry Suydam said yesterday the United States was asking Paris for information about the withdrawal. Earlier, the State Department said the United States had not been informed by the French Government of the operation.

However, French diplomats here said information about the proposed troop withdrawal was given top American, British, Australian and New Zealand military officers during confidential talks, nearly a month ago. No one at the meeting, the French said, made any move to offer reinforcements.

Suydam said the United States had a direct interest since it is a member of the Geneva conference where French representatives are negotiating with Communist representatives for an Indochina settlement.

Premier Mendes-France took office in France two weeks ago with a promise to get an Indochina peace or resign by July 20. Shortly afterward he conferred in Switzerland with Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

Behind the American activities, which have the effect of publicly criticizing French government policy in Indochina, is a strong suspicion that Mendes-France has made some kind of a deal with Chou and that the shortening of lines in the delta is a result of that deal.

It was understood today that the Mendes-France administration has reduced informational contacts with the American Government to a minimum and that even high officials here feel themselves to be in ignorance of the French Government's policy and intention in a great many respects. The claim at the State Department is that this makes it extremely difficult for the United States to conduct an effective diplomacy at Geneva.

Flashes of Life

Tired Cat.

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP)—Two men who had been following a truck flagged it down at a busy intersection. The driver joined them in probing between his rear dual wheels. Out came a whimpering little kitten that had lodged between the tires when it scooted under the truck.

Still Garbage.

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP)—Residents of this community are required by ordinance to keep the lids on their garbage cans.

That's what Patrolman P. T. Huntley was out to enforce when he went to a house to complain about the odor of what apparently was garbage. Huntley found a 400-gallon still filled with sour mash.

That's Gratitude.

AURORA, Nebr. (AP)—An elderly couple whose automobile had broken down told State Senator Lester Anderson of their suspicions that a garage operator here might 'swindle' them with his bill.

Anderson assured them they were wrong and to build up the "hospitality" of his town, installed them in his private guest room at the hotel he owns. After the couple left the next day, Anderson found the towels and the bath mat gone.

EX-MARSHAL PAULUS URGES BONN SEVER TIES WITH U.S.

BERLIN, July 3 (AP)—Former German Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus urged yesterday that West Germany sever what he called "nationally undignified ties" with the United States and establish good relations with Russia and France.

Paulus, now 63 years old, loser of the battle of Stalingrad, returned from Soviet captivity last October. He has since been living in seclusion at Dresden. He spoke at a press conference arranged by the Communists in East Berlin, according to the official ADN news agency, so he could answer the "many inquiries" from West Germans about his political opinions.

ADN said the former German military leader assailed the policy of West German Chancellor Adenauer as "adventurous and untenable" and said he had completely sold himself to the American "policy of strength."

TROTSKY'S KILLER REPORTED TO HAVE REQUESTED PAROLE

MEXICO CITY, July 3 (UP)—A petition has been filed for the release from prison of Jacques Mornard, assassin of exiled Russian revolutionist Leon Trotsky, according to reliable reports.

Mornard killed Trotsky in his Mexico City fortress-like home 14 years ago. He became eligible for parole last Dec. 20 but made no bid for freedom at that time. It was believed that he feared assassination if freed.

It was learned that his lawyer filed a petition for his parole last Thursday. The request will be handled by the interior ministry, and it was believed he will be released in routine fashion.

ARMY TO MOVE BY AIR IN FUTURE, SAYS RIDGWAY

He Predicts Helicopter Will Play Major Role in New Mobility of Armed Forces.

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today pictured the Army as moving by air instead of on the ground to keep pace with vastly increased fire power.

The helicopter, he said, will play a major role in the new mobility.

In a speech at the eighth annual convention of the 82nd Airborne Division Association, the Army chief of staff declared:

"A prerequisite for successful offensive action is rapid concentration. Only by concentration can we exploit the effect of the destructive new weapons when they penetrate the enemy's defenses."

Assault Plane Sought.

Ridgway said "great progress" has been made in improving heavy drop equipment and technique and that work is being pressed on "the development of an effective assault transport—one that can land and take off from short unimproved fields."

"We are looking forward," he said, "to substantial improvement in helicopter design, leading to cargo helicopters capable of carrying significant numbers of men and significant quantities of supplies."

The chief of staff said any "major enemy we might fight" probably would be just as well equipped with weapons.

"It is in this respect," he said, "that the importance of mobility is brought into sharp focus and that the great mobility of airborne forces becomes especially significant.

Quality First Aim.

"This is only one of the ways which we are seeking and achieving ever-increasing quality of the Army. Quality is of fundamental importance, for it would be wasteful and stupid to match an enemy man for man."

By the United Press.

Ridgway said:

"The undeniable fact is that our country, with all the free nations of the world, is faced by dangers which are just as menacing, just as lethal as those posed by Nazi Germany.

"The source is different, the magnitude if anything is greater, but the essence is the same."

JOB INSURANCE NEW CLAIMS OFF IN LATE JUNE

WASHINGTON, July 3 (UP)—New unemployment insurance claims dropped in the last part of June to the lowest weekly level since last October.

The Department of Labor reported yesterday that claims filed by newly unemployed workers totaled 265,000 for the week ended June 26, a decline of 3000 from the previous week.

The department reported also that claims filed by previously unemployed persons declined during the week ended June 19 to the lowest level since the first of the year. These claims totaled 1,913,500 for the week, a drop of about 70,000 from the previous week.

The department said nearly 150,000 unemployed persons exhausted their insurance in May compared to 60,900 in May 1953, and 176,000 in May 1949, when the economy was coming through a recession.

RED CROSS IS FLYING FOOD TO MEXICAN FLOOD VICTIMS

EAGLE PASS, Tex., July 3 (AP)—Food, truckloads of it, was flown across the Rio Grande today to flood-wracked Piedras Negras, Mexico, where at least 38 persons died in the river's roaring waters this week.

Earlier, helicopters had lifted food and clothing into the town of 38,000 persons on an unofficial basis, simply because the people needed it. Yesterday official authority sanctioned it. Today the American Red Cross was using three light planes to help shuttle four truckloads of canned goods and 150,000 tortillas across the river. Tortillas are thin, round cornmeal cakes, Mexico's bread.

Meanwhile, up the river at Del Rio, Mexican officials had crossed over from Ciudad Acuna to tell the United States relief committee that no more food was needed from the Texas side of the river. They expressed their gratitude for the help sent but said the Mexican government was sending in supplies now. The Mexicans, however, said they still needed and would accept help in spraying and dusting with DDT. The Del Rio relief committee decided to spend $1000 more on the insecticide.

INSURANCE FIRM DROPS SUIT AGAINST GEORGIA OFFICIAL

ATLANTA, Ga., July 3 (AP)—Bankers Life and Casualty, a Chicago insurance firm, filed a motion yesterday for dismissal of its $10,000,000 damage suit filed against Georgia Insurance Commissioner Zack D. Cravey. The motion was filed in United States district court in Atlanta.

The suit originally was filed in Miama and was accompanied by similar litigation naming Florida Insurance Commissioner Edwin Larsen and the Reserve Life Insurance Co. of Texas. Each suit was for $10,000,000 and charged violation of the anti-trust laws.

Litigation between Cravey and Bankers Life began in 1951 after the insurance commissioner revoked the firm's license to operate in Georgia. He said the company was not giving policy holders proper service, was using misleading advertising and was not providing the state necessary information.

Viewing the Eclipse From Shadow Path

By A. L. Bedell

The author of the following description of last Wednesday's eclipse of the sun is a lecturer on astronomy at St. Louis University.

HAYWARD, Wis.

IT is now 3:30 a.m. Central Standard Time, this June 30, 1954. The sky is bright preceding sunrise over the distant hills, our horizon at Hayward, Wis. This is a station along the center of an 80-mile wide shadow path, which the moon will cast on earth, as it moves in front to the sun to produce a total eclipse. In this shadow path, the eclipse will be total. Outside this path, others will see the sun partially eclipsed.

A. L. BEDELL

The morning air is cool and our feet are somewhat cold, as we stand around in the moist grass awaiting the coming of a most impressive phenomenon.

Many persons have attempted to paint a word picture of a total solar eclipse, but without any great success. My feeble attempt will not be any better, since so grand a sight baffles description.

★ ★ ★

THE WIZARD OF ECLIPSE COMPUTATION, an Austrian astronomer by the name of Theodore von Oppolzer, in the nineteenth century calculated this very eclipse, as well as those which had passed and all others to occur up to the year 2162. His work is a monumental effort of mathematical exactness, for which the astronomical sciences are noted. When we consider the many motions of the earth-moon system, the changeable attitude of their paths in space, intervening leap-years and other obstacles, one wonders how anyone could compute the thousands of eclipses which Oppolzer did and remain sane.

Now at 4:19, we see the sun just peeping over the distant hills. The moon has already taken its first "bite" out of the sun. As the sun rises higher and higher the moon continues to "devour" it, as ancient peoples believed a giant dragon was doing just that. Fear caused these people to beat on all sorts of contraptions, making weird noises in the hope to frighten the dragon away, which, strangely enough, they always succeeded in doing. For, given enough time, the moon passed on and the sun was again restored to them. So they had cause to believe their incantations and thunder outsmarted the dragon. Today, no one is frightened, as we know the reason for these apparent "mystical" occurrences, and so these phenomena are greatly enjoyed by the millions who witness them.

★ ★ ★

THE MOON HAS NOW "DEVOURED" so much of the sun, it appears as a small crescent, similar to the moon's appearance, as it rises in the east just before dawn. It is getting darker and darker as we stand in admiration of a scene taking place 240,000 miles out in space, where the moon is cutting our line of sight with our sun which is 93,000,000 miles away. Surely the ancients had cause to be frightened—as a cold chill runs up and down my spine, as I think of what would happen to us, if this giver of life were taken away. No "A" bomb or "H" bomb tragedy would be greater, as all living things over the entire earth would perish in a very short time.

A minute more and the sun will be gone. There is an eeriness about this darkness. It is different from sunset. Cows are wending toward a nearby barn from which they emerged a few minutes ago. Our dog is nervous, whimpering as he seeks shelter close by our side. A tremendous shadow is ebing cast overhead in the sky and on each side of this shadow there is a strange greenishness about the sky and an orangeness at the horizon below the sun. It's beautiful, but eerie.

★ ★ ★

ALMOST AT TOTALITY we see a beautiful "diamond ring," sunlight filtering through the irregular surface of the moon. Just as suddenly as the "diamond ring" appeared, so it disappeared, and here is totality, and the corona, that soft pearly sheen of light fanning out in opposite directions from that black center. This is most beautiful and impressive.

Using my binoculars, I see prominences, "explosions" on the sun, as thousands of tons of sun material is blasted into space, producing a spectacle likened to huge red flames shooting from that black center.

The planet Jupiter is behind the sun, millions of miles farther out in space. It cannot be seen, as it too is in eclipse.

★ ★ ★

THE MOON IS SLOWLY PASSING ON, and sunlight again filters through, producing another almost perfect "diamond ring."

Darkness is on the wane, 77 seconds of totality has passed and a spectacle well worth traveling a thousand miles to witness is over. The sun is taking over as more and more of it comes into view.

★ ★ ★

AND SO ENDS total eclipse for the United States until October 2, 1959, when the slightest glimpse of one might be seen off the coast of Cape Cod at sunrise. On July 20, 1963, the path of totality will pass from Alaska through Canada. On March 7, 1970, the path crosses Mexico, the Gulf of Mexico and Florida.

If you are real anxious to view a total eclipse, you could go to the East Indies, being there on June 20, 1955. Or perhaps you may choose the South Sea Islands for June 8, 1956.

Anyway, by all means, if you have never viewed a total solar eclipse, do so, even if you must start your piggy-bank now.

General view of Walesville (N.Y.) street after jet fighter plane crashed yesterday. The craft, an F-94C Starfire, was abandoned by its pilot and radar operator when fire broke out. Crashing into the hamlet near Utica, it struck two houses and an automobile, setting the houses afire and leaving four persons dead. The plane was returning to its base at Griffiss Air Force Base at Rome after a routine mission when the fire broke out.

REVOLUTION SIDELIGHT Rangy bull keeps its captors at respectful distance as it is snubbed to post after brief and violent fling at freedom at Chiquimula, Guatemala, last Tuesday. The animal, destined for the soldiers' mess of anti-Communist revolutionary forces fighting near Chiquimula, broke loose as it was being led to slaughter pen and gored a soldier before it could be subdued. Picture was taken by Richard Dudman, a Post-Dispatch reporter on assignment in Central America.

MISERY IN MEXICO Homeless Mexicans, their adobe home washed away as the Rio Grande swirled out of its banks last Tuesday, camp in rough quarters on hillside outside Piedras Negras. The town was hardest-hit in the list of flooded areas on both sides of the river. Estimates of the number of dead there ranged up to 400; thousands of survivors were short of food, water, clothing and medical supplies after being driven into makeshift camps.

STAGE CHARMERS Martha Errolle, soprano star of the current Municipal Opera production, "Roberta," cuddles one of the Zoo's three lion cubs in get-acquainted visit yesterday. The cub, although it doesn't operate on a stage as vast as that in the Forest Park theater, still has its moments of glory. It is one of three cubs which joust with a pair of free-wheeling chimpanzees each morning in the wire enclosure Director George Vierheller had set up on the Zoo grounds.

REPORTS ABOUT RICH ORE FIELD ARE CONFIRMED

Potentials of Canadian Mine Area Are Called Greatest in Nation's History.

BATHURST, New Brunswick, July 3 (AP)—Government officials confirmed this week what mining company geologists had long suspected—that the lead, zinc, copper, silver and other base-metallic ores discovered in this area within the last 18 months are among the biggest and richest in Canadian mining history.

The two largest deposits are being prepared for production. A pilot mill, to determine the best method of ore treatment, will be built this summer.

Production of the first base-metal concentrates is expected to start next fall. It was delayed six months when fire destroyed a new mining mill, first in the Bathurst area.

One company alone, Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp., Ltd., is spending $3,250,000 this year on its New Brunswick holdings.

Most of the potential wealth, however, will stay underground for a long time.

'Going to Stay Big.'

"It's there and it's going to stay big," says Mines Minister Norman B. Buchanan, who estimates proven reserves of lead, zinc, silver and copper-bearing sulphides at "tens of millions" of tons.

Dr. A. L. McAllister of New Brunswick University's geology department says gross value of the to biggest ore bodies are current average market prices would be roughly $1,300,000,000.

C. S. Clements, director of mines for New Brunswick, says the largest known deposit, 20 miles southwest of Bathurst, has been traced for a length of 1400 feet. Field reports indicate reserves of 27,400,000 tons to a depth of 1000 feet averaging 5.28 per cent zinc, 1.88 per cent lead, and 0.58 per cent copper, plus 1.79 ounces of silver per ton.

The other big ore body is in the same area, at Austin Brook. Reserves above 1000 feet in both zones, evluding metals indicated below that level, are officially estimated at nearly 50,000,000 tons, and geologists figure the eventual total tonnage for the Bathurst area at more than 100,000,000.

40 Per Cent Sulphur.

The cores contain about 40 per cent sulphur, indicating the possibility of a sulphur mining project in which base metals of lesser value would be considered by-products.

The mines are conveniently near tidewater and mainline railways. But, although the deposits can be mined easily and cheaply, New Brunswick will not reap full benefit unless a smelter is established in the province. This would cost at least $30,000,000. Present plans are to send the first base-metal concentrates to some plant in the United States or Europe.

Another handicap is lack of sufficient electric power. To help overcome this deficiency, the government is building a $3,000,000 addition to its generating plant at Chatham.

In addition to the Bathurst area work, surveys have been made in southern, southwestern and western New Brunswick. Results listed by Clements revealed new or additional quantities of lead, zinc, silver, copper, titanium, manganese, tungsten, nickel, kaolin silica and, in one instance, uranium.

G.O.P. IS CHIDED BY STEVENSON ABOUT DISUNITY

He Urges Democrats to 'Make Up for Deficit' in Administration Leadership.

DENVER, July 3 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson urged members of his party yesterday "to do what can be done to make up for the deficit in leadership" in the Republican Administration.

"We must make this Administration succeed . . . because it is the only Administration we have," the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate said in a luncheon address. He added that if the Administration fails in the foreign field, the nation may fall.

The national situation, Stevenson said, is "far too perilous for us as Democrats to derive any partisan satisfaction or pleasure" from Republican shortcomings.

He chided what he called the "Republican platoon system" of secretaries of state, naming Secretary Dulles, Senate floor leader Knowland and Vice President Nixon as expressing divergent foreign policy.

He said the Vice President "must be competing, and rather successfully, for the title of history's most irresponsible exalted statesman." Stevenson based the charge on contentions that Nixon has reversed himself in statements on Indochina.

"An Administration that cannot unite its own party, on essentials at least, can hardly hope to unite and lead the free world," Stevenson said, contending there is a "practical breakdown of effective government" in Washington because of divisions in the G.O.P.

Turning to farm problems, the former Illinois Governor said "now we have attained the lowest farm prices and the highest living costs at any time in history."

"That's certainly killing two birds with one stone," he added. "I didn't even expect my Republican friends to accomplish that."

Stevenson accused Nixon and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York of making speeches which were "McCarthyism in a white shirt."

"You cannot have McCarthyism without McCarthy," he insisted.

The luncheon was attended by Democrats from all parts of the state. Richard Ayres, director of the state central committee, estimated the crowd at more than 600.

Stevenson is en route to Alaska on vacation.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Friday and Saturday columns are devoted to teen-agers who are invited to submit their questions to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE been going steady with a boy for five months, then I went on vacation and met a few boys who I thought I'd like to go with. When I returned home I broke up with my steady because I thought that was the right thing to do. I have been going with other boys and I know I still love him. Should I apologize or what should I do?

DESPERATE.

Well, you're the one who made the break, and it's doubtful if he'll come running back just because his ex-girl says so. And, frankly, if you did what you thought was right, there's nothing to apologize for. You don't say how old you are, but why go back into the steady routine when you can be having dates with other fellows?

* * *

Dear Martha:

I AM A 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL and I like a 16-year-old boy very much. But he doesn't seem too interested in me. All my friends say I am cute and fun to be with. This boy said the same and said he would like to date me. He isn't going with anyone else either. When we are alone he is very nice. But when the others are around he ignores me and acts like he hates me. Please tell me what to do.

READER.

Maybe he's just a little shy to appear to like a girl when the others are around. If he isn't going with anyone else, you can always invite him to a party with the crowd or, with your mother's permission, have him and perhaps another couple over for dinner or to listen to records some evening.

* * *

Dear Martha:

THERE IS ONE BOY I like very much but my parents have asked me not to go with him because he always brings me home so late. I want to follow their wishes and they aren't too strict but I never seem to know just how to say it's time to go home without making him feel I'm not having a good time. Please tell me how this can be done.

SUSIE.

You might say something like this, "Gosh, I hate to break up a wonderful evening, but my folks have asked me to be at home by 11, so maybe we'd better go after the next dance." Or you can talk this over with him frankly, telling him that you enjoy your dates but that your parents have criticized the late hours. If he wants to keep on going with you, he'll remember the next time to get you home on time.

Planning a shower for a bride-elect? Martha Carr's free leaflets will suggest invitations, entertainment and refreshments. Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Helpless Hosts

By Angelo Patri

WHEN the family goes visiting during vacation time, the children, of course, go along, and the dog as well. That is just fine, provided the children and the dog have been trained and taught how to behave when visiting. Many people forget this and many a fine friendship has ended in hostility because of this forgetting.

People like the things they have in their houses. If they did not they would not have kept them so long. And they live the way they do because they have found it most convenient and comfortable as could be under the circumstances.

* * *

REMEMBERING THIS, helps a lot when there are young children to be cared for in the house of a friend. It is a good idea to learn the household routine and try to fit into it. To try to heat a baby's bottle, or make up his formula when the hostess is getting breakfast for a man who must be on time at his work, is likely to confuse matters. Getting the children to bed in the evening, or for naps in the afternoon, requires some thought and tact.

If there are other children in the house there are likely to be a few quarrels about possessions. Thoughtful guests take along some toys that can be shared. The guest should take along also an attitude of alertness and responsibility, not only for her own charges but for those of her hostess. The visitor is on vacation, but her hostess is not—not by a long way.

* * *

THE VISITING MOTHER who assumes the "I'm-on-vacation-attitude!" seats herself in a comfortable chair in the shade and leaves to her hostess the cares of the household and the children, will have a brief welcome. If she wants to return at a future time she has taken the way to make that impossible.

Unless children have been trained to behave nicely in the house, going visiting with them is next to impossible. The child who makes a habit of screaming at mealtime, those who dance on beds and chairs, who interrupt their elders constantly, should not be inflicted on helpless hosts. They should be kept at home until they have been housebroken.

Babies should be kept at home. Only under dire necessity should they be taken on long journeys. They are likely to suffer from fatigue. They might be exposed also to disease and danger. Babies' place is in the home with their mothers. Meanwhile they can be trained so that entertaining the family can be a pleasure to all concerned.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A YOUNG woman writes: "About a month ago I broke my engagement and returned the ring to my fiance. This past week I received a letter from his mother demanding that I return the hope chest he had given me for my birthday and that I also return the presents given me by friends at a party which followed the engagement. I do not feel I am required to return the hope chest and gifts. In fact, some of the more personal gifts have already been used. I feel certain I have every right to say 'no' to her demands, but I would appreciate reassurance from you."

I think very definitely the hope chest should be returned to your ex-fiance and other gifts intended for your future home returned to those who gave them to you. Personal items which have been put into use could not be returned.

* * *

DEAR MRS. POST: When after-dinner coffee, not demi tasse, is served in the living room without cream, is it proper to ask the hostess for a little cream? I like coffee, but cannot drink it black and as it is served this way in many houses to which I go, I was wondering if I might ask to have some cream?

Answer: If the hostess is a relative or very intimate friend, you might ask, but you can't ask otherwise.

How to Check and Choose Pillows

By Elizabeth Hillyer

IF a pillow can't support its own weight, how can it be expected to support a sleepy head?

Test the condition of the pillows the family sleeps on by placing them one by one, on your out-stretched fingertips. If the pillow droops, the feathers have matted and it has outlived its usefulness.

Only if the pillow keeps its shape and is light and buoyant is it the important accessory it should be to a deeply comfortable night's sleep.

What kind of pillow should you buy? The best pillow filling is a combination of waterfowl feathers and down.

The naturally curled waterfowl feathers provide resilience and the down provides fluffy softness.

Landfowl feathers are stiffer and must be artificially curled. This curl straightens and the feathers mat more quickly and shorten the useful life of the pillow.

All-down pillows are luxurious but their extreme softness limits the support they can give.

The new waterfowl and down filled pillow sketched has a special feature. An extra envelope of down is stitched on each side of the ticking for added comfort and luxury.

Now's a good time to make plans—before you begin to shop for new furniture. Send for Elizabeth Hillyer's leaflet, "Seven Point Plan for Home Furnishings Buying," and profit by expert advice. The leaflet is yours for the asking and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent with your request to Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch.

Vacation Role in a Marriage

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

FOR MOST OF us husbands there is no problem concerning whether we will take our wives on our annual vacation jaunts. In fact, it wouldn't occur to most of us that there is any way to take a vacation except together.

But there are others who give considerable thought to the separate vacation thing — husband going one way and wife the other—and it is easy to imagine that it causes no little ruckus in those homes.

* * *

MRS. O'K. has run up against this "modern" idea as she and her husband begin to make summer plans:

"But we have struck a snag right at the start," she says, "because my husband thinks we ought to go separate ways. We have been married four years, and each summer we have gone off somewhere together. I've always had a wonderful time, it's been the bright spot of the year for me, and I supposed it had been for my husband, too. But he says some of the men in the office want him to go on a fishing trip with them. They are not going to take their wives, so he couldn't take me. He says this means a great deal to him in every way, and that I can go visit my parents. I'm heartbroken. Don't you think husbands and wives ought to take their vacations together, Dr. Popenoe?"

* * *

IN GENERAL, yes, Mrs. O'K., and it's a matter on which a great many husbands ought to do some serious thinking. Some of them remind me a little too much of the story about the Scotsman (from Aberdeen, no doubt) who encountered an old acquaintance at Niagara Falls and explained that he was there on his honeymoon.

"Where's your bride?"

"Oh, I left her at home," the Scot explained. "She had been here before."

Vacations together are one of the most desirable ways for husband and wife to grow closer together and get new things in common to think and talk about. They should be planned carefully for that purpose. But suppose, as perhaps in the case of Mrs. O'K., that there is some particularly important event that means a great deal to him, and to which it is really impossible for him to take his wife? In that event he must plan for enough other events with her, during the year, to make up for this.

* * *

THE RULE IS, then, that long vacations should be taken together by husband and wife. (For most of us, of course, a long vacation means two weeks.) On the other hand, frequent short vacations may well be taken apart. Every wife should get away from home overnight, or for a weekend, once in a while in order to get a new perspective. If her husband is the right kind, she'll appreciate him more when she returns.

Husbands need to get away, occasionally, for short periods, to get similar perspective. It is even desirable to plan for such brief separations.

But take long vacations together—or if they must be separate, then adequate substitutes must be worked out, in compensation, at other times of the year. This matter is more important to marriage than many people realize. Think it over carefully from this point of view, Mr. and Mrs. O'K.

—My Day—

Canceled Journey

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

ON the morning of Thursday, July 1, the day I was to have started my trip to the Soviet Union under the sponsorship of Look magazine, I held a press conference, at which TV was also represented, and explained why the editors of Look and I had come to the conclusion that I must cancel the trip.

Mrs. Roosevelt

To repeat what I told you in my preceding column, we had made application, over 90 days ago, for visas for myself, for my secretary and for Look's European editor, William Attwood, whose assistance I would need on the trip. When no visa was obtained for Mr. Attwood, Look applied for one for another of its men, Whitman Bassow, thinking that his name might be more acceptable to the Russians. Nothing came through, so the trip was canceled at the last minute. I explained all this at the press conference on the morning of July 1.

* * *

THAT AFTERNOON, at 3:30, I reached my office at the American Association for the United Nations to be told that a message had just come through saying that Mr. Bassow could have a visa. How the Soviet Union expected Mr. Bassow to get this visa, pack for a trip he had not intended to take, and catch a plane at 4 p.m. was a little difficult to understand!

In any case, by that time, our tickets had all been canceled and it would have taken several days to make new traveling arrangements. I phoned Look and we decided that, for this year at least, the trip was definitely canceled and must remain canceled. I will not again be free of commitments until next spring, and I do not know that the magazine will be interested in sponsoring a trip at that time.

* * *

I AM SORRY about this change of plans, for it would have been extremely interesting to have a chance to see something of Russia and its people.

I always like people, and there might be a chance that, if one looked at a country objectively, one could see things in the light of history which would make one understand better the attitude taken even by a government which, on the whole, seems difficult for us to understand.

I must say I am a little mystified by the workings of the Soviet government, which gives you something but which gives it so late that you can't possibly make use of it! The ways of the Soviet government always seem to be mysterious.

For the time being, however, I rejoice that I have a whole month in which I ca ndo as I please. I came up to Hyde Park Thursday afternoon with a rejoicing family and two very happy little dogs!

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Let's Go Down to the Store!"

WE speak of storing furniture, as our ancestors spoke of having a good store of food for the winter. Stores for the Army are supplies, provisions. What may be in store for us at any given time has long been the subject of discussion among English-speaking people. And then there is the American colloquialism, to set store by.

The phrase needs no explanation in the light of the importance of the stores which were formerly indispensable provisions. All this is orthodox vernacular, going back to the Old English "stor" or "stoor," signifying provisions or supplies. Chaucer wrote of "His swine, his horse, his stoor, and his poultry."

Then there is our allusion to "going to the store"—the store as a shop where things are purchased, as our correspondent reminds us. This is native American, but not exclusively so, as it has long been no less indigenous with English-speaking people of areas in the British Commonwealth.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

MORE and more players have taken up the habit of opening with one club on a three-card suit, with the fond hope of avoiding bidding-embarrassment at their next turn. Whatever is to be said for or against this practice, the PARTNER must take full cognizance of it and act in accordance. Let's look at a typical case:

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	North
	♠A762 ♥A83 ♦QJ4 ♣K52
West ♠J85 ♥J94 ♦A763 ♣Q108		East ♠K103 ♥Q1065 ♦1098 ♣A97
	South ♠Q94 ♥K72 ♦K52 ♣J643

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	2♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

East opened the diamond 10; West won and returned the suit. Declarer (North) found it easy enough to collect two diamond tricks, two hearts and two spades, but he found it very difficult, in fact impossible, to get more than one trump trick, and so the modest contract was down one.

It is a fair observation that thousands of players would respond exactly as South did to the one-club opening, yet logical analysis proves it is an unwise response. The far more practical and constructive response is one no-trump.

Many players have the false idea that the raise to two clubs offers North more encouragement, and that South is justified in this effort by his holding. One no-trump as the response to one club is in an entirely different category from the same response to one spade, one heart, or (to a lesser extent) even one diamond. Experts do not bid one no-trump when their partner opens with a club unless they have a fairly good hand, because this response shuts out one heart and one spade and often results in the bidding's reaching a higher level. Obviously, the responder will not allow the bidding to reach that higher level unless he has fairly good support. Thus, with a WEAKER hand than South's, an expert would bid one diamond, not one no-trump, and by that token the fact that he does choose to bid a no-trump is sufficiently revealing.

Observe that in this case South could easily make one no-trump — which is precisely where the auction should end. South's flat distribution did not warrant a voluntary two-level contract.

Some Picnic Health Hints

By J. Earl Smith, M.D.

St. Louis Health Commissioner

SUMMERTIME is picnic time. A picnic that starts out as a happy occasion can end in disaster unless proper precautions are taken to safeguard food against contamination.

Food poisoning is most frequently caused from bacteria passed onto food and allowed to grow there. Foods most commonly found to be the offender in hot weather are: ham, poultry, pastries and puddings containing milk and eggs, and salads made from meat, fish, eggs and potatoes.

* * *

FOLLOW these simple precautions and enjoy your picnic:

Wash hands thoroughly before handling food, and be sure all dishes, cooking utensils, etc., are clean. After thorough washing with a good detergent, utensils should be immersed for at least two minutes in a chlorine solution. This solution may be made, using directions on the label, from such laundry bleaches as Purex, Chlorox, B-K Zonite, etc.

Persons suffering from festering cuts, pimples, boils, head colds, diarrhea, or "summer complaint" should never assist in the preparation of food. Most food poisoning organisms are found to be connected with these conditions.

Refrigerator temperatures above 50 degrees Fahrenheit are dangerous for food storage. Don't put perishable foods in a warm camp refrigerator. These boxes are usually too small to hold enough ice to bring the temperature low enough for safe storage. If this is the case a small piece of dry ice may be used with the wet ice.

* * *

HOT OR WARM FOOD that is to be kept for any length of time must be cooled to below 50 degrees Fahrenheit as rapidly as possible. Usual cooking virtually destroys all disease producing bacteria which are carried by insects, rodents and by hands, coughs and sneezes of the cook.

Wash all fruit and vegetables thoroughly before eating to remove any insect spray or other possible contamination.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1.

ONE writer says they are good providers, know what they want, dress well, are mature and have decided characteristics, have fine appetites, with slight indigestion. Bosh. As a rule, with exceptions, such men are selfish, self-centered, want their own way, feel inferior and make poor husbands.

Answer to Question 2.

No, and don't care. But they steal from neighbors; deprive widows, old people and orphans of aid; keep young people from education; reduce money to prevent juvenile delinquency; send some adults to the electric chair; increase bad roads, highway accidents and deaths—indeed rob themselves of a happy world to live in. Tax scoundrels, remember this!

Answer to Question 3.

When a boy kisses a girl in East Germany, she is expected to "speed up production" and "feel gratitude to the Communist government for price cuts in consumer goods," according to a Reuters dispatch. In one case, when Siegfried kissed Sieglinde, "her eyes shone like two rivets on his machine, and she gave him a glance as if she were checking the oil lever of a gearbox." Seigfried said, "Let us prepare an agenda." Grand and glorious!

For a copy of the booklet, "How to Pick a Mate," send 15 cents (coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope (give name of city and state) to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, care of the Post-Dispatch.

Original Hollywood Pattern

Fabric suggestions: Pique, broadcloth, faille, tissue taffeta, rayon crepe, lightweight woolens and all cottons, shantungs, silks, rayons, etc.

Weather conditions as of 1:30 a.m., C.D.T., July 3. Temperature figures show average for area. Arrows denote wind flow; shaded areas indicate rain. Barometric highs and lows in inches. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Continued hot weather and the likelihood of occasional thundershowers during the long Fourth of July weekend were forecast for the St. Louis area today by Assistant Meteorologist A. A. Rausch. He predicted temperatures in the upper 90s for today, tomorrow and Monday.

There was heavy rain yesterday from the Dakotas eastward over the Great Lakes, but last night's electrical storm gave St. Louis only .16 of an inch. That brought the year's total to 11.94, compared with normal precipitation of 20.08 for the period since Jan. 1.

"As long as we have this low pressure area over the Central States, with winds from the south and southwest, it just can't get any cooler," Rausch said. The highest reading in the nation yesterday was 110 at Needles, Calif., Fort Worth, Tex., and Kansas City had 100, while Memphis, Tenn., had 102.

SOVIET MILITARY MISSION REPORTED IN GUATEMALA

OAKLAND, Calif., July 3 (AP)—John K. Chapel, news director of radio station KLX, said yesterday an 18-member Russian military mission reached Guatemala eight days before the revolution started.

Chapel returned this week from a trip through Guatemala. He was there at the height of the fighting.

In an interview, Chapel, who speaks Russian, said he learned that the 18-member Russian mission, headed by a general, arrived secretly in Guatemala City on June 10. He said the purpose of the group apparently was to direct strategy for the pro-Communist government which fell this week.

U.S. SELLS VIRGIN ISLANDS PWA HOTEL FOR $410,000

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior McKay announced yesterday the sale of the Government-owned 48-room Bluebeard's Castle Hotel in the Virgin Islands for $410,000.

The Antilles Enterprises, a Virgin Islands corporation, paid $75,000 down and agreed to pay the rest within 20 years with 3 per cent interest.

The hotel, built in 1934 as a public works project, was leased to private concerns until last September when the Government decided to sell it. It overlooks the town of Charlotte Amalie and its harbor on St. Thomas island.

E. V. MOSEE IS OUSTED AS HEAD OF HOSPITAL

No Reason Given by People's Board of Directors — Served 10 Years.

The dismissal of Elmer V. Mosee as administrator of People's Hospital after 10 years of service was learned yesterday. No reason was given.

John E. Anderson, president of the hospital's board of directors, refused to comment on the action, but said the dismissal was in "the best interest of the hospital," which is for Negroes. He said the board had deliberated for more than a month before a formal announcement was made.

Mosee, Negro, 1250 Laclede Station road, Richmond Heights, said he was shocked at the news. "I have worked over 41 years, always in responsible positions including positions with the Federal Government in the Post Office Department," he said. "I cannot understand it."

The letter from the board informed Mosee that he "no longer functioned as its direct representative in the management of People's Hospital." The dismissal letter was sent a week after he had been asked for his resignation.

At the sixtieth annual meeting of the board of directors last May, Everett W. Jones of Chicago, vice president of the Modern Hospital Publishing Co., condemned the recently adopted constitution and by-laws of the institution as being outmoded and criticized the practice of placing staff doctors on the board.

Mosee was deputy circuit clerk for 10 years before being appointed administrator. He was the hospital's representative in obtaining Federal funds for construction of a new building and was also instrumental in acquiring the present premises, 2221 Locust street.

HAYS ASSAILS SECRECY IN PROBE OF FOUNDATIONS

Democrat Says G.O.P. Barred Public Sessions Because of 'Reprehensible Attacks.'

WASHINGTON, July 3 (UP)—Representative Wayne L. Hays (Dem.), Ohio, said today "high Administration people" intervened to kill stormy public hearings on tax-free foundations.

"I understand certain actions were taken to make sure that the investigation was pushed from public view because of the reprehensible attacks against outstanding American foundations," Hays told a reporter.

Chairman B. Carroll Reece (Rep.), Tennessee, announced yesterday that the special House committee had voted to cancel further public sessions because of Hays's "obstruction." The group is investigating tax-free foundations like those of Ford, Rockefeller and Carnegie to see whether they are helping subversive or "un-American" causes.

Vote Is 3 to 2.

The vote to halt the public hearings was three to two on party lines, with Republicans voting against further open hearings. Further testimony will be taken in secret or in the form of sworn written statements to the committee.

Reece denied that Republican leaders had asked him to call off the hearings which have been marked by bitter wrangling between Hays and Reece.

Hays previously had charged that the investigation was a deliberate attempt by one group of Republicans to "smear" another group of Republicans.

Reece hotly denied the charge. "It's another diversionary move on his (Hays) part to frustrate the hearings," he said. Reece is a former G.O.P. national chairman and supporter of the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Verdict Before Evidence.

Hays has said the investigation is an "Alice in Wonderland" affair where the verdict is brought in before the evidence.

Hays referred to testimony by committee staff members who said that the tax-free foundations, in collaboration with educational and academic groups, had helped promote socialistic and "collectivistic" ideas and promoted the "revolution" of the 1930s.

Reece, citing Hays's alleged "obstruction," said Hays "within three hours and five minutes interrupted a witness 246 times."

"There was not only delay but considerable frustration in presenting evidence," Reece said.

No representatives of foundations have testified so far, and all but one or two witnesses have been critical of the foundations.

PRAVDA SAYS U.S., BRITAIN CAN'T HEAL DIFFERENCES

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP)—Pravda said today the latest conference between Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower showed that Britain and the United States could not reconcile their differences.

The Communist party newspaper, commenting on this week's Washington conference in a front-page editorial, predicted "future aggravations" of the "contradictions" in the system of free world alliances.

Failure to include France in the discussions indicate that Britain and America regard their ally as a third-rate power, Pravda said.

FORD FINDS SOVIET CARS 'NOT VERY IMPRESSIVE'

COPENHAGEN, July 3 (AP)—Henry Ford II today inspected Russian automobiles at a Soviet industrial fair here and found them "not very impressive."

Ford, in Copenhagen on his European business trip, looked the Soviet cars over thoroughly. He inspected the engines and sat at the wheel of a Pobjeda, Moskvich and Zim.

"They are obviously about the same type of cars we made some 20 years ago," Ford said. Pointing at the big Zim, Ford added: "At least, this one is the kind of car I drove in 1939."

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, July 3 (USDA Weekly Review of Livestock Market).

Bulls went unchanged, high Choice and Prime vealers advancing $1.00, with Commercial to low Choice kinds losing early strength to close weak to $1.00 lower. High Choice and Prime 872-1280-lb. steers and Prime 1006-lb. mixed steers and heifers topped at $24.00. Choice steers bulked $22@23.50, a few loads $23.65@23.75. Good and Choice heifers and mixed yearlings bulked $18.50@22.50, Utility and Commercial $11.50@17.50. Most Utility and Commercial cows claimed $9.50@12. Utility and Commercial bulls bulked $13@14.50. High Choice and Prime vealers scored $19@21, Good and Choice largely $14@18, Commercial and low Good $10@13, Culls $7@8.

All weights of sows and barrows and gilts finished the week 25 to 50c higher. Top for the week was $25.60 for several loads Friday, the low top for the week being $24.75 on Monday and Wednesday. For the week, bulk of 180 to 240 lbs. sold at $24@25.25, 240 to 270 lbs. $23@24.50, 270 to 300 lbs. $21.25@23.50, 150 to 170 lbs. $23@24.50. Sows sold late up to $20.50@20.75 but for the week, bulk sows, 400 lbs. down, brought $18.50@20.25, heavier sows $15.50@18.

Heaviest receipts of the year and a high percentage of dry-weather off-grade lambs forced prices into a $1.50-3.00 decline. Choice and Prime held up best. Culls were as much as $4 lower on the close. Late top was $22.00 but sizable number reached $23.00 early. Nearly half the run sold from $3.00 to $11.00 under the top. Roughly 40 per cent of springers were Choice and Prime at $22@23; 30 per cent were Good and Choice at $20@21.50 and another 30 per cent were Cull to Good at $12@18; a few Culls down to $10.00 and below. STOCK WEEK MARKED BY BEAR ROUTING

Starts in Du Pont Which Rises 15½ Points and Extends to Other Issues.

NEW YORK, July 3 (UP) — Du Pont, the nation's leading chemical company, soared to a new high this week and led the industrial average to a new top since Oct. 17, 1929. Utilities set a new high since Aug. 15, 1931. Rails alone of the major groups closed the week with a loss—a mere 89 cents.

Trading averaged 2,053,35[illegible] shares daily, not much different from previous week's average of 2,064,802 shares.

Industrial shares gained 5.1[illegible] points and utilities gained 44c. A week ago the former rose 4.62 points and the rails rose 1.74 points.

On Monday, Du Pont soared 15½ points and thereby added $704,541,449 to the valuation of its 45,454,287 shares outstanding. The reason for the rise was a mystery when it occurred. Later it developed the reason was a bear squeeze.

Bears Are Routed.

That bear squeezing got to be a regular sport later in the week and some stocks soared widely as the poor bruins were caught in the pincers of the buyers.

Du Pont subsequently fell 9 points from its high and later in the week rose again. Its net gain for the week amounted to 11½ points, the outstanding rise of the week.

General Motors, of which Du Pont holds 20,000,000 shares, also was a strong spot. It netted 4⅛ points on the week. Chrysler rose 2⅝ points. Automobile production was down moderately because of some weekend shutdowns.

There were several other wide gainers. For example, United Aircraft selling ex-distribution shares of Chance-Vought netted a rise of 5¼ points. U.S. Gypsum gained 6½ points. Douglas Aircraft gained 6 points. Johns-Manville rose 3½ in the building issues and Goodrich was up 3 in the tires. General Electric and Westinghouse rested at small losses.

Oil Makes Comeback.

Oil shares were hard hit for a time on their top-heavy inventory situation. They came back sharply from the lows. The leaders closed the week barely changed. Steels rose when peace was obtained in the industry with a new wage contract. U.S. Steel was up a point on the week. Pacific Mills spurted when it was learned Lowenstein & Sons was bidding for the company.

From time to time the market was nettled by action of the Senate on items in the new technical tax bill. It was particularly worried over action in eliminating most of the relief on double tax of dividends. But it finally overcame this hurdle on the belief that investment demand for the best grade issues would continue.

The tax news hurt the market on Wednesday when the industrial average fell more than three points. It quickly made up the loss, however, and continued its advance.

June Closes Higher.

Even with the drop on the last day of the month the market closed higher for June, rounding out the sixth consecutive monthly rise so far this year. The market at the end of the month was 27 per cent higher than it was at the close of last Sept. 14 when the list made new lows for a long time.

There was some bear covering in the final session of the week. There will be a long interval before the next session since the market will remain closed on Monday for celebration of Independence day.

EXCHANGES CLOSE MONDAY

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

When CHARLES ALEXANDER STEWART absconded with funds from a bank in Philadelphia, he placed CARNEY WILDE'S detective career in jeopardy. Wilde was responsible for the security policing of the bank. It was up to him, now, to find the thief who had disappeared after killing a policeman in the course of his flight. Wilde's troubles mount when his girl, JANE GRODNICK, elopes with his friend, PENN [illegible]WELL. Jane's father, CAPT. GRODNICK of the local police, is as displeased with the match as is Carney, but they bow to the girl's choice. A slim clue, a mere scrap of paper, sends Wilde on his way to New Orleans aboard a river boat making a luxury cruise to the Mardi Gras.

CHAPTER SIX.

I SAID: "We'll have to talk with Miss Pomeroy. But first I want to get into that room." I tapped Russell's arm. "Can you get her up here for a while and keep her while I go through her room?"

"Could, I guess," Russell muttered. He eyed Grenier, waiting for the pursuer's reaction.

Grenier hesitated. "We make a policy of not snooping. And how could you get into her room?"

I said: "This man Stewart is a murderer. You know that I can get into Miss Pomeroy's room by using the key you're going to give me."

Russell broke in: "I'll tell her you want to check on her reservation. I can say we didn't get word from the office before we left."

"You could have her fill out a form, maybe," I added. "Or just ask her for a lot of personal information. Tell her you need it for your insurance coverage. That sounds plausible. But be sure you keep her here."

Slowly Grenier picked up a dull brass key. "I've never done anything like this before, Mr. Wilde," he said.

"Don't worry," I said quickly. "I'll be careful. Maybe if Russell can hustle her out fast, she'll forget to lock the door and I won't need the key."

When we approached the room, Russell drew in a deep breath. "Better get back with the crowd till you see us come out," he said softly. He stepped forward and rapped on the louvered door.

"Purser's assistant, ma'am," he called out.

I drifted back along the hall. When the door finally opened Russell saluted informally. I was almost halfway back to the staircase when Russell and Miss Pomeroy passed me. I pivoted quickly and walked back down the corridor toward bedroom five.

* * *

MISS POMEROY stood tautly poised like a fencer, both feet squarely on the floor, her knees slightly bent, her whole body concentrated on the gun she held pointed toward my belt buckle. Dark eyebrows were pulled into a straight line and her full, soft mouth was thinned with tension.

I wasn't going to jump the gun, but I was thinking how easy it would be if I didn't have a bad shoulder. And if my nerve had been better. She stepped back briskly, as if she could read my thoughts.

"We need more light," she said, almost to herself. She fumbled along the wall for the switch, her eyes never once leaving mine. I shifted my weight slowly to both feet, but I kept my right hand flat on top of the trunk, blinking my eyes when bright overhead lights came on.

Miss Pomeroy wore a heather tweed suit; cut to fit snugly on her tall, slim body. I could see a small triangle of blue sweater at the neck. She was very tall for a woman, five-feet-nine, possibly more, but she still wore high heels on her cordovan pumps.

"What are you doing here?" The voice dwindled to a soft whisper, with none of its previous harshness. She was lovely, I thought.

"The empty trunk," I said. "The purser was curious about it. There's a fugitive we think might be on board and we—"

"And you," Miss Pomeroy said, "represent the purser."

"Sure," I said stupidly.

"That's a lie," she snapped, and any hint of unsureness was gone from her voice. "You're a private detective from Philadelphia. Your name is Carney Wilde and you're a very rough fellow. Oh, I know you, Mr. Carney Wilde. All about you. Now I think we'll call whatever passes for police on this boat."

The bewilderment was all mine now. I muttered, staring at her, "How do you—"

"I took your picture once," she said, watching me warily while her left hand moved in long swift arcs across the wall, searching for the telephone. "You were quite the man of the hour, all because you had beat a confession out of some poor young man. The cops all thought you were fine."

"I never beat a confession out of anybody," I said hotly.

"Not even Gerald Dodge?" she asked, her lips scornful.

"Not even Dodge," I growled. "We proved he was a murderer, three times a murderer."

* * *

THE telephone was on the other side of the door from her and she was getting farther away with each movement.

"The phone's on the other side," I said. "The man you want is the purser. Tell him to come down here and bring Russell with him. And while you're about it, you—"

Miss Pomeroy staggered forward, almost going to her knees. Only a convulsive effort kept her on her feet. I jumped forward, stumbling against the trunk, but managing to snatch the pistol from her hand while she was still off balance.

"Russell's here. Been outside all the time."

The assistant purser tried to grin at me but wobbled into a nervous grimace. He had shoved open the door, timing it just right to stagger Miss Pomeroy.

"Good boy," I said.

Miss Pomeroy held herself erect with one hand against the wardrobe trunk. Her handbag had fallen to the floor. I went forward and picked it up.

"You hold this." I pitched the girl's pistol to Russell. I upended the handbag over the bed, shook everything out, looking for her wallet. Miss Pomeroy kept hers in a zipper compartment that was difficult to open with only one hand. Inside it was a flat packet of money, all in 50's. About $500 or $600, I guessed. With the cash was a red morocco card case and that was what I was after.

Miss E. J. Pomeroy lived in Narberth, a close-in suburb of Philadelphia. She was a member of the Camera club, the Red Cross, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Reserve Officers of Naval Services. A deck of business cards said she was also E. J. Pomeroy of E. J. Pomeroy and Associates, commercial photographers. Nothing else looked interesting in her bag except a small unset diamond in a twist of tissue. I put everything back as neatly as I could.

Then I took the gun from Russell and tossed it on to the bed.

I said to Miss Pomeroy: "What I said before is perfectly true. There may be a fugitive on board this boat. A murderer. He reserved this bedroom almost six weeks ago for this cruise. Then, at the last minute, you showed up in his place. With an empty trunk. I suppose I should go about this another way, but I was afraid that your conversation with Sgt. Kebble would have put you out of any notion of co-operating. So I asked the purser to bring you to his office while I had a look around. What brought you back so soon?"

"Couldn't figure it," Russell said. "We were halfway up the stairs when she gave a little gasp and turned around, heading back here. I couldn't catch her in time."

"Glad you came back," I said. I asked Miss Pomeroy why she had returned so quickly.

She shrugged. "The purser came a few minutes ago to look at my ticket. I assumed he would want to see it again. I'd left it in my coat, so I came back for it. And found a thug in my cabin."

I reached back for the heavy, fur-lined tweed coat, hauled it around to find the pocket and pulled out a wadded mass of papers. The top one said "Delta Lines" and it was an official receipt. I didn't look at the rest of them.

"Fair enough," I said. I got up and walked aimlessly across the floor, staring out at the dull water and the icy shoreline. "But what about the empty trunk?"

"What about it?" Miss Pomeroy snapped.

"An empty trunk is rather unusual," I said softly. "Most people going on a trip take a full one. What did you fill yours with, Miss Pomeroy?"

"Nothing."

I glanced over my shoulder at Russell. "It wasn't empty when she came aboard," he said flatly. The good humor was gone now and he turned to stare suspiciously at Miss Pomeroy.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

IF A good electron telescope is built, it will enlarge our view of the sky to an enormous extent.

Changes for the better always are possible. Let me mention one small thing which has improved some reflecting telescopes a great deal. This is a change in the coating of the mirrors.

Until a few years ago, it was supposed that a well-silvered mirror as the thing to use in a reflecting telescope. Then came men who wanted to make tests to learn whether that was the truth.

* * *

THOSE MEN made tests with aluminum. The aluminum was heated until the metal turned into a vapor. Then the glass for the mirror was placed inside a vacuum, where the aluminum vapor settled on the glass.

That work led to the aluminizing of some telescope mirrors. Aluminum coatings were applied to the gigantic 60-inch and 100-inch mirrors of the Mt. Wilson telescopes. The new type of coating improved the telescopes for most purposes.

The microscope part of a telescope is of high importance. The stronger it is, the better work it does, provided that it picks up clear images.

* * *

WE HAVE HAD microscopes for hundreds of years, but the electron microscope is the product of the last quarter of a century. German, Canadian and American scientists and inventors produced this new and far better kind of microscope.

It is hard to say what will make a perfect match between the electron microscope and the telescope. Perhaps chemists will produce an even better coating for the mirrors. The new coating may work so well that the electron microscope can be applied.

FRENCH BUTCHER OUTLASTS MINER IN EATING DUEL

ARRAS, France, July 3 (AP)—Andre Pollaert, a butcher, won the title of "Gargantua of 1954" yesterday, with a 12-egg omelet providing the margin of victory.

Pollaert and Gustave Porion, a coal miner, were the finalists. The two sat down together and polished off soup, a dish of mixed hors d'oeuvres, a flock of chicken pies, a chicken with peas, a duck garnished with cauliflower, a steak with green beans, ham and salad, cheese, three kinds of tart and a consignment of petit-fours; all washed down by appropriate wines.

With honors even at this point, they started over again on the same menu. An hour later the second meal was over but the tie was unbroken. The 12-egg omelet was produced. Pollaert went at it manfully, but Porion excused himself.

CENSUS BUREAU WILL INTERVIEW 5,500,000 FARMERS

WASHINGTON, July 3 — A nationwide farm census will begin on Oct. 1. A Census Bureau spokesman said yesterday 5,500,000 farmers would be interviewed. The last national farm census was made in 1950, covering the crop year of 1949, when 5,350,000 farmers were interviewed.

The census will seek information on crop acreage, inventories of livestock and poultry, facilities and equipment. It also will note whether farmers have television sets, food freezers, piped running water, phones and electricity.

In advance of the census, farmers will get questionnaires. Enumerators, estimated at 35,000, will call on the farmers 10 days after they receive their questionnaires to assist in filling out the forms, if necessary, and pick them up.

The census will cost $16,000,000.

RUSSIANS BLOCK JAPS TRYING TO RESCUE 14 FISHERMEN

TOKYO, July 3 (AP)—Russian troops on a foggy island once owned by Japan today refused to let a Japanese rescue ship land and pick up 14 shipwrecked fishermen.

The rescue ship radioed that two armed Russians waved it away from the Simushir island in the Kuriles with hand signals and warning flares. The island lies between Japan and Siberia.

The vessel was sent to the barren Russian-held island after the fishing boat Mikasa radioed it had run aground in dense fog. Japan sent repeated messages to the Russians asking for help for the shipwrecked fishermen, but received no answer. The Russians presumably are holding the 14 men. The rescue ship reported no sign of them.
